Liberal, Tory, C.C.F. Groups Granted Free Time on Air Under Revised C.B.C. Policy

By DARY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Dr. Augustin Frigon, acting general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said last night that the Liberal, Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties qualified for free time on the corporation's network under the CBC's revised policy of political and controversial broadcasting.

Dr. Frigon, in an interview after copies of the revised policy had been distributed at a meeting of the Common's radio committee, said the three parties will be allotted one half-hour of free time per month over a CBC network. The revised policy comes into effect immediately.

Under the new policy, with three parties qualifying for free time, the Liberals will receive two hours and 24 minutes annually while the Conservatives and C.C.F. will each get one hour and 48 minutes.

TEN-MONTH TOTAL

Dr. Frigon said over a 10-month period, for instance, the Liberals would receive four half-hour periods while the Conservatives and C.C.F. parties each would get three half-hour periods.

One party will be allotted one half-hour one month and another party a half-hour the following month in the proper ratio, Dr. Frigon said. The parties will be obliged to use the time allotted to them as it is allocated and will not be allowed to build up free time for a lengthy speech by a party leader.

No free time will be allotted to the New Democracy party or to the Bloc Populaire Party which have small representations in the House of Commons, Dr. Frigon said, because they failed to meet

For Leadership

Premier Won't Be Candidate At Convention

Premier Ernest Manning announced in Edmonton Thursday that he will not be a candidate for national leadership of the Social Credit movement at the party's convention in Toronto, to be held on April 4, 5 and 6.

Eastern reports have suggested recently that the premier is a possible choice for the national leadership, along with several others prominent in the movement. Mr. Manning said he "definitely would not be a candidate for the leadership."

His statement follows:

"I have already advised those who have honored me by asking that they might sponsor me for the national leadership, that I do not intend to let my name go before the convention. The active leadership of the rapidly growing national Social Credit movement on which the future security of Canada may well depend will be more than a full time job for the man who is selected.

"My present duties and responsibilities as premier of this province require all of my time and effort and will continue to have both as long as I am privileged to serve the people of Alberta in this capacity.

"During the past ten years I have come to know and to respect the citizens of Alberta above all others. On two successive occasions they have honored me by electing me to the Alberta legislature, and at the request of their representatives I have been called to the premiership.

CONTINUE TO SERVE

"Under these circumstances I intend to continue to serve the people of Alberta to the best of my ability as long as they desire me to do so and, therefore I do not propose to forsake my present sphere of public service for the purpose of entering the national political field.

"Furthermore I am satisfied that the delegates to the convention will have in mind other and better men from whom to select a national leader."

U.S. Planes Raid Jap Base at Truk

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Army bombers attacked Truk shortly before dawn yesterday, hitting airframe installations and ammunition storage areas on two islands at that big Japanese naval base.

Direct Vote Plan Urged For Troops

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—The Commons elections committee decided today to recommend direct voting as against proxy voting for members of Canada's armed forces in the next Federal election.

The recommendation included a rider allowing other than direct voting in such cases as the committee might decide. This would cover the possibility of proxy voting for Canadian prisoners of war.

The committee also decided to recommend that the voting would be for candidate by name and constituency rather than by party.

The committee's decisions were reached after three army colonels said they were against the proxy system. The officer said the troops think "it is a heck of a way to vote."

Representatives of the Navy and R.C.A.F. previously had appeared before the committee and stated flatly that unless some type of proxy voting was introduced many of Canada's servicemen would be deprived of their franchise.

Table Agreements

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Mutual aid agreements with the United Kingdom, Australia and the Soviet Union will be tabled tonight in the Commons, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced.

Sees China Economic Force in Post-War Era

"It is my firm belief that China will be the economic salvation of the American continent and Europe in the post war period, General Morris Cohen, former Edmontonian, stated on his arrival here Thursday for a short stop over on his way to the Pacific coast.

Bronzed and healthy, showing little trace of his 21-month sojourn in a Japanese concentration camp, General Cohen spent Thursday morning renewing acquaintanceship. He had breakfast at Johnson's Cafe and was greeted there by many who knew him before he went to China.

"Canadians can be very proud of the stand made by her troops at Hong Kong," he said. "For 18 days the whole force of the island, not more than 7,000 strong, with civilian volunteers, withstood the onslaughts from the air, from the sea and on land hurled at them by a Japanese force of more than 75,000."

He had little to say about his experiences in the prison camp, but was loud in his praise of the International Red Cross, the state department of Canada, and Canadian immigration authorities. He said that all repatriates on the Swedish liner Gripsholm gained a pound daily on the voyage from Japan to Canada.

Commenting on future trade with China, he said that "it does not take a great economist to LONDON, March 16.—Powerful fleets of American planes smashed at southern Germany today in the wake of R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and Australian bombers which strewed more than 3,300 tons of explosives across the Reich and occupied territory last night in the heaviest aerial assault of all time.

Official reports indicated British, Dominion and American forces had delivered their most destructive one-two punch. The focal point of both mighty assaults was southern Germany, the R.A.F. Bomber Command having dropped 2,800 tons of bombs on the big aircraft and transport centre of Stuttgart alone.

R.C.A.F. headquarters disclosed that Canadian bombers participating in the big night assault were approximately 20 per cent greater in number than in any previous raid on enemy territory. Of the total of 41 aircraft lost in the operations over Germany, eight were Canadian.

Other R.C.A.F. Halifax squadrons attacked railway targets at Amiens in France.

BIG ALLIED ESCORT

R.A.F., Dominion and Allied fighters in "great strength escorted the U.S. bombers," the air force communique said, the preliminary announcement said.

The great formations of R.A.F. and Dominion four-engined bombers dropped 2,800 tons of bombs alone on the great aircraft engine centre and communications point which is in southwest Germany, and distributed the remaining 500 tons among Munich, unspecified targets in northwest Germany and the French "western front" railway junction of Aimens. Forty bombers were lost.

Weather prevented immediate observation of results of the heavy attack on Stuttgart, but the air min-

After Plane Crash

U.S. Flier Survives 84 Days Lost in North

Victorious in a grim, lonely battle against the cruel, relentless natural forces of the wintry Alaskan wastelands without precedent in the history of the northwest, a young United States Army Air Force flier is safe after 84 days in the sub-Arctic wilds, following a plane crash 250 miles northeast of Fairbanks on Dec. 22 last.

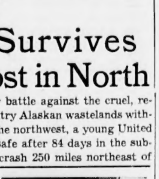

The airman, 1st Lt. Leon Crane, 24 years old, of 5464 Baltimore avenue, Philadelphia, returned to Ladd Field, Alaska, on Tuesday of this week and the story of his bitter, lone struggle against biting winter cold and maddening solitude, is another gripping chapter in the unfolding drama of modern man's increasingly successful struggle to subdue the great last northwest.

Story of the ordeal of Lt. Crane was released here Thursday by Lt.-Col. Harry J. Kieling, chief of staff of The Alaskan Wing of the U.S.A.A.F. Transport Command.

Lt. Crane was one of five army airmen aboard a four-engined Liberator bomber that went out of control on a test flight from Ladd Field, Alaska, on Dec. 22.

Crane baled out of the spinning machine at about 15,000 feet. As he

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 16.—A savage battle raged through the blackened ruins of Cassino today and official reports said Allied tanks, infantry and artillery were slowly crushing a fanatical band of German gunners who crept back last night to defend the bombed and shell-torn wreckage of their mountain stronghold.

As the Allied armor closed in for the kill, fierce fighting exploded on the Anzio beachhead 40 miles to the north where American troops lashed out in a sudden attack southeast of Aprilia, following a similar drive by British troops on the left flank.

The German beachhead lines swayed perilously under the fury of the assault, and observers speculated that the British and Americans might have launched a major drive to coincide with the big push at Cassino.

Front reports said the Allied tanks and assault troops were forc-

Plan Establish 10 Scholarships At University

Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University of Alberta, said Wednesday night that the $100,000 scholarship endowment gift to the university by Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, has been received.

Ten Viscount Bennett scholarships averaging $300 each, and various prizes will be awarded for the academic year beginning in the fall of 1944. They will be on a competitive basis, including academic attainments, good character and satisfactory personal qualities.

He pointed out, however, that the endowment is limited to students at the University who have lived for at least five consecutive years in Calgary, or within 20 miles of the city, or in Banff National Park.

Scholarships may be held in any year and in any chosen course, but preference may be given to students who have successfully completed one or more years of university work.

APPLY TO REGISTRAR

Candidates for 1944-45 should apply to the registrar of the University of Alberta before April 13, 1944. Applications for 1945-46 should be filed before March 13, 1945.

Applicants should include the names and addresses of three persons for references as to character

P-51 Mustang Said World's Fastest Plane

INGLEWOOD, Calif., March 16.—(AP) — North American Aviation, Inc., said yesterday it had war department permission to disclose that its P-51 Mustang fighter is the world's fastest airplane.

It said the war department also listed the Mustang as the top performer for ceiling and range, and declared it is capable of level flight in excess of 425 miles an hour and a tactical radius of action of well over 500 miles. Its four-bladed propeller, powered by a Packard-built Rolls Royce Merlin engine, lifts the plane above 40,000 feet.

By increasing its fuel capacity and speed, company engineers have enabled the Mustang to support Allied heavy bombers beyond the 1,100-mile round trip distance between London and Berlin, the announcement added.

R.C.A.F. Loads Heavier Than Nazis in Blitz

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

LONDON, March 16.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Air Force's bomber group now is delivering a bombload substantially in excess of the tonnage dropped by the Luftwaffe in any single raid during their heaviest attacks on British cities.

This was revealed today when it was told that at least 12 Canadian Lancaster and Halifax squadrons were included in last night's great raids on Stuttgart and Munich in Germany and Amiens in France.

The Canadian effort, which cost eight planes, was at least 20 per cent. greater than on any previous sortie by squadrons in the group.

Airmen taking part in the Stuttgart attack included FO. Gus Utas of Lacombe, Alta.

Masked Gunmen Get $215 in Loot

WINNIPEG, March 16.—(CP)—Three masked gunmen, armed with revolvers, held up the assistant manager and three employees of the Standard Produce Company here yesterday. They escaped with $215 taken from the pockets of the employees.

Daylight Alert

LONDON, March 16.—(BUP)—London had its first daylight air raid alarm in almost a month today, but the alert ended within a short time and no anti-aircraft fire could be heard in the capital.

Time Needed

To Release All Beer Available From Breweries

All the available beer which breweries can supply is to be released to the public immediately, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, said in a statement released here Thursday.

He pointed out that the breweries have been caught unawares by the "sudden reversal of policy on the part of Prime Minister Mackenzie King" and although well stocked with brew, must age beer for at least three months. "Therefore, it may be a month or two before the existing quotas can be raised," Mr. Low said.

"Restrictions on bottle-tops are still enforced by the metals controller, and breweries are limited to 80 per cent of their 1943 supplies. This condition may likewise restrict somewhat the supply of bottled beer until such time as it is lifted."

DOZEN FOR MONTH

The statement continued: "The breweries have informed us that their output for March will be about 230,000 dozen pints. That will mean that there will be one dozen pints available for each of the 226,305 permit-holders registered on March 11, and an additional number who may register before the end of the month.

"Under normal conditions based on the average number of permit-holders, we would be able to increase the quota to two dozen pints per permit-holder.

"Increase in quotas of draught beer to hotels may be about ten per cent in April, as compared with an immediate increase of a much larger percentage of bottled beer to permit-holders."

It was learned Thursday that liquor vendors in the cities are now selling beer to all persons entitled to it, under the allowance of one dozen pints per month. Heretofore, persons who had bought beer in February were not entitled to any for the month of March.

Now, whether or not a person bought his dozen pints in February, he will be allowed a dozen in March.

The above is to apply in country centres also, although it may take a few days for additional supplies to reach some of these points.

Report de Valera Will Speak Friday

LONDON, March 16.—(CP-Reuters)—It was reported in London today that Premier Eamon De Valera will broadcast to Eire Friday night from Dublin. There is speculation here as to the attitude De Valera will adopt if the Allies isolate Eire. The London Evening News suggested that he may retaliate by closing down the Foynes trans-Atlantic air terminus in western Eire.

U.S. Forces to Get Many in Industry

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Industry will have to give up 200,000 to 250,000 younger men to the armed services under new regulations on occupational deferments, Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, told a senate committee yesterday in defending tightened rules for deferment of farm workers. He told the members farm workers can not be given preferred treatment.

Report Nazis Use 4-Engined Fighter

LONDON, March 16.—(BUP)—A new type of German plane—a four-engined, twin-tailed fighter—was reported by some American pilots to have risen to challenge today's United States air raid on the Reich.

O'Connor Is Head New Labor Board

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell today announced personnel of the new wartime labor relations board with Mr. Justice G. S. O'Connor of Edmonton as chairman. Mr. Justice J. N. Francoeur of Quebec City will be vice-chairman and A. R. Mosher, Ottawa, a member of the board.

Labor representatives are A. R. Mosher, Canadian Congress of Labor, Ottawa; Fred Molineux, Brotherhood of Painters, decorators and paperhangers of America (A.F.L.) Hamilton; W. La Best, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, (A.F.L.), Ottawa; and B. Hennessey, National Federation of Aluminum Workers (C.C.C.L.), St. Joseph D'Alma, Que.

Employer representatives are H. Taylor, Canadian National Carbon Co. Ltd., Toronto; W. H. Brown, Moore Corporation Ltd., Toronto; A. Deschamps, contractor, Montreal; and A. J. Hills, Canadian National Railways, Montreal.

The board will have charge of the administration of Canada's new labor code which provides compulsory collective bargaining and arbitration for all war industries and certain others. The board will also came under the industrial disputes inquiry act.

In his announcement Mr. Mitchell said it was not expected that the Board would have to sit continuously. Members will be given a per diem allowance of $20 when on business for the Board, while the chairman and vice-chairman will be allowed expenses only.

Labor Board Head Observes Birthday

Mr. Justice George B. O'Connor, who leaves here Friday to take over the chairmanship of the new Wartime Labor Relations Board, on Thursday was receiving congratulations on reaching his 61st birthday. He was born March 16, 1883.

"I have agreed to serve as chairman of the new Wartime Labor Relations Board for six months," he said. "I will do what I can to maintain good relations between employees and employers. Such relations are essential to a successful war effort."

Former City Man, David Evan Jones, Dies at Victoria

VICTORIA, March 16.—(CP)—David Evan Jones, 71, member of the Alberta Provincial Police for 13 years, died here Tuesday. Mr. Jones resided in Edmonton 24 years before coming to Victoria seven years ago. A First Great War veteran, Mr. Jones also saw service in the Boxer rebellion, in India, the Mediterranean and South Africa.

Turgeon Named As Ambassador

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, formerly of Regina, has been appointed first Canadian ambassador to Mexico, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today in the commons.

The first Mexican ambassador to Canada is Dr. Francisco Del. y Caneto.

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today in the commons that Justice C. P. McTague has resigned as chairman of the National War Labor Board.

Supply Line Cut

Nazis in Headlong Flight to Rumania

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON, March 16.—Soviet troops have broken across the main Odessa-Zhmerinka railroad line, capturing the junction town of Vapnyarka and cutting the vital supply line for the German armies in the southern Ukraine.

Premier Josef Stalin announced the Red army break-through in a special order of the day which revealed that tanks and infantrymen of Gen. Ivan S. Koney's 2nd Ukrainian army stormed and captured Vapnyarka yesterday.

The advance put Konev's flying columns within 27 miles of the Rumanian frontier and the Dniester river, the next natural defence line open to the fleeing German forces.

Striking swiftly southwestward to capitalize on their successful crossing of the Bug river, 25 miles east of Vapnyarka, the Russians were reported driving the battered Nazi columns in headlong retreat toward the Rumanian frontier.

Moscow dispatches indicated that Konev's advance has cracked the German front wide open and ended all hope in Berlin that a successful stand could be made in southern Russia.

Milder Weather To Continue Here

Balmy spring temperature and warm rain caused the rapid disappearance of snow on Wednesday. Snow on the ground was five inches deep Wednesday morning, and Thursday morning this had been reduced to one inch, according to meterological officials.

Intermittent rain and a trace of snow fell in the city during the day and temperatures rose steadily with a maximum of 42 degrees above zero, and an overnight low of 35. The weather officials forecast "cloudy weather and continuing mild."

Truck Traffic Ban Will Be Imposed

Warning that the ban on truck traffic on Alberta's highways would be put into effect within the next two weeks was issued Thursday by officials of the highway traffic board.

Truck drivers were asked to get all necessary trucking completed as soon as possible, and were asked to co-operate in the observance of any ban placed on highway traffic.

Disobedience of the ban will only delay its lifting, with maintenance costs to the government, and will certainly result in prosecution of those who do not obey the travel regulations imposed, an official stated.

Chief of Staff

NAPLES, March 16.—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. A. F. Harding, British Army, is chief of staff to Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander-in-chief in Italy, it was disclosed today.

Indian Is Charged In Double Murder

FINLAY FORKS, B.C., March 16—(CP)—Alec Prince, 22-year-old Indian trapper, today was charged with the murder of Eugene Bessmer, 33, and Hans Pfeuffer, 43. Finlay Forks trappers whose bullet-riddled bodies were found on the ice of Finlay river near here last Monday.

It was understood Prince had made a statement to police concerning the shooting of the trapline partners.

Prince is being brought to Prince George, B.C., by plane as soon as weather clears at Fort St. James in the Cariboo district where the plane was grounded yesterday. The Indian was first arrested on a "holding" charge laid under the Game Act following sale of 16 marten pelts near Finlay Forks. A $4,000 fur cache was missing from the dead trappers' cabin near the scene of the killing.

Pfeuffer and Bessmer, inseparable friends, came to Finlay Forks about a year ago from Edmonton and were well known throughout the area.

Sofia Attacked By R.A.F. Planes

NAPLES, March 16.—(AP)—R.A.F. Wellingtons attacking in force early today smashed the railroad yards of Sofia, capital of Bulgaria.

The important railway line connecting the capital with Belgrade, the capital of Yugoslavia, was believed severed by thousands of bombs, including many two-ton blockbusters dropped by the night-flying Wellingtons.

Previous attacks are known to have wrought great damage and caused a mass evacuation of the city, doubly important to Adolf Hitler's front in southern Russia now that the Red army has cut so many of his communication lines to the north.

2 United States Aerial Aces Lost Over New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 16. — (CP) — Two United States air aces were lost recently in action over New Guinea, it was announced today. They were Col. N. Kearby of San Antonio, Texas, reported missing in action, and Lt.-Col. Thomas Lyach, of Catasauqua, Penn., reported killed in action. Kearby was credited with shooting down 21 Japanese aircraft. Lynch had 19 "kills."

Allies Capture Three-Fourths Of Italo Town

CASSINO, March 16.—(CP-Reuters)—Fighting their way through hellish conditions—torrential rain, mud and an icy cold wind—Allied 5th Army troops now occupy three-quarters of Cassino. Pressing forward their attacks, which began early yesterday afternoon, the Allies took Castle Hill, at the northern entrance of the town, by dusk last night. Heaviest fighting now is taking place in the triangle where highway six enters the southern end of the ruined city.

Canada's Plan

Ottawa Stirred By U.S. Leakage Of Air Proposals

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 16.—Canada has proposed an international air plan based on the principle of functional representation open to all nations large and small alike, a principle laid down last year by Prime Minister King as the proper policy to follow in creating international organizations after the war.

Publication of main features of this plan in an American aviation newspaper in Washington caused a stir in Ottawa, for details of the plan were understood to have been furnished to the British air mission in the United States, headed by Lord Beaverbrook, confidentially and not for publication. Premature publication of details of the plan created embarrassment for the Canadian government, and it indicated how intense the conflict over future air rights and routes was becoming.

BRITISH OPPOSED

Several features of the Canadian plan are believed to be opposed by the British government whose special air envoy in the United States, Lord Beaverbrook, has been doing spade work in Washington for some months, in preparation of post war air policies proposed by Australia and New Zealand and also not favored by the British.

The Canadian proposal in-floated down to a successful landing he saw the parachute of one other member of the crew blossom out beneath him. He saw the big bomber burst into flames as it plummeted toward the snow-covered wastes and heard an explosion as the machine struck the ground behind a rocky ridge beyond his view.

No trace has as yet been found of the other four members of the stricken bomber's crew, but hopes, long abandoned for the airmen, have been revived with the return of Lt. Crane, who is himself already taking part in the renewed efforts to locate his companions, who were as follows:

Ltd. Crane thinks that the other crew all baled out, although he saw only one parachute open. Lt. Crane, who was co-pilot of the ill-fated bomber, won his first fight against the merciless northern elements in temperatures of 50 to 40 degrees below zero and for the first nine days after the crash had only water to drink and no food. Eventually he located a trapper's cabin, well stocked with food.

The young airman spent both Christmas and New Year's days alone with his despairing thoughts with no idea of where he was.

Following the banks of a small stream, he finally made his way to the cabin of a trapper and his wife near Woodchopper, Alaska, 200 miles northeast of Fairbanks.

From there he was flown to Ladd Field by a northern bush pilot named Bob Rice, who makes regular flights to the small mining camp at Woodchopper, 10 miles from the trapper's cabin.

Crane's first act on his return to Ladd Field was to call his mother and father on the telephone in Philadelphia.

"They both just sort of sputtered when they heard my voice. I could hear them at the other end of the line," he said.

It was the second time that Sgt. Pompeo had been lost in the Alaska wilds. In Jan. 1942, Pompeo, on a flight from Fairbanks to Whitehorse, was forced down in the same general area, when weather closed in.

With the sergeant on that occasion was Col. Harold R. Carr, Berkley, Cal., now stationed at headquarters of the Alaskan Air Force in Edmonton. The two men reached Fort Yukon 11 days later after being helped by a trapper.

Lt. Crane has an airman's best friend is his parachute. It kept him from freezing to death for the first nine days, he said.

Alberta, the Woodchopper trapper was the first person seen by Lt. Crane in more than two months.

Crane was commissioned a reserve second lieutenant in the Air Corps August 7, 1941 and was called to active duty on Armistice Day, 1941. He took his flight training at Maxwell Field, Alabama, and at airfields in Camden, S.C. and Blytheville, Arkansas.

He came to Ladd Field last October after serving at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio and at Wichita, Kansas.

Lt.-Col. Roger Q. Williams, who flew from New York to Rome in 1929, was in charge of the search for the missing airmen. He is stationed at Ladd Field.

Men in Services Are Close to God

"Men in the services come very close to God," Flt. Lt. W. T. Irving, padre at No. 2 A.O.S., told members of the Rotary Club at their Thursday noon luncheon meeting at the Macdonald hotel.

Lt. Irving related his personal experiences in the airmen's training program, being taught while in the ministry in the air force in April, 1941, when he was graduated from St. Stephen's College as an ordained minister.

After completing a tour of operations on the east coast, he applied for a transfer to the chaplain service.

Also on the Rotary Club program was Mayor Andy Davison of Calgary, who sang several Irish selections.

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Col. Margaret Eaton, assistant adjutant general of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, has left Ottawa for Washington, where she will inspect the C.W.A.C. barracks, it was announced last night.

Servicemen's Vote Bill Is Approved By U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Congress passed a servicemen's vote bill leaning heavily to states' rights yesterday, but President Roosevelt indicated the matter was far from settled by starting a telegraph campaign to find out how many men could vote under it.

The President wired all governors on inquiry whether they believed their state laws authorized use of supplementary federal ballots.

The President has indicated the decision on a veto depends on whether more men can vote under new legislation than under existing laws.

China to Play Leading Role Post-War Era

figure out that if the standard of living of the 500,000,000 Chinese is raised by only 10 per cent, that there is a great potential market awaiting Canadian and American exports.

That the standard of living of the Chinese will be raised was a foregone conclusion. Plans were being formulated to that purpose, and the Chines people are looking to Canada and America for assistance in this work.

He said that China has just entered into its second stage of economic evolution—the machine stage, and would need a great amount of the production of Canadian industrial and agricultural manufacturing plants.

As well as Canadian machinery China will need considerable quantities of Canadian wheat and flour, and lumber for the rebuilding of the devastated areas.

Questioned concerning the outcome of the war against Japan, General Cohen said there was no doubt of the ultimate result. "It was to be the annihilation almost of the enemy." Asked if he cared to predict the possible date of complete victory, he said that he "belonged to the tribe of Israel but he was not a prophet of Israel."

He expressed gratification at the advancement made in Edmonton since he last visited the city about 10 years ago. He predicted a great future for Edmonton in the post-war aviation world, and was of the opinion the city would double its growth within a reasonable time after the cessation of hostilities.

FAMILIAR WITH CANADA

He said that the Chinese people know a great deal about Canada, and especially Alberta. This knowledge, he added, could be traced to the visit of Dr. Sun Yat Sen and other revolutionary leaders of the Chinese to Alberta. At that time, he recalled, leaders were also entertained by the late Hon. C. W. Cross, then attorney-general of the province, and the foundation of that knowledge gained by the Chinese concerning this province was laid at that time.

Born in London 56 years ago General Cohen came to Canada in 1910 and settled in Edmonton. He engaged in the real estate business here and was manager of the National Land Co., when he enlisted in the 218th Battalion in 1917.

On his demobilization he returned to Edmonton, and lived here for a short time. During his stay he became a leader amongst the Chinese, and later left for China where he was closely connected with Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

He declined to discuss the nature of the work that he was engaged on in China in recent years.

General Cohen, while expressing his delight to return to Edmonton, is looking forward to the time when he can return to China.

Thousands of Japs From U.S. Centres Supporting Selves

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—More than 21,000 of the 112,000 people of Japanese ancestry removed from the west coast to relocation centres two years ago are now living and supporting themselves outside the centres, Secretary of Interior Ickes said yesterday.

More than 19,000, the secretary said, have been granted indefinite leave to establish homes in communities scattered from the eastern boundary of the exclusion area to the Atlantic coast. On seasonal leave mainly as farm workers are between 2,000 and 3,000 others, while an army battalion composed entirely of Americans of Japanese descent has already served in the Italian campaign.

Montreal Youths Formally Charged In Fatal Shooting

MONTREAL, March 16.—(CP)—Two youths were formally charged with murder today following investigation of the shooting of Dr. Sgt. Henry Farmer of the Montreal police Tuesday night—the start of juvenile delinquency prevention week in Montreal.

The charges were laid a short time after a coroner's jury found Leo-Paul Boisvert, 17, and Fernand Clermont, 15, criminally responsible for the death of Farmer who was fatally wounded when he went to investigate a prowler at the rear of his home.

Resigns Post

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Peter D. McArthur of Howick, Que., recently named president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, has resigned as president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, it was announced last night.

All-Time Mark Set in Bombing Reich Targets

istry said the glow of huge fires could be seen through the clouds toward the end of the raid.

KNOCKOUT BLOW

Stuttgart has been bombed heavily by day and night three times since Feb. 20 and it may be that last night's attack was designed as a knockout blow. One source estimated that some 2,800 tons of bombs were dropped on Stuttgart alone last night.

The raids on Munich and northwestern Germany, as well as on railway targets in Austria, strategic junction controlling the main supply and reinforcement route for German troops on the French invasion coast, apparently were designed as diversionary attacks to draw off night fighters from the main show at Stuttgart.

The bomber command night assault exceeded in weight any previous overnight offensive by more than 500 tons. The number of bombs involved was believed the largest ever sent out by Air Marshal Sir Charles Harris.

Swiss dispatches said that portion of the attack concentrated on southern Germany was of unparalleled dimensions. The Augsburg formed by Karlsruhe, Mannheim and Stuttgart belched flames whose glow could be seen in Zurich 100 miles away, the dispatches said.

Community Hears About Ward System

The ward system of civic government as applied to Edmonton with all its advantages was explained to the Westmount Community League last night by Ben Hager of the Federation of Community Leagues. The speaker described the present system of aldermen-at-large as "non-representative, irresponsible, unfair and creative of indifference toward civic problems as shown by the lack of interest in elections."

Sectional discrimination and little return for taxes paid in some sections of the city resulted from the present "chaotic" system. "The south side has five out of 10 aldermen on council with about 28 per cent of the total population," stated the speaker. Results of the ward administration in the Canadian cities were described along with old country experiences. A unanimous vote asking the city council to present a plebescite on the ward system at the next civic election was passed.

New Ration Books Ready on March 28

Organization plans for issuance of the new ration books are complete, and 32 distribution points throughout the city will open March 28, 29 and 30.

The distribution program is being handled by the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau under the leadership of Mrs. S. Bruce Smith, and Mrs. E. E. Hyde is liaison officer between the leaders and Volunteer Bureau and the local ration board.

Hundreds of volunteer workers have offered their services for the distribution program.

Regulations regarding applicants who are late in applying for their books will be more strict during this campaign. In previous campaigns volunteer workers were forced to keep the distribution centres open several days after the distribution dates to accommodate late-comers.

This time the centres will only stay open during the set distribution dates and all persons who fail to apply will have to wait until April 17 before they can obtain ration books.

Plan to Augment U.S. Meat Supply By Early Summer

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Action designed to pull 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 extra head of beef cattle off western ranges during the spring and early summer to augment short civilian supplies is being planned by government food officials.

That action may take the form of a special price premium to encourage earlier marketings, thus helping to prevent a possible market glut later in the year.

War food administration officials consider the beef cattle situation one of their most serious problems. Cattle numbers have been increased, they said, to a level beyond the feed' supply. The expansion has been particularly heavy in the western range country, and there is a serious question whether the range will be able to carry the pasturing load this summer.

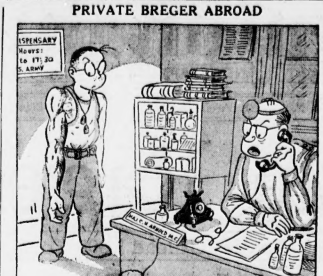

Ontario to Provide Extra $3,500,000 For School Needs

TORONTO, March 16. — (CP) — Premier Drew in a statement issued last night said $3,500,000 will be contributed by the province this year toward the cost of education in Ontario, in addition to anything paid in the past. The statement said the grant would be a temporary measure adopted while a royal commission conducts a public inquiry into Ontario's school taxation which would be necessary before government policy to assume 50 per cent. of education costs could be implemented.

and aptitude. No disposition will be made of applications from matriculants until the Grade XII results are available.

At the same time, it was pointed out that the first of the new president's scholarships will be available for the 1944-45 season.

These scholarships have been made available by Standard Investments, Ltd., through H. H. Parlee, K.C., chairman of the board of governors, and will be open to honors students in mathematics, physics, the humanities and social sciences.

The award will be given primarily on the basis of proficiency in studies, but personal qualities and evidence of serious purpose will also be considered.

The successful candidate will receive a prize of $100, under the terms of the scholarship, applicable to fees at the time of registration. A supplementary grant of like amount or more may be given in addition, if there is financial need.

Viscount Bennett is a governor of educational institutions in the Maritime provinces and Alberta as well as the Canadian Bar Association about $1,000,000 in gifts during 1943.

Dalhousie University, Halifax, of which Viscount Bennett is a graduate in law, received $750,000; Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., $200,000, and the University of Alberta, $100,000.

To the Calgary School Board, Viscount Bennett gave $15,000 and to the Law Society of Alberta, $15,000.

Viscount Bennett lived and practiced law in Calgary for many years and prior to entering parliament, was a member of the Alberta Legislature.

City Teachers Aid Two Major Funds

Edmonton's two major annual drives—the Community Chest, and the Canadian Red Cross — have benefitted materially during the last two years as a result of contributions from the Edmonton Teachers' Donations Fund, according to a statement issued by the executive.

Two years ago, the majority of the public and high school teachers entered into an agreement with the Public School Board whereby percentage deductions from salaries were made monthly. As a result of these deductions, the sum of $3,043.48 was turned over to the Teachers' Donations Fund in 1942 and divided equally between the two organizations mentioned.

During 1943 the same plan was followed, and although the number of teachers last year was considerably less than in 1942, the Community Chest and the Red Cross benefitted to the extent of $2,346.92, which again was equally divided. Two other funds — Russian and Greek Relief — also benefited by the generosity of the teachers, $200 being turned over to these charities.

The executive of the Teachers' Donations Fund point out that these contributions do not by any means represent the entire efforts of their association, a large percentage of the teachers preferring to make their contributions privately, as well as others who contribute to charities of their own selection.

Jap-Held Atoll Of Oroluk Hit By U.S. Planes

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—The United States Navy announced last night the bombing of Japanese-held Oroluk atoll midway between the big enemy bases of Truk and Ponape in the Caroline islands.

Navy search planes carried out the first reported assault on that atoll, 195 miles east of Truk. They bombed shore facilities and a small, beached ship.

The navy reported the raid in a Pacific fleet announcement which told also of attacks on seven other enemy bases in the central Pacific area.

Allied, German Troops Fight Savage Battle

ing the Germans slowly out of the town, with sappers working frantically to clear away the wreckage that blocked their path.

RAINS THROUGH NIGHT

Heavy rains which began at 8 p.m. yesterday continued through the night and added to the difficulties of the attacking Allied troops.

The Germans, apparently reinforced by fresh units rushed into the battle during the night, fought back viciously with gunfire, hand grenades and their "screaming meemies"—multi-barrelled trench mortars.

While the battle raged inside the ruins of Cassino under clearing skies, other Allied forces pushed forward into the hills to the northeast, threatening to cut off the Germans in the town.

Simultaneously, American infantrymen on the Anzio beachhead front, following up British successes the previous day, were revealed to have launched a new attack southeast of Aprilia. Two enemy strong points fell to the Americans yesterday, but headquarters spokesmen said the Nazis counter-attacked savagely and that violent fighting still was in progress this morning.

BIG-GUN DUELLING

Long-range German and Allied guns traded heavy shellfire throughout yesterday and combat patrols were in action all along the beachhead perimeter.

The Germans were reported using a new grappling device in an effort to explode the mine-field in front of the Allied line.

An Allied communique said bitter skirmishing also took place on the 8th Army front yesterday, and spokesmen said the Germans had stepped up the tempo of their artillery fire in that sector, particularly along the coastal highway.

All reports indicated that the Nazis were regarding the complete destruction of Cassino as the opening broadside in a concerted Allied offensive all across the Italian front.

ATTEMPT HEAVY THRUST

German shock troops attempted a heavy thrust early yesterday against the French positions on Hill 905, five miles north of Cassino. Before the Allied air blow fell, however, the attack had been broken off with considerable losses to the enemy.

Another German effort to approach Indian positions near Cassino also was broken up before the air show began.

Charges in States Seen as Fantastic

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Official circles yesterday declined to comment on charges made in Washington that the British dominions dominate London and Washington by playing one against another.

The charges were made in material incorporated in the Congressional Record by Senator Rufus C. Holman of Oregon and said Canada was the leader in the movement.

Unofficially it was a delicate position to regard the statements as rather fantastic. Observers of international trends in Canada said they hadn't noticed any concerted movement on the part of the dominions to influence the policy of either Britain or the United States.

The Ottawa economic agreements of 1932, it was recalled, were made at a conference called by Canada and at which other dominions supported the Canadian view that a broadening of Empire tariff preferences was desirable.

cludes a world aviation convention under which all signatory nations would agree to give all others the freedom of air page, rights to land for non-traffic purposes, and rights to embark and disembark on a reciprocal basis.

More controversial than this, the Canadian plan includes setting up of an international air licensing and operating authority, with a world agency and regional councils. One such council would cover Europe, omitting the United Kingdom on the one side and Russia on the other. Another would cover the North Atlantic. Under the Canadian plan, the licensing of air services within a regional council's jurisdiction would be decided by the council, which would be expected to take account as far as possible of all interests existing within its region. This would mean that small nations of Europe could look to the day when they would build up civil air lines with their neighbors.

POINT OF OBJECTION

This is one point on which British objections are believed to exist. The post-war European aviation field is one in which British interests might be expected to claim priority rights. The Canadian will have planes and pilots ready.

Whether either Britain or the United States will accept the idea of a North Atlantic regional air council cannot be forecast. The Canadian plan envisages an international council deciding frequency of services over the Atlantic and other important details, and actually managing the services. United States policy, some circles believe, may tend to rely more heavily than this plan would permit on the preferred competitive position United States will have directly the war ends.

An important feature of the Canadian proposal would exempt from international authority the air services established between contiguous countries. This would permit post-war Canada-United air rights between Canada and the United States. These rights are covered by existing principles that have been built up over a period of years, and they are fully reciprocal.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN

While premature disclosure of Canada's proposals caused some dismay in Ottawa, the incident has increased Canada's role of middle power taking a lead in working rights for itself and other nations below the great-power rank. The plan, it is stressed, is alternative and preliminary. Meanwhile the disclosure heightened interest in a statement made yesterday policy which Hon. C. D. Howe is expected to make next week in parliament.

Chamber Studies Future of A.O.S.

The Chamber of Commerce Council at its regular Wednesday luncheon meeting at the Corona Hotel decided to investigate further the possibility of using No. 2 A.O.S. which has been ordered closed as of July 1, as a post war aviation centre." Whatever action may be necessary after the study has been made, will be taken, officials stated.

Discussion was held on the fact that no word has been received regarding the chamber's request to Hon. C. D. Howe against the lack of Canadian air service from Whitehorse to Fairbanks, Alaska. It was decided to continue to follow up on the situation.

Regarding the threatened closing of the mines, the Chamber of Commerce reiterated its position "that the government ought to retain the key industry for the time being until the new proposed policy, of whatever nature it may be, is put forth by the government. The Chamber will be happy to join in any action that may be taken in order to keep the mines open."

Canada to State Aviation Plans

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—The Dominion government will make a statement soon on Canada's proposals for post-war civil aviation, it was learned officially today.

In the meantime, informed circles said a summary of proposals contained in "American Aviation Daily," a Washington trade publication, was substantially correct.

(The publication printed what it claimed to be extracts of a 23-page Canadian memorandum proposing establishment of an "international air transport authority" to control post-war commercial aviation).

Preliminary Canadian proposals for establishment of an international transport authority to control post-war commercial aviation, have been submitted to the United States and British governments, one source said when questioned about the Washington story.

Twenty American Planes Shot Down As Gunners Erred

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—(AP)—United States navy gunners in a battle of the Sicilian campaign shot down 20 American planes by mistake, Sgt. Jack Foisie, correspondent for the Stars and Stripes, army newspaper, said yesterday.

Addressing the Commonwealth club, Foisie said the American planes, C-47 transports, came over the navy gunners just after the gunners had undergone a heavy aerial bombing attack by the Germans.

"The navy gunners kept right on shooting," Foisie said, "and some 20 of our planes went down."

Breweries to Meet Increased Demand

VICTORIA, March 16.—(CP)—"It will take a little time, but the beer situation will undoubtedly improve," said Emil G. Sick, president of the Associated Breweries of Canada Ltd., and head of the Seattle Brewing and Malting Co. when asked about the lifting of federal restrictions on the sale of beer.

Mr. Sick is presiding over a meeting of Associated Breweries directors here. The Associated operates breweries at Lethbridge, Prince Albert, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver.

The New beer regulation in Canada was discussed at the sessions here and Mr. Sick reported breweries would soon be in a position to meet the increased demand.

Mr. Sick said reports that ample stocks were available in the warehouses were not true. He intimated that the breweries would have to step up production to meet the new situation.

At a meeting held Tuesday night, J. G. Walford, Calgary, managing director, stepped out of office in favor of H. J. Chisvick, Calgary, who will still retain the title of general manager.

Towers May Head Bank of England

LONDON, March 16.—(CP)—The name of Graham Ford Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, is being mentioned as a likely successor to Montague Norman as governor of the Bank of England, should the latter decide not to seek re-election after April, 1945, the Star Man's Diary column in the London Star, said today.

It is understood that Norman, born in 1871, is making a good recovery from his recent illness and he is due to be re-elected governor next month. However, the column said the illness apparently led Norman to decide against seeking re-election beyond April, 1945.

The columnist added that the gather that a new candidate is being pushed in very high quarters—Towers."

OTTAWA, March 16. — (CP) — Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, said today there was no basis for a London report that his candidature was "being pushed in very high quarters" to succeed Montague Norman as governor of the Bank of England in 1945.

Ontario's Net Debt Reduction Greatest Ever

TORONTO, March 16.—(CP)—A reduction of $12,072,721 in the net provincial debt for the fiscal year ending next March 31—largest decrease in the history of the province"—was announced today by Provincial Treasurer Frost in his first budget address in the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Frost also announced a reduction of $27,509,975 in the gross provincial debt, a surplus of $8,638,877 on ordinary account and a combined over-all surplus of $20,- 251,975 on both ordinary and capital account—all based on 10 months actual and two months estimated revenues and expenditures.

For six years chief financial critic for his party while in opposition, the new Progressive Conservative provincial treasurer also announced an increase of one mill in the present one-mill subsidy to municipalities to be applied to the cost of education now borne by real estate; study by a royal commission of the whole field of real estate taxation including education costs; doubling of the present five per cent tax on track pari-mutuel tickets; and freeing of universities at Toronto, Kingston and London from debt through grants totalling $1,516,000.

ONLY TAX CHANGE

The increase in the race track impost was the only taxation change mentioned in the 15,000-word speech which gave assurance that "no new forms of taxation will be imposed."

Open U.S. Cattle Market Is Sought

LETHBRIDGE, March 16.—(CP)—As a precaution against a market glut depressing prices for live cattle, 300 cattlemen from various parts of Alberta decided at a mass meeting here yesterday to send a delegation to Ottawa to ask the Dominion government to open the market to exports of cattle to the United States.

Represented at the meeting were farmers, ranchers and feeder operators, representatives of the Western Stock Growers' Association, Western Beef Council, Alberta Livestock Co-Operative and a number of feeders and co-operative organizations in Southern Alberta.

A resolution passed at the meeting asked the Dominion government to publish what should be the live price of cattle and lambs in relation to the established ceiling prices for carcass beef and lambs.

Leaders of French Resistance Forces Claimed Arrested

LONDON, March 16 — (CP) — Philippe Henriot, Vichy radio propagandist minister, yesterday reported that French secret police had bagged "the entire general staff of the French resistance army."

"We now are in possession of a vital list containing the names of all leaders of the resistance inside France," Henriot said. "A courier who was just leaving for London was also arrested."

'Softening-Up' Process Seen As Railway Targets Are Hit

By ROSS MUNRO

LONDON, March 16.—(CP)—Heavy bombing attacks on railway targets on the continent now are part of the Allied air offensive and the question is being asked: "Is this the start of a big softening-up for invasion?"

Such attacks on railway junctions and yards, like the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raid on Le Mans in northern France last Monday, have little strategic or tactical value unless associated with pending operations and this bombing is probably very significant.

Railways in Italy were bombed for weeks before the landings there and this technique has become a big feature of Allied offensive strategy.

STOPPED IN ITALY

Rail traffic in Sicily and Italy was stopped completely and the Germans were forced to use motor transport exclusively in the early months of the campaign.

Destruction of German rail lines of communication will be of even more importance to success of second-front operations. Obvious targets in France, to take just one western European country as an example, include Lille, Amiens, Rouen, Paris and Le Mans. All will be heavily defended by anti-aircraft guns.

If these railway focal points are wrecked it will be a serious blow to German defence plans.

STRATEGIC TARGETS

Probably the most significant strategic targets would be the railway system northeast and east of Paris connecting France with Germany through Aix La Chapelle, Duesseldorf, Cologne and Frankfurt. From the tactical angle the lines leading to Paris through the north and west from ports like Brest, Cherbourg, Dieppe and Boulogne are the most important to German defence.

Dept. of Pensions Ready For Tasks

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—The pensions department is "fairly well ahead" in its plans for the rehabilitation of discharged service personnel after the war, Pensions Minister Mackenzie said yesterday at the opening session of a three-day meeting of chief medical officers of the department.

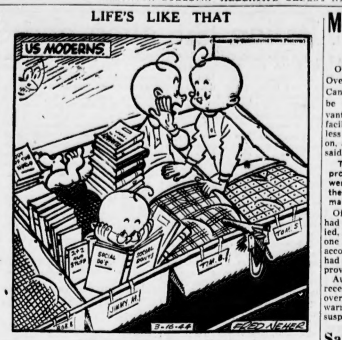

Mr. Mackenzie told the meeting, called to discuss departmental policies, that the department was learning from the discharges of the present day "the problems with which we must be prepared to deal in the future."

"Insofar as our program of legislation is concerned, we are not finished with our work," he added. "We are making improvements every day, but we will not be satisfied until our plan for rehabilitation is the most comprehensive and most perfect in the world."

Three Political Parties Given Free CBC Time

the qualifications which the board of governors felt they should have to be considered national parties. A third party in the Commons, the Canadian Party, has a membership of one—Ligouri Lacombe of Laval-Two Mountains.

The CBC board of governors ruled that to share in free time on the Corporation's networks, political parties would have to meet the following requirements:

"1. Have policies on a wide range of national issues.

"2. Have a recognized national leader.

"3. Have a nation-wide organization established as the result of a national conference or convention.

"4. Seek the election of candidates in at least three of the provinces and put into the field a minimum number of 61 officially nominated candidates (approximately one for every four constituencies)."

REPORT ON REVISION

The report on the revised policy added:

"To new national political parties the corporation will allot an amount of free National network time to bring to listeners an adequate presentation of the party's program and policies. The time so allotted will be over and above the amount given to the existing national political parties.

"In the event of a new national party coming into being through a union of existing parties, the corporation will decide the amount of time on its own responsibility and in the most equitable manner possible."

Time on CBC-owned or operated stations cannot be purchased during or between elections, except at Chicoutimi and at Prince Rupert, where no privately-owned stations can provide for local broadcasting, the report said.

PROVINCIAL HOOK-UPS

However, time may be purchased on private stations both during and between elections. During elections, parties recognized as national parties may purchase time on a hook-up of privately-owned stations which would cover any one province. CBC-owned stations would not be included in the provincial hook-ups.

The regulations covering federal parties also apply to parties in provincial legislatures. Qualified provincial parties will be allotted free time over provincial networks and will be entitled, on a provincial basis, to the same privileges as national parties.

No free or purchased time will be allotted by the CBC during civic or municipal elections. However, time may be purchased from privately-owned stations during such election campaigns and between such campaigns.

The provision covering municipal elections apply also to by-election campaigns, except that recognized parties will be able to purchase time on hook-ups of private stations when a hook-up is needed to cover a given constituency.

PARTY STANDINGS

Present party standings: Liberals 170, Liberal Progressives 3, Independent Liberals 3, Progressive Conservatives 39, New Democracy 10, C.C.F. 11, Independents 3, Bloc Populaire 4, Lab.-Prog. 1, Unity 1.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN BY CHAIRMAN PLAN

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Rene Morin, part-time chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, expressed belief yesterday that the corporation's setup would be improved by the appointment of a full-time, salaried chairman of the board of governors.

Addressing a session of the Commons radio committee, Mr. Morin said he believed the position of full-time chairman should carry with it the responsibility for the corporation's policy.

EXECUTIVE ROLE

Under such a set-up, the general manager and his assistant would serve in a purely executive role. Mr. Morin told the committee which earlier heard War Services Minister LaFleche suggest that a full-time chairman should be appointed.

Questioned by committee members, Mr. Morin disclosed that a salary of $15,000 a year had been suggested for the new chairman setup. He said the board was unanimous in its view on this subject, but he added that a suggestion of some committee members that the chairman and general manager be combined might be worth further discussion.

He added that he had no suggestion to make as to who would fill either the full-time post of chairman or the vacant post of general manager.

Mr. Morin, speaking on the delay in appointing a new general manager, said that it was almost impossible to find a person possessing the qualifications needed to fill the divergent functions of the post.

SUGGEST TWO OFFICIALS

Mr. Morin said members of the board had asked themselves whether the set up of the corporation would not be improved should two separate officials, a full time chairman and a general manager, be appointed. He said these views had already been referred to the government, but no action was possible without an amendment to the act and possibly reference to the parliamentary committee.

Mr. Morin said in connection with political and controversial broadcasting and commentaries, the CBC was "standing behind" these principles:

1. The air belongs to the people who are entitled to hear the principal points of view on all questions of importance.

2. The air must not fall under the control of any individuals or groups influential by reasons of their wealth or special position.

3. The right to answer is inherent in the democratic doctrine of free speech.

4. Freedom of speech and the full interchange of opinion are among the principal safeguards of free institutions.

He said the governors had investigated various criticisms on the CBC's news reports and "we came out of the meeting convinced of the integrity and impartiality of our news editors."

He added:

NOT ALWAYS COMPLETE

"It is realized that in summarizing a large volume of news for radio bulletins, it is not always possible to give complete reports on all developments. An editor has to make an arbitrary choice of items, and news judgment is a matter on which all may not agree, especially as news writers have a natural tendency to emphasize the stories they think will be the most interesting to listeners."

He suggested the committee call the CBC chief news editor (Dan McArthur of Toronto) as a witness from which they could get information in this regard.

He also said according to the latest available figures the CBC national network covered 90.5 per cent of the total population of Canada and 96.1 of those homes in the Dominion which had radio receiving sets.

No "Doubt" in U.K. Invasion This Year

CALGARY, March 16.—(CP)—"There is no hint in Britain that the invasion of Europe will not take place this year, said Brigadier F. M. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., officer commanding M.D. 13, in an interview yesterday on his return from a two-and-a-half months visit to the Old Country.

"The only thing not yet disclosed is when and where," he said.

"Everybody over there, however, is confident when it does take place it will go with a rush.

"At the same time they all realize the toughness of the struggle ahead and do not minimize the difficulties of such invasion."

Brigadier Harvey said he visited nearly all the Canadian training centres and establishments as well as a certain number of the British. He found the morale and spirit of the troops "absolutely tophole."

"Everyone was working full blast and looking forward to the day when they would come to grips with the Germans either in Italy or on the second front wherever that might be," the brigadier said.

Manitoba Plans Special Courses For War Veterans

WINNIPEG, March 16.—(CP)—Education Minister J. C. Dryden told the Manitoba legislature yesterday special technical and vocational courses have been planned for members of the armed services to fit them for post-war jobs.

Subsistence allowances would be paid to both married and single persons during the period of their tuition, he said.

Special legislation will be introduced to set up an apprenticeship act under the joint direction of the departments of education and labor for training students in many trades.

Meat Shipments Making Records

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Overseas shipments of meat from Canada at present are believed to be making records and every advantage is being taken of shipping facilities because of the danger that less space may be available later on, agriculture department officials said yesterday.

The shipping situation had improved recently, but there still were insufficient vessels to move the vast supplies of pork and beef marketed in Canada.

Officials said their experience had been that shipping space varied, with heavy movement possible one week, but only limited supplies accommodated the next and they had no assurance the recent improvement would continue.

Authorities agreed that even the recent good movement of meat overseas had been insufficient to warrant any change in the recent suspension of meat rationing.

Sask. Legislature Sustains Speaker On House Duties

REGINA, March 16.—(CP)—The Saskatchewan legislature by a vote of 28 to eight yesterday expressed "appreciation for the just and impartial manner" in which Mr. Speaker George Agar has discharged his duties.

The division came on an amendment to a C.C.F. motion censuring Mr. Speaker for not declaring unparliamentary a statement by A. C. Stewart (U.-Yorkton) that the C.C.F. had "improperly interfered" in call-up of men by the Saskatchewan mobilization board.

Mr. Coldwell, national C.C.F. leader, said in Ottawa that Mr. Stewart's charges March 3 were untrue.

Determined to Battle Way Out

Repatriated Newsman Says Reich Fighting With the Desperation of Trapped Gangster

By TAYLOR HENRY

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Germany is fighting today with the desperation, fear and hatred of a gangster who has his back to the wall, but is determined to try to battle his way out.

The German people have been convinced by Goebbel's propaganda that if they lose the war Germany will be exterminated as a nation.

This is my considered opinion as well as that of other American and foreign observers after internment in wartime Germany for a year.

Germans today are obsessed with these fears:

1—Fear of Bolshevism.

2—Fear of Anglo-American domination of Europe.

3—Fear of the revenge of other European countries.

RAIDS CAUSE HATRED

The strengthening of German morale through this fear complex has been heightened by the hatred caused by Allied air raids of Germany.

The Germans' subconscious knowledge that they are already beaten is shown primarily by their lack of confidence in their unit of currency—the Reichsmark.

Any German today would rather hold on to physical property than sell it for marks at any price. Trade in Germany today is almost entirely restricted to rationed articles.

A second indication of the subconscious knowledge in Germany today that the Nazis have lost the war is in the obvious breakdown of the vaunted German discipline.

It was not unusual to see members of the Gestapo drunk while on duty at Baden-Baden.

Sons of Freedom Doukhobors Stage New Demonstration

BRILLIANT, B.C., March 16.—(CP)—Fanatic Sons of Freedom Doukhobors staged a demonstration here yesterday but there was no violence or disrobing.

About 60 Sons of Freedom, apparently resuming their protests against callup regulations covering conscientious objectors, arrived at Brilliant yesterday afternoon.

Following a 10-minute service at the tomb of Peter Verigin I, former leader; the marchers from the Kreskova area went to the home of John Verigin, nominal leader of the orthodox branch.

After two hours of chanting and speaking they tried to reach the verandah of the Verigin home but other Doukhobors barred the way. Late in the afternoon the radicals dispersed to villages in Brilliant vicinity.

Municipal Health Plan Introduced In Ontario House

TORONTO, March 16.—(CP)—Ontario's proposed municipal health plan, designed to provide specified health services partly financed by limited provincial grants, was introduced in the legislature yesterday and after advancing other legislation in a 45-minute sitting, the house rose on the promise of Premier Drew that the budget would be presented Thursday.

Introducing the government's health bill, Health Minister Dr. R. P. Vivian said it was designed to make it possible to render health services to municipalities through municipal taxes and provincial grants and to create a sound plan for future expansion.

"It is obvious an overall provincial plan at the present time is not possible," the minister said.

Stop Dosing Constipation

There Is a Better Way to Correct a Common Cause

Yes, you can free yourself from slavery to "dosing"—with its griping unpleasantness, its lack of lasting relief if your trouble is due to insufficient "bulk" in your diet! Do as thousands of others have done! Try the gentle-acting, ALL-BRAN way! KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really "gets at" this common cause of constipation by supplying the missing "bulk-producing" material needed for easy, natural elimination. Try eating a daily serving of ALL-BRAN, or several ALL-BRAN muffins. Drink plenty of water. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. 2 convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Try This Bean Dish

Toast bread slices to a light golden brown. Place a heaping spoonful of steaming Deep-Browned Beans on each slice. Cover with grated or sliced cheese and top with half a slice of bacon. Place in oven until bacon is crisp and cheese melted. Arrange on plates and garnish with cucumber pickles. Serve at once. A delicious, flavourful treat!

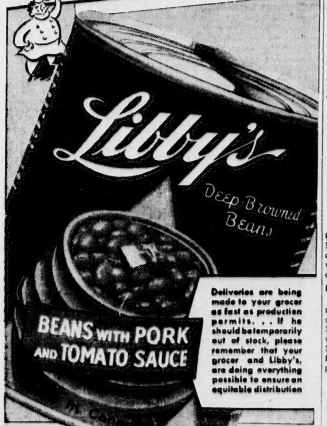

BEANS
Cooked a New Way

● Better—because each bean is individually cooked at an identical temperature until every one is a rich deep-brown colour . . . mealy and tender . . . no hard beans . . . no soft, mushy beans . . . every bean uniform in tasty flavour, fine texture and rich, deep, golden-brown in colour. Only Libby's exclusive, patented cooking process can give you beans like these . . . not overdone . . . not underdone . . . each bean just right.

We still think customers are mighty important

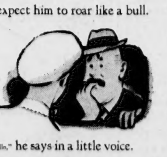

By Your Union Oil Minute Man

If you work in a service station, you know that customers come in bunches, like mallard ducks.

Gloria, my Minute Maid, was off to lunch the other day when all of a sudden in comes four cars. I work like a beaver, but by the time I get to the last car, guess who's there waiting for me?

No less than Moose Wilson! Moose is big, weighs about 250, and when he loses his temper, the windows for blocks around rattle.

I expect him to roar like a bull.

"Hello," he says in a little voice.

Surprised? You could have knocked me over with a small carburetor gasket. "Hello, Moose," I say, "anything the matter?"

"Oh, no," he says sadly, "I just feel kinda whipped."

Well, sir, Moose has a sad story. People don't pay attention to him any more. His housekeeper got uppity and left, for instance, and then a new grocery clerk insulted him. And just that morning, a waitress down at Bill's Beanery told him if he didn't like the coffee, he could make it himself.

"Now, Moose," I say, "it isn't like that around here. Treating customers like human beings is a Minute Man Policy."

Then I tell him how Union Oil Company figures it: nowadays it's no trouble to sell all the gas and oil you can get. But these times aren't going to last forever. Treating customers right today . . . even if you can only give them a smile . . . is like buying a Victory Bond. It's going to pay dividends later on.

"That so?," he says, stepping out of his car, which rocks like a boat when he leaves it, "then perhaps you wouldn't mind fixing this engine. It's . . . "

So, after we'd picked out the monkey wrench that seemed to have got in there somehow, Moose let out a terse "Thanks" and a smile and gunned out of the station.

"Well, Miss Minute Maid," I say, we sure brought him back to life."

Never too busy to be helpful!

The Question of the Hour

After all, it seems, beer is not to flow any more freely in Alberta and Ontario because the federal restrictions have been removed and the dispensing power turned back to the provincial authorities. This is the far from gladdening announcement made to the thirsty ones, at Edmonton and at Toronto. Mr. Low and Mr. Drew explain that the labor supply at the breweries is scarce, that bottles are scarce, and so on. The best they can see ahead is a gradual enlargement of the supply; and meanwhile the patrons will just have to content themselves with no more liberal helpings than they have been getting in the past.

From which it would appear that the terrible aridity was not basically due to the regulations imposed by the Dominion, and to the physical limitations with which wartime has surrounded the manufacture of the product, limitations which only time can remove. No doubt this is true — as true as it was a week ago, when the official publicans of the provinces were blaming Ottawa because they could not "set 'em up" as fast as the customers demanded.

The only change in the beer situation appears to be that it is now Drew and Mr. Low who are doing the explaining.

Juvenile Courts

Debate in the Alberta Legislature over the Child Welfare Act elicited a good deal of criticism of the conduct of Alberta's juvenile courts.

One member loudly castigated a sentence of 23 months imprisonment which had been imposed on a 16-year-old boy for stealing a 57-cent pencil. "There is something wrong with the courts when they impose sentences like that," he declared.

This amazing conclusion was apparently based on the fact that so long a sentence had been imposed for so slight a theft.

It requires an uncommonly sharpened property sense to classify the iniquity of theft according to the value of the articles stolen. It used to be taught that theft was theft, whether the booty was worth a nickle or a million dollars. It used to be believed that the extent of a court sentence was fixed on the basis of the offender's mental attitude rather than on the value of his haul. It used to be held, too, that a jail term was imposed to arouse in the offender a sense of guilt and repentance rather than to establish, in a sliding scale, the status of property rights.

If this is typical of the complaints that are made about the juvenile courts, it will be an extraordinary thing if anyone takes them very seriously.

Rolling Toward Rumania

To the bewildered Nazi commanders it must seem that to the launching of new Russian offensives there is no end. A third drive started by the Red forces across the central Ukraine resulted in the capture of Uman, a railway junction which also commands three crossings of the upper waters of the river Bug. This is the last formidable barrier behind which the invaders stand to attack on Russian soil in the southern sector. With the capture of Kherson also, that line was made untenable.

Russian forces have now crashed through the Bug river line and are almost within cannon shot of the Rumanian border at Tarnopol in Poland. Another Russian spearhead is only fifty miles from the Rumanian boundary to the south. That panicky satellite state is thus threatened by blows from two directions, as well as by an inundation of the Nazi forces which are being swept backward before the Russian advance.

To the Rumanians either threat would be serious enough. Together they mean that the tide of war is flowing their way, with a prospect that Rumania will become a battlefield about the time its farmers should be sowing their crops.

Rumania — predominantly a farming country — is facing the prospect of war at home, a cropless summer, with hunger to follow.

A Lucky Man

The Canadian motorist should touch wood, and keep his fingers crossed. For the time at least, he is a lucky man. Even if in the lowest category he can buy 120 gallons of gasoline per year. But in the United States the basic allowance—in all states—has been cut to 2 gallons per week, or 104 gallons per year. The United States gallon is four-fifths the Canadian gallon, which cuts the quota of the U.S. driver down to a trifle more than 83 Canadian gallons per year.

The Canadian motorist is thus about 50 per cent better off than his contemporary south of the line. Carrying the calculation farther afield, it is a certainty that nowhere in Europe and nowhere in Asia, nor in Australasia, can the base ration be as high as it is in Canada. It may be higher in South America, and possibly in parts of Africa. With these possible exceptions, car-drivers in Canada are undoubtedly better off than in any other country in the world, in the matter of fuel supply.

That this can continue is of course subject to doubt. If the action at Washington is taken because of immediate or prospective increase in gasoline supplies needed by the fighting forces of the Allies, similar action may be expected in Canada. In that case there will be no complaint from the Canadian motorist, even if curtailment of the gas supply should make it not worth while to drive his car at all.

But meanwhile he has cheering news from Ottawa that the coupon value is not to be cut down at present.

Fewer Schools Needed

The Commonwealth Air Training scheme is no longer in the expanding stage. It has passed the peak, and from this on the training facilities will be systematically reduced. This is to say that the desperate situation which made so comprehensive a scheme necessary in Canada no longer exists.

The Minister for Air gave parliament direct assurance that schools are not to be closed at a rate which would endanger or even make questionable a sufficient supply of air force crews and men. Nevertheless schools are to be wound up during the present calendar year, a striking indication of the improved all-round position of the Allies in air power.

This improvement being a fact, there is cause for satisfaction that the training facilities can be gradually reduced. The cost of operation will go down in proportion. There will be a declining, rather than growing, demand for recruits. The implication is that the Allies now have the edge on the enemy in the air, and the responsible officials are confident they can hold this superiority with reduced effort in the Dominion. There are reasons for welcoming the news that the training system can be methodically curtailed.

At Edmonton the No. 2 Air Observer School will be closed, probably in July. But this is apparently a step in revamping the R.C.A.F. set-up, rather than an item in the general training reduction program. The accommodation at the school is required by the Northwest Staging Route, the name under which Air Force operations in the Northwest area are known. Edmonton's position in relation to military aviation will not therefore be lessened by the closing of the school.

It is estimated that it will take the remaining factories half a month to replace the 176 Nazi planes shot down by U.S. gunners in one day. Which is to say that if an equal number can be shot down on all Fronts during the next month, Germany's luftwaffe will then have no more planes than it had a week ago.

Present Italian Situation and Some Past History

Showdown Against Fascism Must Not Be Postponed Too Long

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

London is preparing to settle the Jugoslav and Polish issues, and the matter appears urgent. Stalin has rejected Polish counter-proposals regarding the eastern boundaries, and apparently Mr. Churchill intends to support him. Churchill has also summoned leaders of the

Dorothy Thompson

Polish cabinet from Cairo in a final effort to settle the disputes between Tito and General Mikhailovitch.

But there is another issue as urgent as these two which apparently is being neglected only because the great power is insisting on a showdown, as the Soviet government is doing in the Polish and Jugoslav cases.

That is the Italian question. In Italy, revolutionary anti-Fascist and anti-German forces in the north, occupied by the Germans, and under the authority of the Mussolini government, have risen in rebellion. An estimated three to six million strikers are demanding renunciation of the draft for Fascist armies; cessation of the shipment of Italian technicians and workers to Germany; reduction of curfew hours; and immediate liberation and return of Italians deported to Poland. Before this column appears there may have been a showdown and bloody massacre by German military authorities.

In any case the revolt is in full swing, and is the first great rising against Nazis and Fascists anywhere in Western Europe.

Our policy seems to be to ignore it. But bear in mind, that for years the British and American propaganda has been urging this revolt, and not only against the Fascist government, but once even against Badoglio — in August, when we wanted pressure on him to give in. Now it occurs.

At the same time we continue to support, in the south, a government which from the viewpoint of Italian anti-Fascists is one Fascist itself. We have not liquidated the Fascist regime but with the exception of top officials kept the structure intact. We are neither using the press which we control to form democratic opinion, nor permitting anti-Fascist groups to assemble and develop programs, nor recruiting an anti-Fascist volunteer army. Judging by the behavior of Anglo-American occupation forces, it is our intention to suppress an Italian showdown against Fascism.

The argument is that this must be postponed, until we occupy Rome. But why should a specific city, even the capital, be involved in a governmental political policy? If Badoglio can govern without Rome why not another? Governments in exile with which we have been negotiating throughout the war do not have one inch of their own territory in their hands.

There is evidence that this turning over of political decisions to the military will have historical consequences. The same procedure had consequences after the first world war. In recent years the German republic has repeatedly been accused of not liquidating the ancient regime and leaving in courts, army and civil bureaucracy the anti-democratic seeds which supported Hitler and precipitated the second world war. The accusation is not unfounded. But who was responsible for this survival?

I regret to say that the Allied military occupation authorities were involved in responsibility. When the Kaiser's regime collapsed the German nation was raising in full revolt. A central council of workers, soldiers, and peasants had been formed, and was taking over the administration, with a whole network of local councils assisting. The overwhelming majority were socialdemocratic and anti-communist. The councils regarded themselves as temporary bodies for the construction of a new parliamentary system.

But when our occupying armies marched in, they refused co-operation with these opponents of the regime and insisted that imperial officials be reinstalled. The story is recorded by Colonel I. L. Hunt of the Third Army and American forces of occupation, 1918-20, in his report as officer in charge of civil affairs. He said, "The political institutions with which the American army came into contact were . . . those of the old regime . . . It was fortunate . . . that the . . . counsel of moderation won the day, and most of the ex-Imperial officers remained at their posts . . . It is self-evident that the autocratic nature (of the German civil service) peculiarly fits it to adapt itself to the wishes of an occupying force."

There you have in a nut-shell the story now being repeated in Italy. Armies of occupation if left politically to their own direction, will inevitably ally themselves with the entrenched authorities, because, as Col. Hunt further says, "Trained and responsible officials can better carry out orders."

But revolutionary movements have their moments. Once passed they never recover, or move into another more mature stage. Without a political strategy to canalize and use the revolution forces, they will die, or pass completely out of our control.

Northwest Air Route to Asia

Edmonton on Main Line of World's Skyway to the Orient

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA—The purchase by Canada, announced by Hon. G. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply, of American installations in the Northwest Staging Route has emphasized Canada's ownership of the main air trunk line to Asia. Under Canadian policy, the Canadian operator on this route will be Trans-Canada Air Lines.

In view of wide interest in future air routes, the plans already disclosed regarding this route are briefly recapitulated. Main stopping places on this route, originating in New York, will be Toronto, Winnipeg and Edmonton, then northward to Fairbanks, Alaska. T.C.A. already operates from New York to Toronto, then to Winnipeg, but Lake Hitler and precipitated the second world war. The accusation is not unfounded. But who was responsible for this survival?

I regret to say that the Allied military occupation authorities were involved in responsibility. When the Kaiser's regime collapsed the German nation was raising in full revolt. Route, commonly known as the Alaska Skyway, at present, since the route is reserved for military traffic. In future, a direct run from Winnipeg to Edmonton and beyond has been forecast by T.C.A. officials.

Purchase of American installations on the Alaska Skyway raises the question of where does Canada stand in regard to ownership of these facilities and improvements made in Northwest Canada and United States. The principle is already agreed upon between Canada and United States. It is this: The durable facilities for the defence of North America in that region will remain in Canadian ownership, but they will always be available for the common defence. This principle applies to United States expenditures in Canadian territory, estimated to run as high as $300,000,000. Far more Canadian money has been spent, down the years, on the development and defence of that region.

Mr. Howe announced Canada has bought out U.S. installations, bringing Canadian expenditures on the skyway to $58,500,000. Expenditures by the United States in this project have been $29,000,000. Canadian construction, completed in June 1943, had amounted to $25,000,000, with $4,500,000 for improvements to existing airdromes between the U.S. border and Edmonton. United States expenditures included $6,000,000 on flight strips along the Alaska Highway and $2,000,000 on flight strips along the Mackenzie River.

The air strips along the Mackenzie River clearly form part of the Northwest route, east of the main staging route from Edmonton to Alaska. This development has permitted regular air service between Edmonton and Norman Wells, site of the Canol oil project; and plans are under way to extend this route northward, down the Mackenzie river to McPherson, near the Arctic ocean, from which point the route will turn westward to Porcupine river and points in Alaska.

General principles recognized by Canada and United States regarding future ownership of Canadian installations in the Canadian Northwest were agreed upon on January 27, 1943, in an exchange of notes. These principles apply to air fields, roads, buildings, oil development, pipe lines, landing strips and other developments in Canadian territory in which American funds have figured. Twenty per cent foot of land has passed into U.S. ownership. The agreed principles are 1, that all immovable installations built by the United States become Canadian property within two years of the end of the war; 2, all movable installations may be returned to the United States, or offered to Canada at a price set by independent valuation; 3, if both government agree, movable installations may be offered for sale; 4, if no sale can be made, the Canada-United States permanent joint defense board shall determine what will be done with installations.

The key organization at present in Canada-U.S. relations in Northwest Canada is the permanent joint defence board, which has the duty of permanently considering all phases of joint defence in the northern half of North America, west, north and east alike.

Canadian ownership of the Northwest Staging Route will not mean American or other air lines in the future. This is a question of future negotiation, but will probably be in the form of a reciprocal agreement, whereby Canada will be entitled to extend its 6,000-foot runways of these fields, leaving to the United States the provision of additional facilities for lines using the route. By joint expenditures, the Skyway has become an important "road to Tokyo." But Canadian authorities have consistently regarded it also as a vital airway to the Orient in world aviation. On that ground, the decision was made to re-imburse the United States for all permanent construction it has added to the Skyway at its own expense.

Suicide

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

Ed Mahar, assistant city editor of the New York Journal-American, still is a bit shaky over an experience he had last week. Over the city desk telephone he heard:

"I'm phoning from a restaurant at ..... avenue. My wife died seven months ago. I'm afraid of the future. I'm going to kill myself."

"How old are you?" asked Mahar, "Fifty-eight."

"I'm fifty myself," said Ed. "I have three sons in the army. I fear the future, too. But suicide is no solution."

The caller hung up. Mahar called the restaurant and told them to detain the man. Then he called the police.

When the police arrived at the restaurant they found the man sitting at a table, nervously sipping a second cup of coffee urged on him by the restaurant manager.

At the station he admitted he had been thinking of killing himself, but added he had changed his mind.

"That newspaper fellow was right," he said to the desk sergeant.

Now it transpires the bull's progeny has turned out so good his calves are fetching $2,000 per head. Even Agriculture Minister Kennedy must be acknowledges his death was a great loss to breeding in Ontario, and Mr. Marshall will be erected to his memory is a moot question but in any event he will not go down into oblivion like "the calf with a cough" and "the hog with the cholera," strong campaign material of the Tories in the old days when politics that are gone almost beyond recall.

Counsel looked sternly at the man in the dock.

"Did you, or did you not, on the night in question, or at any time previously or subsequently, say, or even intimate to the defendant or anyone else, whether friend or mere acquaintance, or in fact a stranger, that the statement imputed to you, whether just or unjust, and denied by the plaintiff, was a matter of no moment or otherwise? Answer me! Did you or did you not?"

The man in the dock clutched at his throat.

"Did I, or did I not, what?" he gasped.

Flowers Bloom Early on Hats

Also Some Valuable Hints On Taking Care of Your Possessions

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Plainly speaking, the woman with a bigger-than-average head, no longer has to bemoan the fact. Whether by design or coincidence, the confections of straw, felt or fabric on the millinery bill of fare for spring are as delectable on the tall woman with a broad face as on smaller featured woman.

Part of the secret of their universal success is in the way many of the hats are worn, tilted low and slanting over the brow. And a share of their importance is due to wide selection of flattering, curved brims, along with shaped-to-the-head, crownless types shown to fit any size head.

Brighter and much more gorgeous, if possible, than the flowers that actually bloom in the spring are the subtle colors of the artificial blossoms, cunningly placed on the millinery. Many of the flowers are in beautiful spring tones, and the flowers that trim them jut from the sides in profusion, or are set in high-piled on top in tumbling masses. Stiffened swirls of veiling are freely used.

Tailored Ones

This doesn't mean, that if you prefer a more tailored hat, you won't be able to find it. For cartwheels, mushroom brims, berets of all widths, and Chinese Mandarin styles are shown. These are softer in effect and generally more becoming than ever. In this group, too, special emphasis is placed on hat lines in correct proportion to broad or round faces.

The designers themselves are often at a loss for words to describe the colors they have worked with. To mention a few of the new shades and shapes offered, there is a modest mushroom-brimmed bonnet of natural woven straw on a tiny crown of black skirting felt with a lime velvet bow.

Sprigs of mimosa sprout from the desert sand straw sailor brim crown of a Chinese coolie style, swathed in pale green veiling. A deep purple baku cartwheel is edged in tiny velvet forget-me-nots in many colors, and there are turbans, pillboxes and shovel brims galore, in countless new shades.

Take Care of Yours

Here are some valuable hints on taking care of your things:

GLOVES: Frequent washing prolongs the life of washable gloves. Suede gloves can be kept fresh by daily brushing with a soft-bristled hat brush. Help them to keep their shape by gently pulling out the fingers when removing them and put them in a long box or little drawer to keep them so.

Never roll skin gloves into a ball. Allow an extra ommioute for getting into gloves the proper way—fingers first and thumb last. Impatient tugs will ruin the well-fitting skin gloves. In very cold weather, hold them between the hands a moment or two to warm the skin slightly; they will then be more supple.

STOCKINGS: Rinse new stockings through warm water before wearing. Use soap for washing them only when they are dirty. They can be washed after a bath in the same water, using soap for the soles only. Never iron.

If stockings are too short, sew a piece of tape on the tops for the garter to fasten into, or the top of another old stocking, or lengthen the garter with tape or ribbon.

Strengthen new stockings before wearing them by reinforcing the heels and toes with widely spaced shadow darning, and sewing two circular patches, cut from the tops of old stockings, on the tops where the garters are clipped on. Also bind the ends of stitching around the tops of the stockings just above the join.

When the foot is too worn to darn, a new foot can be cut from an old stocking and sewn on.

RAINCOATS: Keep raincoats on a coat hanger, especially if they are made of oiled silk, or coated cotton. If not worn frequently, shake occasionally. Dry them slowly, away from heat, and keep in a dark, cool place.

RUBBER APRONS: Never allow grease or soap to remain on rubber aprons, and never pin them. Hang them in a dark place when not in use.

TIES: Keep flat when not in use or hang over a rod fixed on the inside of a wardrobe.

The Red Cross plans to set up a "blood donors" clinic in Rocky Mountain House and is asking for names of donors. When enough have offered their blood, the clinic will start operations.

Citizens of the Sundre and Caroline districts, 40 miles south of town, are asking the provincial government to gravel a road connecting them with Rocky Mountain House, and they have subscribed $4,000 for the project. A petition, signed by every settler in the area affected, is now circulating. Last fall, the first 15 miles of this road south from town, was gravelled and when the remaining 25 is gravelled, an area that has been isolated in wet weather, or spring break-ups, will have access to town.

James Edgar Hunley, veteran of the last war, died yesterday in the hospital after a brief illness. He was 63 years old. Mr. Hunley was born in Indiana and was married there in 1902 to Esta Hunley. They came to Acme, Alberta, in 1913 and Mr. Hunley joined the Canadian army in 1915, serving overseas until the end of the war. In 1933 he came to Rocky Mountain House with his family, taking up land across the river. He is survived by his wife and nine children, Arthur, John and Kenneth, Mrs. T. A. Bowhay and Mrs. R. DeChenne, Rocky; Freamon, Aklavik, N.W.T.; Mrs. V. Willdey, Prince Albert, Sask.; LAW. Betty Hunley, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), Weyburn, Sask.; Sgt. Helen Hunley, with the C.W.A.C. in England. The funeral will be held from the Presbyterian church.

Australians Irked As Paper Suggests They 'Get Into War'

CANBERRA, Australia, March 16.—(CP)—Australia's army minister, Francis E. Forde, said in an interview yesterday "it is galling to the Australian public after 4½ years of war, during which Australian forces fought in nearly every world theatre, to read in a newspaper that Australians better get into the Pacific war themselves."

He said his comment was prompted by an editorial appearing in the Chicago Tribune.

(The Tribune in an editorial March 10 stated: "Rather than carping about the pay of American soldiers, the Australians had better be getting into the Pacific war themselves. They still are under severe restrictions against sending drafted troops beyond the area of Australia's direct interest.")

Buy Up Tea

NEW YORK, March 16.—(CP)—The British ministry of food "has bought up the whole of this year's exportable surplus of tea from India, Ceylon and East Africa, the BBC said yesterday, adding: "The tea has been bought on behalf of the Dominions and Allied and Neutral countries, and the present ration in Britain, half a pound a month, will not go up."

Fifty Employees Get Suspensions In Ford Strike

DETROIT, March 16.—(AP)—The Ford Motor Company announced last night the indefinite suspension of 50 employees accused of participating in yesterday's wildcat strike "pending further investigation and with the probability additional discipline will be imposed."

The suspensions continued a crackdown against wildcat work stoppages begun a week ago in connection with an earlier strike, which union officers said was likewise unauthorized.

The Ford Company said an even larger group might be suspended Thursday following further interviews.

PRIVATE BUCK

Air Power

Main Target Is Luftwaffe

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

Dispatches from London are beginning to confirm what was evident to airmen from the events themselves. The present phase of the aerial attack on Fortress Europe differs from all previous phases in that the main target is German air power: the Luftwaffe, and especially its fighter command.

It is unavoidable that the public should look at every raid as a separate action, complete in itself. But we need to regard it as only a minor element in a great and furious battle—by all odds the greatest air battle since the birth of aerial fortification. The losses sustained by our attacking forces in any given assault, for that reason, must be considered in relation to the bigger picture.

de Seversky

The fact that American bomber armadas are at last penetrating Germany for daylight attacks as deeply as Berlin is a good omen for our side. The tactical application of our forces, the superb coordination between bomber and fighter aircraft and everything else connected with the first American air blow at Berlin speak volumes for the brilliant leadership of Gen. Carl Spaatz and the skill of our flying personnel.

Our losses in this attack were large; roughly 10 per cent. of the bomber strength. For some time now deep penetrations into Germany aimed at vital targets have involved average sacrifice of some 10 per cent. of the participating bombing force. Since planes lost outside Germany-held territory are not divulged, the actual percentage is without doubt larger.

LOSS RATIO

It is, of course, a loss ratio reflecting the relative strength of the opposing air powers; not only the numerical strength, but the respective military characteristics or opposing planes in such matters as armor, firepower, manoeuvreability and general performance in action. For that reason it is important to watch the ratio, noting whether it remains stabilized at the 10 per cent. average or varies from it in either direction.

Losses in any single assault are not significant. They may be especially low because of complete surprise, clever exploitation of weather advantage, some new tactical manoeuvre or strong concentration over a particular target. By the same token they may be exceptionally high when some of our planes go astray or the enemy puts over a surprise tactic against us.

For some time official sources in Washington informed the American people that we were all right as long as our losses were kept within 5 per cent, because that was well within our ability to replace equipment and personnel. It is that which makes the present 10 per cent average seem dangerously excessive to the general public. But we may safely deduce from the engagements under way that our air commanders do not consider the cost too great for what is being achieved.

SUPPLIES WIPED OUT

More than a year ago, in the Pacific, the Japanese sent 40 unescorted bombers to attack American supplies accumulated in great volume in preparation for an important invasion move. We knocked out 30 of these 40 bombers, at a cost of only two planes to ourselves, and therefore boasted of a 15-to-1 victory in the air. The truth, however, is that the Japanese said succeeded in wiping out supplies accumulated at great cost in lives and substance, and in endangering the position of our local forces. In terms of results accomplished, therefore, the Japanese had really been victorious. The high price they paid was justified by the objective.

Nevertheless, the trend of losses in the great European air battle must be watched as the sure guide to how the battle is going. Should the percentage of planes sacrificed continue to mount under identical conditions of operation, it will serve as a warning that we are approaching a point where operations may become unprofitable. That would necessitate far-reaching revision of our tactics and equipment, and might postpone a decision. On the other hand, should our losses tend to decrease sharply it will be the signal that we are approaching victory in the aerial struggle and that true freedom of the skies is within our grasp.

At this writing, operations are apparently proceeding as expected, without any major surprises. Official claims out of Washington in the past year that we could penetrate anywhere in Germany at will without protection have turned out to be unrealistic. We have had to improvise large-scale fighter protection to accept substantial aircraft losses. But there are few abler air strategists than General Spaatz. If he is accepting battle at the present rate of airplane casualties, it means that the investment is worth while and that we are making progress.

The American people have every reason to share the confidence of airmen in his leadership in the greatest air battle of all time.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

REGINA Commandos, who took the Saskatchewan junior title in two straight over University of Saskatchewan Huskies are reported to have a club which compares very favorably with the best that city has ever produced. They won last night 3-1 without their two Mystery Kids, Frankie Mathers and Eric Sandberg, but the score was considerably different to the 11-3 count recorded at Saskatoon in the first game.

Both Mathers and Sandberg are in the R.C.A.F., but have been permitted at intervals to play with the Commandos. Opposition pucksters never seemed to know when this pair might be lined up against them—hence the nickname. They were allowed to go to Saskatoon on the "once a week" ruling but couldn't make the grade Wednesday.

Mathers is rated as a great rushing-defencemen and Sandberg plays up forward. Whether they will be permitted to perform for Commandos any more, is of course up to the R.C.A.F., but with the two, Regina seems to stack up as a likely threat for Dominion honors.

Lou Hauck, wingman who invariably collects more than his share of goals—but held scoreless last night—is from Kerrobert, Sask., cradle of many fine hockey players. Al Greenaway, goalie is generally credited with having had much to do with the excellent showing of his team.

THEY DIVIDE 85 YEARS

WITH 1,339 entries actually "on the line" and more in the offing, the current five-pin tournament at the Rec is turning out to be quite an event. Most of the Calgarians will be in action on Friday.

Three of the southern city's keglers, Charles Hilton, Ernie Stark and Sgt. Harold Casson were up scouting the opposition yesterday. Hilton teamed with Bill Carlson, local bowler, in the doubles last night, but the score keeper allowed them only 1,315.

Watt Ramsey and Don Turvey, one entry in the doubles, board a combined age of 85 years. Nothing unusual about the total of course, but just wait to see how they split it. Watt claims 71 of those years, leaving only 14 for Don. They rolled on Tuesday, rang up a score of 1,198 and 609 went to the junior member of the firm. His games were 227, 225 and 157. What's more, Don shared with his dad, Hec Turvey, in the tournament a year ago and they're on tonight's draw too.

A mother and daughter act was included in the performance last night of the Five Aces, new leaders in the race for mixed team honors. Mrs. C. A. Fleming, the mother got away to a bad start with 148, but took 163 for her second string and then went on up to 218 on her third for a total of 531. In the eighth frame of her final game, Mrs. Fleming had only 128, then struck out—four in a row. Daughter Vi, turned in a total of 733, just 23 pins below George Poole, high scorer for the team. She knocked over 290 in her last game, her others being 207 and 236.

Take Series Two Straight

Commandos Oust Huskies From Sask. Junior Playoffs

REGINA, March 16.—(CP)—Regina Commandos captured the Saskatchewan junior hockey title here last night when they defeated University of Saskatchewan Huskies 3-1 in the second of a best of three-game series. Commandos won the first game Saturday 11-3. Commandos will meet Trail Juniors in the next round of Memorial cup play-offs.

Huskies drew first blood, with G. Jacobsen scoring at 5:11. Gawthrop of Commandos tied the game at 19:05 of the period. Ryan gave the Regina seaters the lead midway in the middle period while Beach clinched the verdict at 18:25 of the final frame.

The northern Saskatchewan champions appeared to lack polish although they did display flashes of hard thumping after moving into a defensive shell when they took an early lead.

Commandos took command midway in the game but Huskies did not begin storming tactics until late in the last period.

Beach's third goal for Regina was of the gift variety. He picked up a loose disc close in and had the Saskatoon goalkeeper beat all the way.

LINEUPS

Huskies—Wildfong, Shere, Couture, Daniels, Ward, Sproul. Subs: Jacobson, Hayes, Schwinghamer, Lomow.

Commandos — Greenaway; Landsbreski, Beach; Sanderson, Wilkie, Subs: Petryna, Ryan, Gawthrop, Hauck, Bell.

Officials: Catlin of Saskatoon and Fuller of Regina.

SUMMARY

First period: 1—Huskies, Jacobson (Hayes), 5:11; 2—Commandos, Gawthrop (Hauck), 19:05. Penalties, none.

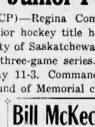

Second period: 3—Commandos, Beach (Lambrecht), 12:02. Penalties, none.

Third period: 4—Commandos, Beach, 18:25. Penalties: Reardon (2), Ryan, Couture, Sanderson.

Bill McKechnie Has His Players Doing Rhumba

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 16. —(AP)—Bill McKechnie wandered into Indiana university fieldhouse to watch the Cincinnati Reds work out Tuesday couldn't believe what they saw.

There were manager Bill McKechnie's muscular athletes "bumping and grinding" in an attempt to do the rhumba, and they were tripping the bone - toe - light fantastic to the tune of an accordion played by a pretty little blonde girl attired in an abbreviated costume.

Bill McKechnie

The idea was McKechnie's. He explained it was good exercise, although not necessarily a prerequisite to winning a National League pennant.

Teacher-for-the-morning session was recruit pitcher Tomas De La Cruz, a Cuban who played for Syracuse last year and who says he is one of the best rhumba dancers in all Havana.

The other players, who joined the enterprise with suspicious reluctance, neared a state of rebellion as the newness of the thing wore off, especially when the soldiers gave them a very large "ha ha ha" and made other uncouth noises.

When the team got around to baseball De La Cruz also held the centre of the stage as the big schoolmarm threw a "few fast ones" to a battery mate. They had plenty of "smoke".

12 Senior Teams Still in Running

Twelve senior hockey teams remained in contention today for the Canadian senior hockey championship and Allan cup, with eight of the survivors in eastern Canada and four in western Canada.

THE SURVIVORS

East—Maritimes: Deep Brook Navy, Truro Bearcats. Quebec: Quebec Aces, Montreal Royals. Ottawa District: Hull Volants, Ottawa Canadiens. Ontario: Hamilton Majors, Sudbury Open Pit.

West—Thunder Bay District: Port Arthur Shipbuilders, Fort Frances All-Stars.

Alberta: Edmonton Vics. British Columbia: New Westminster Lodestars.

Nick Kowal New Leader For Singles

FIVE ACES took over leadership in the mixed teams event when they rolled 3,350 on Wednesday, the third day of annual tournament of the Edmonton Five-pin Bowling Association which is being held at Recreation alleys this week. Previous high was 3,258 made by Eddies on Monday. Wops won last year with 3,321.

FO. "Nick" Kowal displaced Len West and Arnold Goulson who were tied with 807 for the lead in men's singles, when he hit 860 last night and J. O. Smith is the new pace setter for men's aggregate with 2,376.

No other changes resulted from the third day's draws. Elsie Rintoul still holds top spot for ladies' singles with 746 and Bob English and Horace Soley retain men's doubles with 1,662 and the Bobbie Bruce-Ivy Rennie count of 1,572 is also high. Deuces Wild head the parade for men's teams with 3,310 and Margaret Brown is ladies' aggregate leader with an even 2,000.

Entries continued to climb yesterday and Vic Bailey, tournament manager stated last night that the figure stood at exactly 1,339, with several from Calgary still to be officially reported.

Five Aces compiled team game counts of 1,058, 1,016 and 1,165 in their drive to the No. 1 spot for mixed teams. Their total pin total was 3,266 and their handicap 84, which gave them the new high of 3,350.

Their individual scores were as follows: Ernie Ford 211, 264, 224—699; Mary Beggs 230, 149, 168—547; Vi Fleming 207, 236, 290—733; Mrs. C. A. Fleming 148, 165, 218—531; George Poole 289, 202, 265—756.

In chalking up the new men's singles of 860, FO. "Nick" Kowal was really hot on his first string with 268. He dropped down to 218 for the second game and added 230 for his final effort. His handicap was 144.

H. Doughty had the second best singles score yesterday, 792.

J. O. Smith's singles score of 769 lifted him into the premier spot for men's aggregate. His first game was only 173, but he climbed to 264 in the second and rang up 332 on his final inning for 769 actual on. J.O.'s handicap for the tournament is 90.

Purples passed up a grand opportunity to roll out in front for men's teams last night. Their first game total was 1,239, but they slipped to 1,019 in the second and so their total 1,173 is third very far behind as it gave them a total of only 3,545 —high for the day, but well behind the 3,810 made by Under Turvey's Deuces Wild on Tuesday.

Jim Rutherford had best individual game score for Purples with 300 and the same total for his three, 775. Individual scores were: Alf Blyth 241, 214, 219—674; Presty Giffen 278, 172, 324—774; Bob Rintoul 213, 203, 233—649; Jim Rutherford 300, 288, 247—775; "Chick" Stroud 207, 201, 255—663.

Mary Griffin turned in the best ladies' singles yesterday, a 717 and Bob Campbell's duo the high ladies' doubles, 1,290. Scott-Myler's 1,418 was the leading mixed doubles and Gambler's 3,055 the top ladies' team effort. Clippers placed second to Purples for men's teams with 3,465 and Ramsey's made 3,444. There will be three more draws again tonight—7:00, 8:15 and 9:20.

THE LEADERS

Men's Singles: Nick Kowal 860.
Ladies' Singles: Elsie Rintoul 746.
Men's Doubles: Bob English-Horace Soley 1,662.
Ladies' Doubles: Bobbie Bruce-Ivy Rennie 1,572.
Mixed Doubles: Elsie Rintoul-Jack McCallum 1,517.
Men's Teams: Deuces Wild 3,810.

No Successor To Flin Flon

PORT ARTHUR, March 16.—(CP)—Frank Sargent, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday as far as he knew there would be no successor to Flin Flon Bombers as Saskatchewan representatives in the Allan cup play-offs.

Officials of the Flin Flon club announced Tuesday night it would not participate in the play-offs as the labor situation is too acute to permit players to be away from employment. The Bombers are engaged at present in best-of-five series with Saskatoon H.M.C.S. Unicorn for the Saskatchewan championship. Mr. Sargent said the series now in progress between Navy Westminster Lodestars and Edmonton Vics automatically becomes the western semi-final.

Howie Shultz Signs Contract

Dodgers Hold First Workout

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y., March 16.—(AP)—Towering Howie Schultz, six-foot six-inch first sacker from St. Paul, Minn., became the 17th signed Brooklyn Dodger Thursday as manager Lippy Leo Durocher sent his Flatbush flock through its first workout of the baseball season in the army field house at West Point.

The Brooks are starting the owl season early with night life latitude as a must on the program every day except Saturday and Sunday.

Although some 30 to 35 candidates responded for the opener, only nine of those were on the Brooklyn roster. Approximately 20 youngsters gleaned from a nation-wide baseball school were present for a look-see before assignment to links of the farm system.

Leo Durocher

A late flurry of business kept the Branch Rickeys, both senior and junior, busy in their Brooklyn office but both were expected today. It was quite evident that some of the unfinished business in Brooklyn was concerned with such unsigned Dodgers as Arky Vaughan, Babe Phelps, French Bonjangary, Augie Galan and Les Webber.

Port Arthur Navy Ties Flyers 4-4

PORT ARTHUR, March 16.—(CP)—H.M.C.S. Griffon won the lakehead junior hockey championship here last night, holding Port Arthur Flyers to a 4-4 tie to take the two-game, total-goal series 10-9.

The sailors are barred from Memorial cup play-offs and Flyers won the right to represent Thunder Bay by defeating Port Arthur West Ends in an earlier series.

OS. Cal Gardiner, with two Pentti Lund, and OS. Jack Gillespie tallied for the sailors. Jack Marshall notched two for Flyers, Calum MacKay and Steve Black, one each.

Buffalo Beats Cleveland 9-7

CLEVELAND, March 16.—(AP)—The Buffalo Bisons clung to their chance for first place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League by outshooting the Cleveland Barons, western division leaders 9-7, in a wild-scoring game before 9,236 last night.

Buffalo can win the eastern lead by taking two from Hershey, the present pacemaker, over the week-end.

Three players scored twice for Buffalo — Thurier, Kobussen and Leger, the other goals going to Alexas, Hunt and Thibeault. Thurier also counted three assists. Cunningham counted twice for the Barons and also scored an assist. The other Cleveland goal-getters were Lavell, Burlington, Adolph, Shabaga and Bartholome.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, March 16.—(CP)— Lure of the dollar has replaced the old hometown pride and civic boosters spirit that once made Ottawa the centre of the hockey world, laments Clare Brunton, manager of the Ottawa auditorium and a backer of the Ottawa Commandos. On the heels of Commandos crushing playoff defeat at the hands of Montreal Royals, Brunton let down his hair to Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley.

Brunton says there were too many players on the team who didn't call Ottawa their home, so naturally they hadn't the old civic pride and fighting spirit. And worst of all, "they are just putting in their time for their pay cheques."

At that, those Ottawa "homesteaders" on last year's Commandos and the 1942 R.C.A.F. Flyers brought a lot of civic pride to the parliament city by bringing home the Allan cup those two years. Maybe the pay was better then!

Coast split?

Tempers are ruffled on the west coast over suspension of Vancouver St. Regis senior hockey team. Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell reports there are signs a separate hockey organization may be set up on the Pacific coast and all C.A.H.A. ties severed. Hockey men in California may be interested too.

Strip gamblers note:

Police raiding a Turkish bath in Windsor surprised five men, clad only in bath towels, and engaged in a spirited game of cards. In front of them was a pile of silver and greenbacks.

"Pick it up, pick it up," yelled the proprietor, perhaps a drill sergeant in his youth, and the gamblers obligingly grabbed up the money. Since they had no pockets in their bath towel sarongs, they were caught red-handed and booked on gambling charges.

That points a moral of some kind.

Incidentally:

When Trail Tigers downed Edmonton Canadians in the junior playoffs it marked only the second time on record any B.C. junior team advanced beyond the provincial championship. In 1936 Trail defeated Calgary Jimmies, but was soon stopped by Saskatoon Wesleys.

McLeod Fighters Enter Tourney

Two entries have been received from McLeod for the northern Alberta Inter-Service boxing tournament being held at the arena at the No. 3 "M" Depot on Friday night starting at 8 o'clock.

The pair from McLeod are LAC. Bradshaw who will fight in the 130-pound class and LAC. Walliser who is a 175-pounder.

One of the best bouts of the card will likely be the one in which Bill Peterson of the U.S.A. base takes part in. He was one of the three fighters stationed here that attended the Golden Groves tournament at Chicago recently.

Red Deer Cagers Defeat Camrose For League Title

RED DEER, March 16.—Camrose and Red Deer Training Centres dispatched their respective basketball clubs to neutral territory Saturday evening for a sudden death game to determine the championship of the Central Alberta Inter-Service Basketball League. Staged at Wetaskiwin, the tussle resulted in a 28-19 win for A20 after a nip and tuck struggle until the last few minutes when the Red Deer hoopsters did some inspired aiming to convert a slender margin into a decisive victory.

After the trouneing they received at the hands of the Camrose cagers in the last engagement, the A20 lads were by no means odd-on favorites and they went into action without "Pat" Bickerton, coach and ace point-getter, who was on the sick list. Having filled away in Central Alberta title, the Red Deer club is now negotiating with the U.S.A.A.F. quintet at Edmonton for a series to determine supremacy for provincial honors, who will ultimately meet the Currie cagers.

The Wheelers will be honored by the Red Deer Board of Trade at a banquet to be held next Wednesday. This good-will gesture from a representation of citizens who have already given staunch support to the club is appreciated not only by the players but by the entire training centre.

Currie did an effective job of winning the major sporting event in Calgary last Saturday, but A20 received a modicum of consolation from a minor victory over their Calgary contemporaries.

The C.W.A.C. basketball club from Red Deer travelled south to meet the Currie soldierette hoopsters in an exhibition at A16, and came out with a 21-10 victory to bolster their spirits before the big hockey event.

Legion Baseball Youths Are Ruled Off Major Clubs

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)— Youths still eligible for American Legion baseball competition were ruled off major and minor league clubs Wednesday by Commissioner

Judge Landis

Kenesaw Mountain Landis. He warned contracts with such boys would be declared null and void and that fines of $500 would be imposed for such dealings.

Several minor league teams have bolstered their manpower recently by signing into American Legion player pools. The age limit for Legion ball players is 16.

"American Legion junior baseball is of very great value and service to the boys and their communities and in popularizing baseball," Landis said. "It must not be diverted from that service nor be interfered with in any way by professional clubs."

Vics Confident Will Tie Series Tonight's Game

CALGARY, March 16.—(CP)— New Westminster Lodestars and Edmonton Vics square off in the second game of their best-of-five playoff at the Arena here tonight, Lodestars have a game in hand as the result of their 7-3 victory on Tuesday night but the Edmonton sextet are fully confident that with the experience and conditioning gained in the first game they will be able to give a much better account of themselves in the coming contest.

Flooding of the ice surface at the end of each period caused players on both sides considerable trouble and the hard-fast sheet seemed to disorganize their plays somewhat. Edmonton expects to be strengthened by the addition of Joe Hamel, who will return from Trail in time to take part in tonight's game. Both squads came through the opening game without any injuries and will be at full strength.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Puzzled fight fans are convinced that the mad mathematicians of Jacobs' Beach have their plus and minus signs completely screwed up when, after four straight upsets at Madison Square Garden, they make Beau Jack a 2-1 favorite to beat Al "Bummy" Davis Friday night.

Even guys who went no further than the fourth grade in grammar school question the mental operations of the "smart-money boys" at 49th street when they make former lightweight champion Jack a lopsided favorite over welter Bummy, a blood-lightning puncher.

Apparently there are two very simple facts to be considered in the problem: (1) on Feb. 18, Davis scored a technical knockout over Bob Montgomery in 63 seconds; (2) on March 3, Montgomery wrested the lightweight title, New York version, from Beau Jack on a 15-round decision. By what mathematical process, the fans want to know, do they add up to a pair of 2-1 favoring Beau Jack over Davis?

ALSO PUZZLED

FRANKLY, we are puzzled; because it is our personal opinion that Davis, a tough little guy from Brooklyn will smack brown-skinned Beau so lustily on the lug that Beau will hear the mocking birds singing in the magnolia blossoms of his native Georgia. To us it seems that this 2-1 price is the season's most magnificent over-lay.

In considering this price or any other quotation emanating from Jacobs' jetty—the habitat of double-talk and double-dealing—it is wise to remember that the smart-money boys rarely reach any conclusion by straight-away thinking. A straight line never is the shortest distance between two points for these chronic manoeuvrers.

For example, they saw Davis register the quickest main event knockout over Montgomery in Garden history. But they toss that kayo out of consideration, because they regard it as a "fluke".

TERRIFIC PUNCHER

IN a sense, that 63-second kayo was a fluke; because Davis stunned Montgomery with left hooks and floored him twice before the Philadelphia negro was warmed up. But there was no fluke about the dynamite in Bummy's left fist—the explosiveness that could blast rugged Monty into helplessness for the first time in his career of 67 professional fights. Montgomery was a 9-5 favorite that night.

Davis is a terrific puncher—a much harder hitter with either hand than Beau Jack. Moreover, he is a welterweight who has agreed to come in at 144 pounds, giving him a weight advantage of eight or nine pounds over Jack, a natural lightweight. Since Bummy's return to the ring, after coming out of the army, he has won 15 of 20 fights—12 by knockouts. He lost four early in the campaign and drew once.

The smart-money boys are depending upon Jack's speed and alleged boxing skill. Also upon his ruggedness. He never has been knocked out. Davis was stopped once—in his second bout with Fritzie Zivic. Whether Beau is faster than the "new" Davis, who had feet and spine adjusted, we do not know. But the Beau is no Packey McFarland as a boxer. And he can't take it in the body, where Bummy is sure to blast him—good.

Maybe we're all wrong about this; but we'll have to be shown.

Sudbury Defeats Hamilton Majors In Series Opener

HAMILTON, Ont., March 16—(CP)—Sudbury Open Pit held off a last period rush by Hamilton Majors to score a 4-2 victory in the first game of the best-of-five all-Ontario senior hockey final here last night.

The miners, Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions, held Majors, O.H.A. titlists, scoreless until the third period while netting one goal in each of the opening stanzas.

Sudbury played a close-checking game throughout and the defence line of Alex Singbush and Rollie McLenahan broke up many plays by the Hamilton forwards.

Oscar Clouthier, who returned to Sudbury last year after a season with Buffalo Ankerite, Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions in 1941, scored two goals for the visitors and George Blake and Morris Vaillancourt got the others.

Shillington and Dinning counted for Hamilton.

St. James Wins Manitoba Junior Hockey Playoff

WINNIPEG, March 16.—(CP)—St. James Canadians won the Manitoba junior hockey championship Wednesday night, succeeding Winnipeg Rangers. Memorial cup holders, by defeating St. Boniface Athletics 11-3 to take the best-of-five finals 3-0.

Canadians, who won the first and second games 5-4 and 8-4, will meet Port Arthur Flyers in the Memorial cup playoffs.

Canadians smashed home two goals in each of the first two periods before opening their big offensive to outscore St. Boniface 7-3 in the final session.

Ian Mackintosh led the attack with four goals and two assists while Tom Gacek netted three, Stan Craig two and Ken McFerran and Frank Kuly one each for St. James.

Hec Bourgeois tallied twice for St. Boniface and Don Thurston once.

Some 2,500 fans, largest crowd at a junior game here this season, saw Canucks outplay their rivals throughout.

Little Ralph Tattam was outstanding for St. Boniface despite the one-sided final score. He could not stand the pressure, however, and in the last five minutes Canadians rammed home five counters, three of them in 27 seconds.

St. James will meet Port Arthur in a best-of-five western semi-final series here next week.

Top Team Undetermined

American League Sets Up Alternate 7-Game Schedules

PITTSBURGH, March 16.—(AP)—Because first-place winners are still undetermined, American Hockey League executives meeting here Wednesday set up alternate seven-game schedules for the league's annual playoff.

President Maurice Podoloff of New Haven said five games being played this week will determine whether Buffalo, now five points behind, or Hershey, which stands currently in first place, will be finalist for the eastern division.

Should Hershey gain one point by a tie or win, the team will meet Cleveland, the western finalist, March 21 at Cleveland. Other games would be played March 23, 25 and 30 at Hershey; March 26, 28 and April 1 at Cleveland.

If Buffalo becomes eastern finalist, games will be played at Buffalo March 21, 26 and 30; at Cleveland, March 23, 25, 28 and April 1.

Games scheduled for second place contestants are: should Buffalo be in second place, Indianapolis at Buffalo March 21, 23, 29 and April 2; Buffalo at Indianapolis March 24, 26 and 30; should Hershey be in second place, Hershey at Indianapolis March 21, 26 and 30; Indianapolis at Hershey March 23, 25, 28 and April 1.

Championship games will be arranged as soon as possible after currently planned playoffs, Podoloff said.

Landing Craft Drill

Canucks Preparing for Task Of Carrying Invasion Troops

By DOUG HOW

A BRITISH PORT, March 16.—(CP)—Week in, week out, the landing craft sail out of the harbor, rehearse in a make-believe of the real thing, put back into harbor and neatle, side by side, at the jetties.

Aboard are crews of young Canadians. Some of them experienced in the trade of combined operations; at least one of them a veteran of five invasions; most of them recruits to amphibious warfare.

Out of the combined operations base in this harbor they train to carry land forces in the opening of the second front. The formation of their flotillas of large infantry landing craft, turned over to Canadians after service with the British in the Mediterranean, is ready; for the seamen have not allowed the administrative process to slow their preparations.

UNITS NOT KNOWN

Whether the Canadian craft will carry Canadian troops ashore on the day of invasion is a subject officials decline to discuss.

Like the skippers of most of his ships, Lt. Cmdr. Hugh Doheny came up from the lower deck and he finds himself in command today of men who know the ropes but more who don't. His trials are shared by his fellow flotilla commander, Lt. Cmdr. H. T. Huston of Fossburn, Man., another graduate of the ranks.

Under these men are such seasoned hands as Lieut. Dana Ramsay of Vancouver who has taken landing craft into Dieppe, North Africa, Sicily, Reggio and Salerno, Italy; Lieut. J. E. O'Rourke of Calgary on whose wardroom wall hangs a tommy-gun with its butt scarred by the words "St. Nazaire" and "Dieppe"; two of the shows in which he has seen action; stoker mechanics Colin Gellatly, Princeton, B.C., and Orvig Ralston, New Westminster, B.C. who hid for nine days behind the German lines in Italy after taking British commandos ashore.

These men got their experience under the Royal Navy.

But the majority of men, says Lt. Cmdr. W. S. Brooke, Montreal, staff officer for combined operations at R.C.N. headquarters in London, have not been to sea as fighting sailors.

MAJOR CONTRIBUTION

Their efforts on invasion day will be minor in the major naval contributions Canada will make.

Miles from this port other Canadian seamen have been training for another phase of the assault—as naval commandos to keep landsea co-operating working smoothly on the beaches. Their chief is Lt. Cmdr. D. J. O'Hagan who has won the George Medal and Bar and now bears the title of "principal beachmaster."

These are the seamen who wear a combination of naval navy uniform, battle dress and naval caps.

They will have a big job, too, come invasion day.

'Phone Service To Eire May Be Suspended

LONDON, March 16.—(CP)—Telephone communication between Britain and neutral Eire is likely to be suspended in the wake of the ban put on travel to Ireland to protect Allied invasion secrets, it was reported last night. There may be a similar ban on telephone communication between northern Ireland and Eire.

As a further measure of preventing Eire from being the channel through which vital secrets might reach Germany and Japan it was considered likely that censorship of letters between northern Ireland and Eire would be instituted this week.

NO HINTS GIVEN

Prime Minister Churchill declined in the House of Commons yesterday to give a hint of the next step to be taken to seal off Eire. He had been asked if the government would discontinue coal, oil, tea and other shipments to Eire whose government refused a United States request to oust Axis diplomats from Dublin.

When asked whether the note handed to de Valera was supported by specific evidence that Axis diplomatic agents had been exploiting their position in Dublin, Mr. Churchill said: "It would not be in the public interest to discuss what information the British government have regarding activities of Axis agents in southern Ireland."

DUBLIN, March 16.—(CP)—The Dail united solidly last night in support of the refusal of Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's government to grant the request of the United States that the German legation and the Japanese consulate in Dublin be closed.

Speakers in a calm, three-hour debate, said that Eire was scrupulously observing neutrality.

"Eire's reply to the American note was the reply of a united nation striving to defend the right to maintain an honorable way of life," said labor leader William Norton.

"We have the right to demand that aggression and sanctions ought not to be utilized by nations which are never slow to protest to the rest of the world that they are liberty loving."

WASHINGTON, March 16 — (AP)—The United States government is believed to be preparing new diplomatic moves in an effort to persuade Eire to oust Axis diplomats.

It is no secret this government takes a very serious view of the presence of German and Japanese representatives in Eire, and Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's refusal to expel them in no way closes the matter.

It is likely a reaffirmation of the American stand, pointing out to the Irish government the profound concern its refusal to clean out the Axis diplomats has caused here, will be the next American step.

Odlum Presents Papers to Chiang

CHUNGKING, March 16.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlum yesterday presented his credentials as Canada's first ambassador to China.

The letters of credence, addressed to President Chiang Kai-shek and signed by "Your old friend George R.I." described the former commander of a Canadian division in Britain as "Our trusty and well-beloved Major-General Victor Wentworth Odlum."

Odlum said in a speech in the National Government's Hall of Ceremonies where the presentation took place that Canadians had watched with constantly increasing admiration the "magnificent courage" with which China has repelled repeated onslaughts of a treacherous and powerful enemy."

Aid For Europe's Children Urged

LONDON, March 16.—(CP)—Nearly 10,000,000 children in Europe need speedy aid, the Archbishop of Canterbury told the house of lords yesterday in urging the government to send enough medical requirments, vitamin tablets and dried milk to Europe to avoid radical deterioration of the people's health.

The archbishop gave these figures of children requiring swift aid:

Greece, 1,900,000; Netherlands, about 300,000; Poland, 3,500,000; Czecho-Slovakia, 1,600,000; Yugoslovakia, 2,100,000.

Replying for the government, the Earl of Selborne, minister of economic warfare, agreed the greatest suffering existed in many parts of the continent and said every change in the situation is taken into account to see whether it justifies any blockade adjustment.

Britain has tried to mitigate the blockade's effect on occupied countries, he said, but Germany has Europe rationed and organized in her own interests.

House Attack Is Challenged By Churchill

By JAMES LONG

LONDON, March 16.— (AP)— Prime Minister Churchill answered an attack on the Atlantic Charter in the House of Commons today with a confident challenge to the opposition to test the government's strength, and declared:

It is rather late in the day to begin these sweeping condemnations of the Atlantic Charter which at the time seemed to receive a cordial welcome generally."

The issue arose when Rhys Davies, Labor, asked Mr. Churchill to arrange debate and said recent statements on the charter by the prime minister and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden suggested that some of its principles had been abandoned.

VOICES OPPOSITION

Opposition to the charter was voiced by a Conservative member, Maurice Petherick, who asked:

"Are you aware that the desire for debate is not confined only to the honorable member for Westhoughton (Rhys Davies) and those who think as he does? It is also shared by those who maintain that the Atlantic Charter, where it is not platitudinous, contains principles highly dangerous to the British and Allied cause."

Of Davies' motion for debate Mr. Churchill said:

"Although this motion is not sponsored by any organized political party it is couched in hostile terms, is supported by 70 members, and wears the aspect of a vote of censure.

CAN GIVE CHALLENGE

"There being no official party opposing the government, a sufficient number of members banding themselves together ought, in my view, to have an opportunity of bringing their challenge to a test."

"If however," he went on, "it is not a vote of censure we shall not give time, as the session already is crowded."

This left up to the framers of the original motion whether they wish to rephrase it as a formal call for a vote of censure. There was no immediate indication of their decision.

Brig. Whitelaw Is Retired on Medical Grounds

OTTAWA, March 16. — (CP) — Defence headquarters announced yesterday the retirement on medical grounds of Brig. Robert Gordon Whitelaw, 50, who recently has been chairman of a committee on the home war establishment.

Brig. Whitelaw, a permanent force officer, was the first commandant of the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville. Subsequently, on reorganization of the Pacific Command, Brig. Whitelaw became officer in charge of administration in the Vancouver headquarters.

A.R.P. Workers Allowed to Assist In Fire-Fighting

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Brig.-Gen. Alex Ross, head of the A.R.P. directorate, said in a statement last night that A.R.P. committees are free to advise their workers that they may, if they so desire, "respond to any reasonable call to assist in extinguishing a fire, particularly where such fires are in areas where they might detrimentally affect our war effort either by destroying workers' homes or interfering with industry."

Gen. Ross made public a letter sent to A.R.P. committees concerned in reply to questions on the use of fire-fighting equipment to assist neighboring municipalities.

"Having regard to our experience elsewhere, I feel that it is desirable that our equipment should be used wherever necessary in any emergency which may develop," the letter said.

Finland Still Ponders Reply To New Terms

By HUBERT UXKULL

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

STOCKHOLM, March 16 — Finland still pondered her reply today to Russia's latest armistice note, which was reported reliably to offer three concessions from the original Soviet demands.

Helsinki dispatches said the Finnish government was not expected to make its final decision until today despite earlier reports the government had rejected the Soviet note, ending all possibility of peace discussions.

Russia was understood to have made it clear she expects the Finnish reply before Saturday.

MAKE CONCESSIONS

Reliable sources close to Swedish government and Soviet diplomatic circles said the Russian note, far from standing by the original armistice demands as first reported had made these concessions:

1. Finland need only "isolate" German troops within her borders. The original demand was for interrnment of the Nazi troops.

2. The demand for release and extradition of war prisoners and civilian internees need not include refugees from the Baltic states.

3. If the Finns remain adamant regarding transfer of Hango and Petsamo to Russia as provided in the 1940 Russian-Finnish treaty, the Soviets are willing to consider other territory as a substitute.

MOST IMPORTANT

The moderation of the demand for interrnment of some 100,000 German troops in Finland was believed the most important, since the Finns obviously would be unable to intern Nazi forces without the help of the Red army, which they were reluctant to call upon.

Mere "isolation" of the German troops might permit their orderly withdrawal from northern Finland to Norway, which the Nazi command has been reported considering.

6 Willkie Delegates Claimed in Primary

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Results of the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary test—first in the United States—brought comfort yesterday to supporters of both Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

The vote for a mixed 11-man delegation to the national convention was not a clear-cut test because no candidate had a full slate of delegates in the running. But it would sum up this way:

Four delegates unpledged but previously announced for Willkie; two delegates pledged to Dewey outright; five delegates unpledged with no announcement of their stand, but two are claimed for Willkie.

Thus, six of the 11 are claimed for Willkie, a bare majority in a state conceded to be a Willkie stronghold.

662 Repatriated War Prisoners Back in States

By GEORGE MILLER

JERSEY CITY, N.J., March 16. —(AP)—After the privations of life in Nazi internment camps and the terrors of a "hell train" on which they left the Reich, 374 non-official civilians patiently waited today aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm to set foot on free soil again.

Disembarkation of the official party of 169 diplomatic attaches, Red Cross personnel and newspapermen was completed last night, seven hours after the Swedish ship docked.

First to leave were 36 wounded U.S. servicemen. Also cleared by the investigation were 103 Latin Americans. No Canadians were aboard.

TELL OF "HELL TRAIN"

Still aboard when the examinations were resumed today were the remainder of the 662 who made the trip. Among them were some who told Mel Most, Associated Press staff member at Vichy and himself a German passenger, of seeing anti-collaborationist Frenchmen shot dead by Nazis near the Compiegne internment camp; of seeing Augsberg a blazing inferno after an Allied bombing; and of being sealed in freezing cars in a "hell train" en route to Lisbon, Portugal.

One passenger on that train was Jeanette Kaufman, 68, of Chicago, who suffered a stroke during the trip and died aboard the Gripsholm, March 7, the day after the ship sailed.

Other travellers aboard the train told of being denied all drinking water and being kept without food for 24 hours.

FEELING OF RELIEF

There was an apparent feeling of relief among the repatriates as the exchange ship swung up the New York harbor, but little show of jubilation.

S. Pinckney Tuck, U.S. charge d'affaires at Vichy and the highest ranking diplomat in the American party, declared that "after 15 months of detention we are now able to appreciate the full value of the word 'freedom'."

"Mystery Quints" Carefully Guarded

BUENOS AIRES, March 16—(AP)—The mystery quintuplets, who, Buenos Aires newspapers reported, were born eight months ago to a family living in the suburbs of the capital, are being carefully guarded from the public gaze.

The infants—three girls and two boys—failed to appear yesterday for their customary airing in baby carriages.

Newspapermen and photographers who went to the modern residence which is the home of Senor and Senora Franco Dilgenti, parents of the quints and three other children, got no farther than the front door.

The fathers refusal to indicate exactly where the children were born prevented a quick check of the registration of their birth. The lack of this detail caused the English-language Buenos Aires Herald, which first published the story, to treat it with caution.

Pruritis—Intense Itching

Relieved quickly by this Medicinal Ointment

There are two forms of itching which are especially distressing. First pruritis vulvae—from which only women suffer and second pruritis ani—itching at the rectum from piles, pin worms or varicose veins.

The causes of both these forms of intense itching are often difficult to locate but what you do want, at once, is relief from the severe and depressing itching.

Then let Dr. Chase's OINTMENT help you for it brings relief almost as quickly as applied. Once used it will always be kept at hand for quick use when the need arises. 60 cts. a box. Economy size jar $2.00.

Quebec M.L.A. Calls For Ban On Immigration

QUEBEC, March 16—(CP)—The legislative assembly yesterday adopted unanimously an opposition motion calling for the tabling of all correspondence relating to post-war immigration.

Adoption came after Romeo Lorrain (U.N.-Papineau) told the assembly immigration "should be stopped until all Canadians from the armed forces and war industries find a job after the war."

Romeo Lorrain said he was opposed to "mass immigration" which would be detrimental to our country and particularly to our province.

STRONG OPPOSITION

"It is time to make known the attitude and opinion of the province of Quebec on this subject," he continued. "Once more, Mr. Duplessis (opposition leader Maurice Duplessis) was spokesman for the population and the national cause when he acted for the 1,000 Quebec municipalities which adopted strong resolutions to oppose any form of immigration at the present time."

Mr. Lorrain then quoted national resources minister Crerar as having said "Canada offers a home to refugees whom the federal government would consider admitting into the country in an indefinite number." He also recalled a Dorchester, Que., meeting last November "when the opposition leader denounced any mass immigration and revealed the project of establishing 100,000 Jews on Quebec farms,"

(Mr. Duplessis made public in Ste. Claire de Dorchester, last November, a letter which he said was signed by H. L. Roscovitz, of the Zionist International Brotherhood, and addressed to Rabbi J. Schwartz, announcing that organization would help financially "all Liberal candidates who agree openly or secretly to support in the house of commons the government scheme, viz: the establishment on farms in the province of Quebec of 100,000 Jewish refugees from Central Europe.")

NAMES ASSOCIATIONS

Mr. Lorrain also named five Jewish associations which, he said, were "campaigning to obtain 550,000 signatures to force the federal government to open liberally the doors of the country to immigrants."

"In several cases, Israelite employers are forcing their employees to sign these requests," he concluded adding that "irrefutable public facts corroborate entirely the document which was read in this chamber by the opposition leader."

Provincial Secretary Hector Perrier spoke after Mr. Lorrain and said he supported the motion and opposed mass immigration "But not for the reasons expressed by opposition members."

STATEMENT DENIED

Mr. Perrier said leaders of all philanthropic Jewish societies unanimously had denied Mr. Duplessis' statement that some 100,000 Jews would be established on Quebec farms and challenged the opposition leader to prove "the existence of Mr. Roscovitch, of the Zionist International and the text of a plan for mass Jewish immigration."

He then cited an article of "Canada at War" for February, 1944, in which it was stated on January 23, "25 Jewish families left Lisbon, Portugal, for Canada." "He said there is a large margin" between "Mr. Duplessis' 100,000 Jews and 25 families mentioned in the article, not all coming to Quebec but who will be scattered all over Canada."

The opposition leader was "unfair," he added, in circulating that certain Liberal members of parliament were being paid by a Jewish society which did not exist, to support a 'fantastic' immigration project."

DENOUNCED PREJUDICES

Mr. Perrier denounced "The radical propaganda carried on by the opposition party" and said "No Christian could subscribe to anti-semitism, which was denounced by the church."

The provincial secretary said he favored "selective immigration" and that the country needed technicians and specialists. He added it would be "good" for Canada to admit scientists and men of culture.

"I am not afraid of immigration, and Canadians who want to work will always manage, immigration or not," he concluded.

The motion was adopted after Mr. Duplessis said Mr. Perrier brought up racial questions instead of speaking on immigration.

He also said that the mentioned letter was given to him "providentially" and that he had established "undeniably" that it was mailed at a Montreal post-office and received at an uptown hotel there.

Govt. Considering Medical Expense Plan for Pensioners

British Columbia Method Of Providing Assistance Studied; Report Requested

The Alberta government is investigating schemes whereunder medical costs of old age pensioners will be taken care of, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, announced in the Legislature Wednesday.

At the time, the House was in committee of supply, considering an appropriation for old age and blind pensions, totalling $4,066,150. The amount is $525,980 higher than last year. Reimbursements of $2,765,000 from the Dominion government and municipalities will cut the net estimated cost of the pensions to the province to $1,301,150 for the coming fiscal year.

E. E. Roper, (C.C.F.-Edmonton) pointed to the medical scheme in operation in the province of British Columbia, under which persons drawing the old age pension or mothers' allowance were given medical services previously given to those drawing unemployment relief. He asked the government whether such a plan was being considered here.

SYSTEM IN B.C.

Under the B.C. scheme, medical cards were issued which entitled the holder to services of a doctor and to drugs, free of charge. In addition, specialists could be obtained, with the guidance of the medical service director.

The province has investigated the British Columbia plan, Mr. Low told the C.C.F. member. "That plan allows $4.80 per person per year for drugs and prescriptions, and depends on a 50-50 arrangement between the government and the municipality. The government looks after the case, if it is on an indigent basis."

He added that the B.C. government has been asked for a report regarding results of the scheme, up to Dec. 31, 1943.

"We have an idea here of trying to work out something that is adequate, and hope to have an arrangement that will take care of the situation," said Mr. Low.

DOMINION PROPOSAL

E. J. Martin (Ind., Peace River) read excerpts from an address delivered in the House of Commons in 1941 by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance. These were to the effect that if all the provinces made representations to the senior government for an increase in old age pensions on the present contribution basis (75 per cent by the Dominion and 25 per cent by the province) the Dominion would be prepared to consider such representation.

Angus J. Morrison (Lab.-Edson), said "Some pensioners are penalized, not so much by the Pension Act as by regulations made under it." He told members he knew of some persons who receive a pension from an outside source, and are penalized by the Dominion regulations.

Mr. Morrison said he felt that the province's representatives to the coming Dominion-provincial conference are aware of the feeling of members on the old age pension situation. He suggested to Mr. Low that the latter should "take the matter up, and put his shoulder to the wheel."

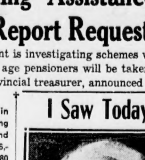

ASKS FOR REPORT

A. V. Hesiep (S.C., Lac Ste. Anne) told members that the present government has done more for old age pensioners than any other government in Canada. He asked the treasurer for a report of a case where a pensioner's property had been sold "with indecent haste" when the pensioner had died.

Cpl. Dorothy Walker, C.W.A.C. of Edmonton, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant, headquarters of M.D. 12 announced Thursday. Sergeant Walker enlisted in the Canadian Women's Army Corps in October, 1942. At present she is attached to No. 2 Company, C.W.A.C., in Calgary.

New Stamp Bar Is in Operation At Post Office

The second National War Committee war savings stamp bar was opened at the main post office Wednesday afternoon by H. G. Tomlinson, chairman of the Edmonton War Savings Stamp Committee.

The first war savings stamp was sold to Mrs. J. W. Adair, Edmonton convener of stamp committees, by Miss K. Malcolm of the Loyal Protestant Women's Association.

The stamp bar will be open every week day from 10 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and will be manned by volunteers from city women's organizations.

WORKING AT BAR

Among those organizations participating as volunteers are: Highlands Community League, Mrs. Gerald Rice in charge; Ladies' Strathcona Lodge, L.O.B.A., Mrs. T. Martin; Western Rose, L.O.B.A., Mrs. A. Gilfillan; Loyal Protestant Women, Miss Malcolm; Jewish Rebekah Lodge, Mrs. A. Briggs; Cromdale Group, Mrs. R. Walkinshaw; McDougall United Church Women's Association, Mrs. A. Speakman; Women's Benefit Association, Mrs. Patrick; Ladies' Auxiliary to the Shrine Club, Mrs. C. W. Boon; St. Andrew's Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. A. Reid and High School volunteers, Miss Betty Boon.

Volunteers are needed for service on Mondays and women's organizations interested in helping are urged to communicate with Mrs. Adair.

Red Cross Total Is Now at $98,247.64

Contributions in Edmonton to the Red Cross campaign reached the halfway mark on Wednesday, with a reported total of $98,247.64 as compared to last year's $86,279.31 for the same period.

Although contributions received in the last 15 days of the campaign this year are more than last year, officials stressed that the goal this year is to go way over last year's total of $179,000.

Total country contributions reported Wednesday were $31,895 as compared to last year's $46,245 for the same period.

Camrose has taken first place with $2,967.36, Grande Prairie second with $2,352, and Cadomin third place with $2,063.85, and Stettler a close runner-up with $1,910.

At the same time, Red Cross officials reported that the first contribution to the special prisoners of war fund drive, to be launched Saturday all over the city, was received from the Red Cross Superfluity Shop—$1,400.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the recent announcement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, that all restrictions on the sale of beer will be lifted and distribution and sale of beer will be in the hands of the provinces?

THE ANSWERS

FRANK LEE, drug store proprietor: I think this action was long overdue. I realize that restrictions were necessary but they were not equitable. With the quotas of the provinces based on 1942 consumption, Alberta with its influx of population in 1943 was unfairly rationed.

* * *

J. W. McCarthy, truck driver: I don't think the rationing in Alberta was fair in comparison with other provinces. The lifting of the restrictions will probably make quite a difference in a month or so.

MARGARET CHRISTIE, bookkeeper: There has been so much criticism of the rationing system on beer I think the new set-up will please a lot of people in this province.

Home - Building Program For Current Year Estimated To Pass Half - Million Mark

Indicative of a record breaking home-building program for 1944 is the fact that up to March 15 more than 150 parcels of city owned land have been sold to purchasers on which dwellings will be constructed. It is estimated that the new home-building program already in sight for this year now surpasses the $500,000 mark, and is daily gaining impetus. Civic officials are confident that a new record for building homes in Edmonton will be achieved this year.

Land sales are booming. In the period March 1 to 15 there were 38 sales for a gross sale value of $36,835. Of these sales 41 were made to purchasers intending to erect dwellings. The average price of the home to be built was placed at $4,000 by land department officials.

In month ending of 1944 land sales have exceeded by a considerable amount those of the same month of 1943, and it is anticipated that the sales made in March will exceed those of March, 1943. "If business continues at the present tempo we will have a record year in the land department, "John Paterson, department superintendent, stated.

In light of the sales made during the March 1 to 15 period were for extension of homesites; five were sales of existing dwellings and two were for market gardening purposes, and two were of business places.

W. C. Hoadley, Edmonton merchant, purchased the property located at 9610-12 Jasper avenue for $10,000. The McDonald Baptist Church purchased a property at 108A avenue and 93 street on which it is proposed to erect a manse at a cost of $5,000.

A shop located at 10728 127 street has been purchased by Mrs. J. A. Keller, the purchase price was $4,000, and P. Visser purchased property at 102 avenue and 96 street on which it is proposed to build a radiator repair shop. J. D. Beaton purchased property at 116 street and 105 avenue where he will construct a carpenter's shop.

In addition to the heavy home-building program outlined for 1944 there is a considerable amount of construction proceeding at present for which permits were taken out in 1943. This includes the 350 homes being erected by Wartime Housing Ltd.

Rapid progress is being made in the completion of the 250 homes located in the Norwood area. Approximately 100 of these homes are now occupied. Eleven completed houses are being turned over weekly to the rental agency by the contractors.

Short Course Opens In City March 22nd

Sponsored by the University of Alberta, the Land Inspectors and Appraisal Institute short course will be held in St. Stephen's College auditorium, March 22, 23 and 24.

Climate, crops, soil, livestock, food, farm buildings and many other topics will be covered by speakers.

W. E. Bowser, of the Dominion soil survey department will speak on "Climate and its Relation to Agriculture." "Land Classification as an Aid to Appraisal and Credit Rating" will be discussed by Dr. C. C. Spence, of the Dominion economics division. United Nations Plans for Food and Agriculture" will be the topic of an address by Dr. R. D. Sinclair, dean of the faculty of agriculture.

Other speakers will be: E. G. Lamb, J. B. Denley, L. B. Mitchell, Dr. J. E. Bowser, Prof. J. P. Sackville, Prof. J. Macgregor Smith, B. K. Acton and A. D. Paul.

The university department of soils has arranged to follow up this course with a field day in the early part of June, to be held in the Edmonton district.

A closing banquet will be held at the Macdonald hotel at 6:30 p.m., Friday, March 24. Speaker at the dinner will be, Robert E. Gard, director of Alberta folklore and local history project of the University of Alberta.

Require Bonds Of Transient Traders Here

Transient traders, book agents and solicitors and canvassers for periodicals will have to furnish bonds if they intend to carry on business in Edmonton. This is one of the new regulations recently introduced in the city of Edmonton's license by-law.

Another regulation enacted provided that if upon personal inspection the medical officer of health is dissatisfied with the sanitary condition in any licensed premises he may notify the inspector of licenses to suspend the license until such conditions have been remedied.

Another new regulation provides that where any person has been convicted of an offence in respect of early-closing the convicting magistrate shall order suspension of the early closing permit of the licensee concerned for one week for the first offence, two weeks for the second offence and for a third offence cancellation of the permit and of all city licenses.

Under another amendment to the license by-law bicycle dealers will be required to obtain a license to carry on such business. The object of this regulation is to improve the supervision and control over sales and to assist the police in connection with tracing stolen bicycles and parts.

Applications for bicycle licenses must be approved by the chief of police before they are issued by the city license department. This would assist the police in their investigation of stolen bicycles.

In future a separate license for cigar sales will not be necessary, a general license for sale of tobacco products having been in operation for several years.

Designed to protect persons who pawn articles, license regulations were changed requiring the pawnbroker to deliver a note for the article pawned and have on the note the amount which the person will have to pay upon redemption. A statement of the profit taken by the pawnbroker must be endorsed on the note taken by him. A duplicate of such note must be kept for one year following the date of redemption of the goods.

FOR ENTERTAINMENT

A further regulation provides that when places of worship are to be used for entertainment purposes a license so to do shall be obtained.

Another regulation prohibits unescorted females from attending public dance halls.

Dealers purchasing second-hand goods or bicycle parts, etc., are required to have the inter prodents his national registration card, and shall keep a record of the name and address of the person to whom the second-hand goods were sold.

Another amendment to the license by-law provides that where any person is a holder of a license or permit under the provisions of the license by-law, and is convicted of an offence under the Lord's Day Act, the license or permit will be suspended; in the case of a first offence for one week; for a second offence, two weeks, and for a third or subsequent offence, cancellation of the permit and license.

Industrial Board Hears Submissions

The Alberta board of industrial relations heard submissions Thursday from organized labor and from individuals and other groups concerned over government wage orders.

Chairman of the board, Clayton Adams, said the board would sit all day and hear personal representations and written submissions to determine the possibility and advisability of reviewing the wage schedule. The schedule is directed at the minimum wage.

Mr. Adams said hearing of the industrial relations board have been going on since November with sittings all through the province. The board's review of the situation will be completed in a couple of months.

W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, R. J. Gaunt, and David Mathieson are other members of the board.

Two Wallets, Watch Are Lost by Airmen

Two wallets and a watch, property of C. G. Bijou and B. Bjarnson, No. 3 "M" Depot, were stolen from lockers in the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday afternoon, while the owners were in the swimming pool, according to city police.

Besides his watch, Bijou said his wallet containing $1, and his identification card, were stolen. Bjarnson stated his wallet contained $5 and some papers

Bright Lights Are Welcomed By Service Men

The bright lights of Canadian cities are about the nicest of all things to men returning from months of services in the blacked-out cities of Britain, according to one of several Edmontonians who arrived here Wednesday from service overseas.

Sgt. H. Collee, of 9638 109 avenue, who enlisted with the 1st Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers, said: "Those lights on the shores of North America certainly looked wonderful."

Sgt. Collee has been in Britain for several months and will serve as an instructor in Canada for a time.

Lt. E. M. Mason of the 1st Battalion The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, making his second trip back to Canada from overseas, was also in the party of some 25 Edmonton and Edmonton district men who had been scheduled to arrive here from Calgary on the afternoon C.P.R. train Wednesday.

Lt. Mason went to North Africa with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment just prior to the invasion of Sicily. He has been in Britain for several months. He is back in Canada to serve as an instructor.

Other Edmontonians in the party from Calgary were Pte. R. L. G. Allan, Pte. H. P. Brown, Gnr. J. Gula, Pte. A. J. Reid and Sgt. J. A. Gallimore.

Men from district points scheduled to arrive on the train were:

Pte. A. Pawlowski, Vegreville; Pte. W. P. Mikulin, Boyle; L.-Bdr. L. J. Skidmore, Clandonald; Cpl. O. W. Walsh, Dawson Creek; Pte. J. Bromley, St. Paul; Pte. B. James; Pibroch: Pte. W. A. Hill, Leduc; Sgmn. K. L. Hough, Vermilion; Gnr. J. Mathewman, Lac La Biche.

Pte. D. S. Stevens, Edson; Sgt. H. T. Mould, Fairview; Cpl. J. R. Winfrey, Dawson Creek; Spr. R. J. H. Uederschlav, Barrhead; L.-Cpl. B. E. Anderson, Vilna.

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

The Edmonton Stamp Club will meet at the Masonic Temple in the I.O.O.F. hall on 103 street.

Cpl. William Grange of Edmonton, former clerk, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant, headquarters of M.D. No. 13 announced Thursday. Sgt. Grange who enlisted in September, 1942, is on the staff of No. 13 District Depot at Calgary.

W. Leigh Brintnell, president of Aircraft Repair, Ltd., left Wednesday for Ottawa to meet Dominion government officials to discuss the expected decrease in aircraft overhaul owing to the closing July 14 of No. 2 A.O.S. school in Edmonton. He will visit in Montreal before going to Ottawa.

G. D. McVicar, Winnipeg, chief enforcement regional director, prairie region, National Selective Service, is a city visitor. He will confer with William Carnill, manager of the office here, and with Murdoch MacKinnon, alternative service officer. I. M. McIver, Calgary, employment adviser for National Selective Service, also is a visitor. He will confer today with provincial agriculture department officials.

A funeral service for Fred W. Jaeger, of 9727 111 street, well-known young businessman, was held at 2 p.m. Thursday from Connelly and McKinley funeral chapel. The Rev. Dr. Murdoch MacKinnon officiated, and burial was in Edmonton cemetery. Pallbearers were J. Dintheer, Albert Forest, J. S. Dave, Fred Snow, Herb. Mayo, and A. G. Gaucher.

Under the auspices of the Edmonton branch of the Fighting French committee, a program of films and music will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 19, at the Rialto theatre. Professor Albert Cru of the University of Alberta, will give a short talk, and there will be a few selections by a children's choir under the direction of the Rev. Father G. L. Green. The proceeds from a collection will go to the "Fund for the Children of France."

Edmonton retailers can chalk up a coupon holiday, Thursday, for it proved the first Thursday in many months on which no new coupons from Canadian ration books fell due. Lifting of meat rationing means, that meat coupons 43, which would normally have become valid on March 12, are not currently negotiable. These coupons are the only ones listed as due March 16. There will of course be coupon transactions for other rationed commodities, as usual, but no new coupons are good on this day.

R.C.A.S.C. Sergeant Wins Commission

A member of the unit since its formation in 1940, J. N. Forman has been commissioned as a second lieutenant in the 4th (Reserve) Armored Divisional Troops Company, R.C.A.S.C., it was announced Thursday by Capt. T. W. Cogland, M.C., officer commanding.

Second Lieut. Forman was born in Nova Scotia, but has spent most of his life here. He had risen to the rank of sergeant with his unit at the time he was commissioned.

Patron Saint of Ireland Honored by Entire World For Legendary Activities

Of all the saints, and legendary figures who stand out in history, none fires the imagination, or stirs more enthusiasm than Saint Patrick, patron Saint of Ireland, in whose honor, people the world over join in celebration on March 17.

Returns Home

Sgt. John A. Gallimore, 9752 89 avenue, who returned here Wednesday after 21 months of service in Britain with a Canadian armored unit. Sgt. Gallimore will go east to take a commission after a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Gallimore of this city. He is one of five in the family serving with the Canadian forces. Others are: Capt. C. W. Gallimore, with an armored unit overseas; Signalman H. P. Gallimore of the Royal Canadian Navy; Tpr. John F. Gallimore, 31st Alberta Reconnaissance Regt., and L.A.W. Alice Gallimore of the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) overseas.

Bank clearings through the Edmonton Clearing House for the week ended March 15 amounted to $9,032,329.36, as compared to $6,893,694.40 for the same period of last year.

- One does not have to be an Irishman to enthuse over Saint Patrick, nor is it essential to have Hibernian blood in one's veins to wear a green necktie, or an artificial tuft of shamrock in the lapel of one's coat in his honor. The celebration of Friday promises to be as widespread as ever.

Somehow Saint Patrick inspires people of all nationalities to chant lustily that rallying song of the Songs of Erin, namely 'The Wearin' o' the Green:

When the law can keep the blades o' grass from growin' as they grow,
And when the leaves of Summertime their verdure dare not show,
Then I will change the colors, too, I wear in my cauboen:
But till that day—please God!—
I'll stick to the wearin' o' the green.

The appeal of Saint Patrick is widespread. There has been written about him, a series of amazing stories, romantic and charged with the elements of the miraculous, and therefore, never failing in their appeal to the emotions.

There is, for instance, a tale that as a child he built a fire of snow and ice:

Saint Patrick, as in legends told,
The morning being very cold,
In order to assuage the weather,
Collected bits of ice together:
He gently breathed upon the pyre
And every fragment blazed on fire.

Also, there is the story that he turned into stone, a fierce wolf-dog which had been set upon him by an enemy. And everyone has heard the legend about his driving the snakes

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Child Shows Parents' Aims and Ambitions

If Good Expected of Little Ones, They Reveal Result Of Encouragement and If Bad Expected They Live Up to Such Expectation

A 16-year-old boy appeared recently at a district police station to announce his retirement from a life of crime because his name was not mentioned in newspaper stories of a robbery. "I was the brains of that job," he explained disgustedly, "and they didn't say a word about it. They didn't even print my name."

This story should make every father and mother sit up and take notice and ponder carefully what they are teaching their child most of them completely ignore, and that is the passion that youngsters have for publicity and how strongly they feel that they have to live up to their reputations.

"BAD"

Probably the juvenile delinquents about whom we are so concerned at present were born with no more criminal tendencies than any other children. Th were just made what they are by being told from the time they were babies in the cradle that they were bad whenever they got into any childish mischief, and having established a reputation for toughness they had to become hoodlums to justify it.

No other phrase ever uttered by human lips has sent so many boys into penitentiaries and so many girls into brothels as the wail of parents that "we can't do a thing with Johnny and Susie." For Johnny and Susie, having gotten the name of being beyond parental control, go the limit to show how daring they can be and to furnish food for scandal.

Their parents are children's first audience and whatever Mama and Papa think of them colors their whole pattern of behavior. If they are continually told at home that they are dull and stupid, or awkward and inept, they rarely try to overcome their handicaps. They think it is no use for them to study and try to get an education. Their self-confidence has been killed and they fail without even making a fight to succeed.

PRETTY GIRL BEAUTIFUL

On the other hand, parents can boost their children's morale by setting a standard for them and making them feel that they expect them to reach it. Just as Mother can make a homely girl homelier by telling her how ugly and gawky she is, so she can turn a merely pretty girl into a beauty by giving her the self-confidence that makes her carry herself forty per cent above her looks instead of seventy per cent under below them.

A boy who is not naturally bookish can be turned into a student by the pride he feels if he takes in' his school reports, and many a boy acquires drawing-room manners by his mother bragging before company that he is a little Chesterfield.

The dominant influence in children's lives is their parents, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred they are what their parents make them. If Father and Mother want the best of them, they give it. If Father and Mother expect the worst of them, they get it. The poor little tikes, too young and ignorant to have any st.ndards of their own, are just trying to get the spotlight turned on them and to live up to their reputations.

Debunker

Educators and scientists who have studied the causes of wars say it is erroneous to attribute them to economic problems, which are never the basic reasons for conflict between nations. The causes of wars are almost always political. It is not a question of the "have-nots" against the "haves" as is pointed out in Norman Angell's book, "For What Do We Fight?" Neither is it a matter of needing "living room" or colonies. The people in such countries as Switzerland, Denmark and Norway have maintained a higher living standard than those of the empire countries. Conquering other nations does not add to living space, as the conquered lands are often more overcrowded than the home country (as Germany taking over Poland). War is caused by desire for political power; economics are results rather than causes.

Good Night, Sweet Prince

The Life & Times of John Barrymore —based on the new best seller

BY GENE FOWLER

Illustrations by James Montgomery Flagg

Jack received the wildest sort of applause.

At his studio, he was childishly content.

Later, he quarreled with his beloved.

As if ready to exercise some terrible judgment, the audience waited for Jack Barrymore to reappear after hurling the bouquet. The cast was terrified.

The moment arrived, and Jack arrived with the moment. He entered with profound self-assurance. He was casual. And now the presence that mysteriously was his on any stage, spread its electric influence over the whole house.

He received the wildest sort of applause. Cheers even, and the waving of women's handkerchiefs. The theatre manager sank on his knees, either to pray or to keep from collapsing on his face. No one was sued.

But after many successful weeks, Barrymore tired of his part. That was his destiny, to tire of parts. He closed the play, and in October of 1917 found sanctuary on the top floor of a century-old house off Washington Square in New York. He transformed an attic into a studio which he called "the Alchemist's Corner."

Only one woman was admitted to this startlingly decorated abode. That was the chambermaid. At her, Barrymore thundered, "Don't remove the cobwebs!" He made a garden on the roof and there was childishly content to feed the birds.

But fame—and love—would not let him hide. A repertory company was formed around him and Jack hurled himself with tempestuous sincerity into Richard III.

As if that were not enough, he entered upon a second courtship, the stormy results of which caused him to declare, "When archeologists discover the missing arms of Venus de Milo, they will find that she was wearing boxing-gloves."

This second romance with the lovely and talented Blanche Oelrichs, whose poetry bore the name Michael Strange, was love on the grand scale. Their fevered anxieties, unreasonable jealousies, trumped-up quarrels and giddy sufferings, all these perverse agonies of mind testified to the presence of an unendurable ecstasy.

Barrymore would leave the theatre, take the train to Atlantic City where Michael Strange was residing, quarrel with his beloved and race back to New York for the curtain.

The crash occurred. Jack was able to appear as Richard for only four weeks before he was at the point of a breakdown. The newspapers featured actor, remembering his father's tragic end, was truly frightened. Was he in danger of losing his own sanity?

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Canned shrimp gives good value in food and flavor. Try stuffing tomatoes or green peppers with them, or use as the Chinese do with chopped vegetables and rice, or in an India curry or a southern gumbo.

For a Lenten luncheon or supper, make a hot shrimp salad. Saute thin slices of onion and green pepper in salad oil until tender. Add drained shrimp and heat through. Combine with hot cubed boiled potatoes and hard-cooked eggs in top of double boiler, add French dressing and heat for 5 minutes.

Shrimp and vegetable salad rolls feature the meatless luncheon.

SHRIMP AND VEGETABLE LUNCHEON ROLLS

(Serves 4)

One 7-ounce can shrimp (1¼ cups), ½-cup chopped celery, 1 cup mixed cooked or canned vegetables, 1 cup well-seasoned French dressing, mayonnaise or salad dressing, 4 long soft rolls or French bread slices, salad greens.

Drain shrimp; combine with celery. Chop vegetables (peas, carrots, green beans, lima beans, corn). Add to shrimp; combine with French dressing. Chill ½ hour; drain. Moisten generously with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Split rolls or bread slices lengthwise, spread open. Fill with shrimp mixture. Serve on salad greens.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Grapefruit juice, creamed salt codfish on toast, whole wheat toast, butter, coffee, milk.

Lunch: Rice tomato soup, soya crackers, canned shrimp and vegetable luncheon rolls, stewed fruit, oatmeal cookies, tea, milk.

Dinner: Chopped round steak and sour grits patties, baked potatoes, diced beets, raw shredded cabbage and celery salad, enriched bread, butter, baked chocolate bread pudding, whole milk, coffee, milk.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The mother who is having difficulty getting her baby to swallow the solid foods her doctor may have ordered should understand something about the baby's development so as to intercept his behavior rightly.

Up to the time a baby is about 4 months old it may be earlier with some and later with others) it is natural for a baby to thrust out his tongue when food is placed upon it. Especially is this apt to happen if food is put in the front of his mouth. Then the agile, little tongue automatically thrusts it out and the mother says disgustedly, "Oh, for goodness sake, I can't get him to swallow it. He just hates cereal."

Not at all. He may be eager to swallow this smooth, nice-tasting cereal you are trying to spoon in. But he hasn't the equipment at the moment. Given a week or two or three, with patience toward his present behavior, the cereal will have a real welcome. The baby will have developed the physical canacity to manage his tongue so that food goes down instead of out.

Every capacity the child eventually possesses has to grow. A baby can't balance himself one week and falls forward on his nose when he tries. Yet, in no time he may be sitting up, his back as firm and straight as if it were faced with wood. It's not a matter of having to be "taught" how to sit up or of not wanting to sit up, it's purely a matter of giving his muscles time enough to develop the capacity to support his back properly.

It is just as true that babies must develop the capacity to do more than suck and swallow. At first when milk or water or orange juice is given them in mouthfuls, they choke, not liking it. Given time at the moment to route the fluid in the right direction so that it will land in the stomach and not in the lungs. It's a trick they learn with age. Until such time their food should be provided in drops or spoons as not to burden their swallowing capacity.

When the child can only push food out of the mouth when offered by spoon, then either wait until he has developed sufficiently to make spoon feeding possible, or take the trouble to place small portions on the back of the tongue at which point swallowing becomes automatic.

Our leaflet, "Teaching the Use of Cup and Spoon," may be had by requesting it from Myrtle Meyer Eldred. Send your request to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

OPERATES BEAUTY PARLOR FOR DOGS

VANCOUVER—(CP)—Fido may just need a good old-fashioned bath but he'll probably get a pedicure and finger wave as well if he goes to Mrs. G. O. Alson's beauty parlor in Vancouver.

Mrs. Alson has operated an animal beauty salon here since 1939. "When I started they told me I wouldn't last three months," she said. "But I'm still in business and during 1942 I handled 200 animals."

Before Fido's ready for his bath he must have a combing, then an oil rub. His nails are clipped and his teeth scraped. And next comes the shampoo—and don't think he gets ordinary dog soap—it's the daintiest of toilet soaps for the pup.

Cats also come in for their share of attention at this establishment.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let me think this over a little longer, Daughter. I'm still feeling upset about your poor report card and if I answered right now I'd probably say no whether I should or not."

Mother: "No, you cannot go with the girls. Anyone who brings home as poor a report card as you did should not ask any favors of her mother. You tell the girls that you cannot go."

A mother who is emotionally upset should postpone making decisions until she can make them with her thinking rather than her feeling brain cells.

MY DAY

KINGSTON, Jamaica—We left Miami early Monday morning and fortunately had a most beautiful day for the flight to Guantanamo. The sea was blue and green beneath us with little white clouds which cast their shadows in the water. It seemed no time at all before we were flying over the land again and Cuba, with its hills and valleys and rivers, lay below us.

I was interested to see the many little houses which dotted the hills, and I could not help wondering how the people made a living or ever got in to the centres of population. There seemed to be only little trails winding up and down the hills. There might be patches of green around or near the houses. I was told that most of these people have little gardens, chickens perhaps, and grow a little coffee and citrus fruit. It does not seem like a very extravagant existence.

Guantanamo is ringed by hills, and is, of course, a very finished base. The one great hardship for the men in this area is to be without their families or unable to go home on leave when they see planes flying in and out every day. The war, instead of coming closer, is receding.

Of course men are moving out and gradually most of them will get a leave at home. We in the United States can be very grateful that in this area they fought the war so well that it is no longer considered to be a very active danger zone. We must keep watch, but that watch is never relaxed day or night. Therefore those who stay need never feel that their job is not important, because this is the job that guards a great sector of our mainland. In addition, these bases allow us entrance into South American neighbors. These islands are the stepping stones which keep us in contact with our allies to the south.

In the world of tomorrow, the way our people have conducted the war in this area and understanding they have built up with the native populations and with the representatives of the various foreign countries which are sovereign here, will mean a great deal.

A great effort is being made by the commanding officers everywhere to see that the men on duty here have as much recreation as possible. If they are not on duty in nearby towns, much is provided on the bases. I am much interested in the post exchange shops, because the American man is not concerned only with what he can buy for himself, but is much concerned with what he can send home to the ladies of his family. You can find silk stockings at $5 a pair, perfume and ladies' underwear, and many other gifts in the serviceman's post exchange.

The boys here consume large amounts of ice cream, soft drinks and candy, as they do at home. On the whole, health seems excellent. The hospital at Guantanamo had few patients. Late in the afternoon we took off and proceeded to Jamaica. At the base command here, the doctor told me proudly that he had only 16 patients. I will have to tell you more about this place tomorrow.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Here is a hand which I predict will be rated as one of the great hands of the year. The declarer, Charles Lochridge of New York, played the hand magnificently, but the defense put up by Mrs. A. M. Sobel will go down in the record book.

The lead of the deuce of diamonds told everybody that West probably had four diamonds. Lochridge won with the king of diamonds, led a small club to dummy's Jack, returned the club to his king and led another club. West ruffed with the six of hearts, forcing Lochridge to overruff with the ten. Another diamond was led, won with the ace and another club played. West ruffed with the seven, spot, forcing Lochbridge to over-ruff with dummy's king of hearts.

Now Lochridge could discard one of his losing diamonds on the ace of spades. That would be all right provided the queen and one heart were in the East hand. But Lochridge decided to play the hand on the assumption that East held at least the queen and two hearts, and refused to finesse the spade. He led dummy's heart to the Jack, cashed the ace of hearts. Mrs. Sobel made one of her great plays. If she played a small heart, Lochridge could lead another heart, throw her in with the queen, and she would have to lead into the ace-queen of spades. Thus he would be able to discard his two losing diamonds. But Mrs. Sobel gave up her trump trick—she threw her queen of hearts on declarer's ace. Now Lochridge had to lose two diamond tricks.

Son of President Roosevelt To Be Sued For Divorce

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 16.—(AP)—Robert K. Hanger, attorney for Mrs. Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, said yesterday a suit for divorce would be filed in District Court Thursday against her husband, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, now serving in the European war theatre. The attorney said the petition will be a "routine divorce petition." Hanger said delivery of contest had been sent to Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, for his signature. The Roosevelts, married 11 years ago, have three children.

Trade Figures

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported yesterday Canada's merchandise export trade continues to grow, with the total in February reaching $237,168,000 compared with $167,699,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Creche Opened In Sept. 1931

One small child will wear to the end of his days the scars received during a fire in a city block while his mother was at work, and two children were badly burned in a shack while their mother was away.

These occurrances aroused an interest several years ago, and resulted in a general survey of the city. It was found that conditions were not only injurious to health but dangerous to life. Mothers had to leave their children locked in a room all day while they were away at work.

So the Edmonton Creche opened its doors in September, 1931.

The aim of the Edmonton Creche Society is to keep intact the home that might otherwise be broken up. Mrs. W. D. Spence, who has been finance chairman of the society since its beginning told an Edmonton Bulletin reporter Wednesday afternoon.

If the only wage earner, the mother, was not able to keep her employment because of not being able to leave her child, she could have the child kept healthy and happy by leaving him at the Creche.

Not only children of the working mothers are admitted to the Creche but children of shopping mothers, soldiers' children, mothers coming to town from the country to see a doctor or dentist, and those of mothers sick in the hospital.

FINANCES

The Creche was financed in the beginning by donations of money from individuals and firms, goods in kind, membership, and Creche receipts, help from the Lions' Club for the first couple of years, and a small city grant.

Now the Creche receives the support of the Community Chest, Creche receipts, fees of the board members, city grant and unsolicited donations of money and goods in kind from friends.

The first officers of the society were: President, Lady Rodney; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Dick; second vice-president, Dr. Follinsbee Newell; secretary, Mrs. Edward Underwood; treasurer, C. H. Baker; chairman of finance and membership, Mrs. W. D. Spence.

PRESENT OFFICERS

The present officers are: Hon. president, Lady Rodney; president, Mrs. J. H. Chown; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Dick; second vice-president, Mrs. L. C. Harris; secretary, Mrs. A. J. Huff; treasurer, Mrs. F. Dixon; finance chairman, Mrs. W. D. Spence and a capable committee.

The survey in the beginning was made by a committee headed by Lady Rodney and the medical health officer at that time, Dr. Jenkins.

There were 30 children at the Creche Wednesday afternoon when the reporter called. The Creche opens at 7 a.m. and looks after the children until 6 p.m. Mrs. A. F. Ascell, is the matron in charge. An average number of children cared for, a day, is 35.

TEN CENTS A DAY

For the small sum of ten cents a day a child receives milk and a cookie at 9.30 a.m., a full course dinner at 11 a.m., and at 3 p.m. milk and a sandwich.

When a child is admitted to the Creche he is undressed and examined and if the mother had not had time to bath her child before leaving for work, the child is given a bath and dressed in Creche clothes. If very small the child is put in a crib and the older one goes to the play room for supervised play and toys to play with.

Children are admitted from two weeks of age to six years. If the weather is fine the children play in the yard. After dinner the kiddies are washed and have a sleep.

The Creche was started at the time of the depression when working mothers were the sole earners for the family so the price asked was in reach and has not been changed since. Only one child has ever been refused even if its parent could not pay.

The Creche is a real asset to the city. No working mother has ever been on relief and the Creche has saved many a home from breaking up as the child is taken home in the evening, happy.

As one widowed mother remarked: "She didn't know what she would do if she couldn't leave her child in the Creche."

THESE WOMEN!

"She says she has the coal dust, tar, and a lot of other things, and wants to know if you'll make her some nylons."

W.A. Mends 76 Articles Of Clothing

Seventy-six articles of clothing were mended for the servicemen during February, it was reported at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to No. 4 I.T.S., R.C.A.F., held at the home of Mrs. G. Taylor, 11703 83 avenue, this week.

The hospital was visited by Mrs. A. A. Deegan and Mrs. J. McDougall. Mrs. W. C. Broadfoot reported that two dances were held in the school auditorium at which 400 young people were entertained. Mrs. G. L. Sadler reported a successful day at the Stamp Bar on Feb. 24.

The women's auxiliary sponsored a concert on Sunday, March 12, at the school. This was to aid the Red Cross Society. A talk was given by Mrs. G. E. Goodall, chairman of the Central Committee of War Auxiliaries, who explained that her committee co-ordinates the work of nearly all the women's war auxiliaries in the city. Mrs. Goodall represents the War Auxiliaries on the War Services Council.

The next meeting will be held April 10 at the home of Mrs. Deegan, 11037 86 avenue.

Mrs. F. A. Wyatt Heads United Services Club for Second Year

Mrs. F. A. Wyatt was re-elected president of the United Services Y.M.C.A. club at the annual meeting of the organization on Wednesday afternoon in the West hall of the Y.M.C.A. This will be her second term in office.

In her presidential address, Mrs. Wyatt said that during the past year 175,000 servicemen and women have made use of the club premises located in the Y.M.C.A. buildings. Included were these servicemen who called were men from various parts of the globe, and several Royal Navy boys en route to England, who had but one half an hour to visit in Edmoaton. Mrs. Wyatt paid tribute to the citizens who first organized the club.

In the past year, donations to the club were gratefully received from the following organizations, she said: Canadian Red Cross, War Services' Council, Prince Edward of Kent chapter I.O.D.E., Dunker chapter, Fort Augustus chapter, and the I.O.D.E. group headed by Mrs. C. B. Thampson and Mrs. John R. Benson.

The treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Bowman, said that receipts for the year amounted to $3,119; disbursements were $2,272; cash in bank on Feb. 29, 1944 amounted to $907; and cash in bank on March 1, 1943 was $726.

Giving the report for the canteen, Mrs. J. Cox said that 4,900 meals were served monthly to servicemen and women. Also giving the report for the canteen treasurer, Mrs. Cox told members that canteen receipts for the year were $9,969; disbursements, $8,963; outstanding bills amounted to $800; and cash in the bank to start the new year included $200.

MINIMUM PRICE

The men were charged a minimum price for meals and lunches, Mrs. Cox said.

Miss Mabel Stutt, in charge of the Entertainment Committee, said that the 175,000 men who called during the year at the club were entertained twice a week at dances, and on other nights played games and enjoyed sing songs, music, etc., with junior hostesses.

She said that private parties such as parties for servicemen, informal dances, sleighing, hikes, skating and tobogganing parties were held.

According to reports, 1,165 senior hostesses were present at various entertainments, dances, etc. for the club in the last year. Thirty-six were in attendance at dances held on Dec. 3 "Open House".

Mrs. A. L. Miller, in charge of junior hostesses, explained that 100 young girls were present on each Saturday night dance held at the club, and 80 were sent as hostesses to dances held every second Friday and by the Y.W.C.A. Christmas and New Year dances were held at the "Y".

JUNIOR HOSTESSES

Miss K. Clark, president of the Junior Hostess group, said that total membership of the group amounts to 1,262. The girls gave donations to the Chinese and Greek Relief funds, and to the Red Cross during the year. Total number of clubs in the group includes 163.

Reporting for the Junior Hostess treasurer, Miss Clark said that receipts for the year were $1,198; disbursements, $385; and cash on hand to start the new year is $1,783.

Mrs. J. H. Morris, in charge of the information bureau, said that the bureau was open each day from 2:30 to 10 p.m. except Wednesdays and Saturdays, when it was open until 11 p.m. From Feb. 28, 1943, to Feb. 28, 1944, 1,582 men were billeted to various city homes, for a stay of from two to 21 days. Meals served in these homes totalled 4,821. The men were supplied with general information from the bureau, and in various cases were directed to clubs or organizations in which they were interested, or were sent to private parties, hikes, skiing trips, etc. if they wished it. Accommodation was secured at Banff for a group of beds and rooms, suites, etc., for a few days to weeks was also located for others.

228 MEMBERS

It was announced that 228 paid up members belonged to the United Services Y.M.C.A. club. This is an increase of 70 over last year.

Mrs. John Turner, formerly with the house committee of the organization, resigned last year to give her full time to the Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic. She was presented with a life membership by Mrs. Wyatt at the Wednesday afternoon meeting. Mrs. Turner told the members that last spring while she was still with the organization, the club lounge rooms and canteen were re-decorated and new furniture and pictures were obtained. More than $800 was spent.

Mrs. Leonard Wise was chairman of the nominating committee.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, Mrs. Wise, Mrs. J. W. Scott, Mrs. W. O. Farquharson; secretary, Mrs. R. H. Driscoll; treasurer, Mrs. G. Baert; canteen, Mrs. E. E. Wood; entertainment, Miss K. Clark; canteen treasurer, Miss K. Candy; house, Mrs. H. Baker; membership, Mrs. A. A. Nicholls; publicity, Mrs. P. G. Thompson; senior hostesses, Mrs. C. V. Humphreys; junior hostesses, Mrs. A. L. Miller; ways and means, Mrs. J. Cox. Representatives from the Red Cross and the Navy, Army and Air Force were chosen by these organizations themselves.

Chesterfield Is Donated to Wings Club

Mrs. J. Bartleman, club president, told members that a chesterfield had been presented to the Wings Club as well as a long writing desk to seat five persons. The Air Force Mothers' Auxiliary held a meeting this week at the club.

Convened by Mrs. F. Wolfe, 225 senior hostesses are provided each month. To carry on the canteen work Mrs. A. M. Eager supplies 160 hostesses each month.

Comforts convener, Mrs. T. E. Pinch, reported 27 pairs of socks are on hand at present. Mrs. J. Clark reported visits to the men in hospital were appreciated and that a donation of $3 was given Mrs. Clark to buy cigarettes for the service men. Mrs. H. Reilly, membership convener, reported that 19 new members have joined the group this year. Mrs. G. S. Lindsay, information secretary told that the sale of postage stamps for February was $80.

Through this branch of the club, service entertainment for dances and in homes is arranged for servicemen.

Plans were made for a birthday tea on April 26 in the club rooms, and for a Mothers' Day concert on May 7. Plans were discussed for the sale of a layette. For this purpose a baby shawl was donated by Mrs. F. Wolfe. Proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of renovating the Wings' Club furniture.

Mrs. Gordon Gray, president, presided.

Jewel-trimmed pastel satin bandeau, and lapel pin of harmonizing jewels edged with satin, add a festive note to the simple suit worn by ballerina Sono Osato.

Miss Hammond Weds Officer

Tulips, daffodils, iris and narcissi decorated the chapel of St. Stephen's College for the wedding on Saturday of Miss Shirley Margaret Hammond, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hammond, and Pilot Officer George Macie Muir, R.C.A.F., youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Muir, all of Edmonton. The Rev. Elgin Turbull officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a slipper-length gown of white brocaded satin, styled with a V-neckline. The full sleeves came to a point over the wrists, and the skirt was full and flared. Her fingertip veil was fashioned of embroidered net and held in place by a wreath of sweetheart roses. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her only ornament was a sapphire pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

SISTER IS BRIDESMAID

Miss Audrey Hammond, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and her frock was of shell pink sheer with a quilted taffeta jacket. Her hat was a skull cap of pink French straw trimmed with veiling, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and forget-me-nots.

Flying Officer Raymond H. Green, R.C.A.F., Abbotsford, B.C., was best man and the ushers were Pilot Officer Jack Cruikshank, R.C.A.F., of Edmonton, and LAC. William McGrath, R.A.A.F.

Mr. Kennedy played the wedding marches, and while the register was being signed, Mrs. Masie Southall sang "Because."

After the ceremony a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were decorated with bouquets of spring flowers.

BRIDE'S MOTHER

Mrs. Hammond, mother of the bride, received the guests wearing an afternoon dress of gold crepe with brown accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink tulle, roses and tapers. E. C. Chapman proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. G. Aberdeen, Mrs. T. Stinson and Mrs. J. Kennedy were in charge of the dining room and serving the guests were Miss Phyllis Rose, Mrs. Peter Robinson, Miss Betty Ritchie and Miss Margaret Beaton.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Harry De Mille, Calgary, Mrs. Walter Sadler, Battle Creek, Sask.

U. of A Cafeteria Popular With Professors, Students

University of Alberta students already feel at home in the new campus cafeteria which was opened a week ago. The pleasant clatter of dishes, and the delicious aroma of nutritious foods provide a pleasant, bright and welcome atmosphere for the young co-eds and "eds" sometimes weary of studies and books.

The cafeteria got off to a fine start when the Waunelta Society of the University held a tea there on the opening day a week ago. Several hundred professors, students and their guests thronged the premises, admired the handsome tables and chairs done in light varnished wood, and passed the good word around.

The necessary last touches of stucco have yet to be added to the outside to make the already fine looking building complete.

—V—

40 TABLES

From first glance, one can merely see the large dining room with its 40 tables, the front counter and the kitchen. North and south doors open into the big dining room, and the east door is used as the tradesmen's entrance to the larger and lower kitchen. On the top floor alongside of the dining room, there is a small banquet room which will take over the function of the old Athabasca banquet room formerly used.

The banquet room will be available to all University organizations, student or staff, which plan to have dinners, luncheons or meetings at which refreshments will be served.

The lower floor, besides harboring the lower kitchen, has the staff quarters for the permanent help. Near the south entrance to the main dining room is the dietitians' office with its lovely adjoining suite.

VENTILATION

As yet, the ventilating system that was originally planned has not been installed due to the expense and difficulty of obtaining the necessary equipment. Therefore there will be no smoking during the first part of the dinner and supper hours.

Many American college cafeterias have adopted the system of having customers return their trays to the counter to leave tables clear for the next person. The University of Alberta cafeteria will operate on this plan. However, it has been made a ruling that no double orders will be accepted since the students are to be served in turn upon their arrival. But special arrangements have been made to serve separately soup and coffee for those who wish only to buy the accessories to their box lunch. The box lunches served last in order that they will not cool down while one is choosing his dessert and the rest of his dinner.

The dietitian in charge is Mrs. M. G. Mitchell, a graduate of Saskatchewan, in Household Economics, and she is supported by a competent staff and many of which will include students who wish to earn a little needed money. Mrs. Dorothy Bennett Wilde donated the first picture which is to adorn its walls. It is the suitable picture of a young man, bald and persistaing in the search for truth.

Robert Newton, president of the University Students' Council obtain a dinner at the cafeteria last Thursday, but he returned on Sunday night for the dinner he had missed. The new cafe's meals will be luxury for those students who have been unable to obtain satisfactory meals elsewhere during the whole winter. At all times during the day there will be students popping in and out between lectures for a "coke" or snack.

DINING ROOM

It has been hinted by some that the spacious dining room throughout any booths would make one uneasy and self-conscious, but it is a matter of getting used to such a large dining room. It is felt that the cafeteria is of real value to those students who cannot afford to take advantage of the well-planned and nutritious meals.

The interior is the result of the combined efforts of Professor I. F. Morrison, who designed it, and W. Wolsenberger, who saw that they provide a peaceful and quiet atmosphere for those enjoying its meals. Both big and small dining rooms and tables and materials were made of special sound-absorbing material in order to reduce all clatter to a minimum. Since there are to be no radios or juke boxes the atmosphere will be doubly pleasant for many meals.

The new tuck shop displays the most up-to-date equipment, although much of it must needs be made of wartime materials and substitutes. The serving counter is designed especially to provide for speedy and efficient service with its salad coolers, steam cabinets, automatic toasters and many other devices. This, of course, is backed up by a big kitchen with a ventilated cooking range, automatic dishwasher, potato peeler, service hatches, tiled walls and floors.

RULES

The general rules of the cafeteria are: Breakfast, 7:30 to 9 a.m.; dinner, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; supper, 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Sundays and holidays: Dinner 12:30 to 2 p.m.; supper, 5 to 6 p.m.

Provisional hours of operation are from 7:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays, 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

If Good Expected of Little Ones, They Reveal Result Of Encouragement and If Bad Expected They Live Up to Such Expectation

A 16-year-old boy appeared recently at a district police station to announce his retirement from a life of crime because his name was not mentioned in newspaper stories of a robbery. "I was the brains of that job," he explained disgustedly, "and they didn't say a word about it. They didn't even print my name."

This story should make every father and mother sit up and take notice and ponder carefully one fact in child-psychology that most of them completely ignore, and that is the passion that youngsters have for publicity and how strongly they feel that they have to live up to their reputations.

"BAD"

Probably the juvenile delinquents about whom we are so concerned at present were born with no more criminal tendencies than any other children. Th were just made what they are by being told from the time they were babies in the cradle that they were bad whenever they got into any childish mischief, and having established a reputation for toughness they had to become hoodlums to justify it.

No other phrase ever uttered by human lips has sent so many boys into penitentiaries and so many girls into brothels as the wail of parents that "we can't do a thing with Johnny and Susie." For Johnny and Susie, having gotten the name of being beyond parental control, go the limit to show how daring they can be and to furnish food for scandal.

Their parents are children's first audience and whatever Mama and Papa think of them colors their whole pattern of behavior. If they are continually told at home that they are dull and stupid, or awkward and inept, they rarely try to overcome their handicaps. They think it is no use for them to study and try to get an education. Their self-confidence has been killed and they fail without even making a fight to succeed.

PRETTY GIRL BEAUTIFUL

On the other hand, parents can boost their children's morale by setting a standard for them and making them feel that they expect them to reach it. Just as Mother can make a homely girl homelier by telling her how ugly and gawky she is, so she can turn a merely pretty girl into a beauty by giving her the self-confidence that makes her carry herself forty per cent above her looks instead of seventy five per cent below them.

A boy who is not naturally studious can be turned into a student by the pride his family takes in' his school reports, and many a boy acquires good manners by mother bragging before company that he is a little Chesterfield.

The dominant influence in children's lives is their parents, and thirty-nine times out of a hundred they are what their parents make them. If Father and Mother expect the best of them, they give it. If Father and Mother expect the worst of them, they get it. The poor little tikes, too young and ignorant to have any standards of their own, are just trying to get the spotlight turned on them and to live up to their reputations.

Debunker

Educators and scientists who have studied the causes of wars say it is erroneous to attribute them to economic problems, which are never the basic reasons for conflict between nations. The causes of wars are almost always political. It is not a question of the "have-nots" against the "haves" as is pointed out in Norman Angell's book, "For What Do We Fight?" Neither is it a matter of needing "living room" or colonies. The people in such countries as Switzerland, Denmark and Norway have maintained a higher living standard than those of the empire countries. Conquering other nations does not add to living space, as the conquered lands are often more overcrowded than the home country (as Germany taking over Poland). War is caused by desire for political power; economics are results rather than causes.

McCoy Health Service

Fats are similar to carbohydrates in that they are widely distributed in natural food substances. Fats are made up of carbon, oxygen and hydrogen. Of all forms of food, fats are the most concentrated. It appears that some fat must be present in the dietary if good health is to be maintained.

The amount of fat habitually consumed varies with different climates, races, occupations and economic factors. For example, the person doing very heavy work in a cold climate will probably eat more fat than a person doing menial work in a warm climate. One of the very interesting things to observe is that the amount of fat used bears a direct relationship to income: with an increase in the family income, the use of fat also increases.

It has been found that the body is capable of adapting itself to the omission of fat during short periods without any harm resulting; but if deprived of fat for months or years, injurious effects occur. This is probably due to the fact that vitamins A and D are commonly secured from fat-bearing foods.

Fat is very easily assimilated and is absorbed almost in its entirety. However, the process of digestion is extremely slow and may take from between 5 and 6 hours. Apparently the mixture of large amounts of fat with either starches or proteins will hinder the digestion of these other foods.

From the caloric standpoint, fat is considered to have double the caloric value of either starch or sugar, that may be used in the body for the liberation of energy, or it may be converted into heat. For this reason, it is beneficial to increase the fat ration under two conditions: when energy is being rapidly used up because of heavy work; and when the body is exposed to extreme cold.

Fats are therefore of great value in cold climates and it is customary to find that the Northern races, including the Eskimos, use a great deal of fat to provide the fuel to fight the cold. Those living cold climates would do well to increase the fat consumption during the winter months. In a warm climate, such an increase is not of much value, except in the cases of those performing heavy manual labor, in which instances the burning of the fat will provide energy.

Animal fats such as butter, eggs, cream, beef-fat, and codliver oil provide good sources of vitamin A, which is a fat soluble vitamin. Vegetable fats do not seem to be such good sources of the vitamin. Vitamin D is found in cod-liver oil, suet, lard, etc.

The fats used for food come from both the animal and vegetable kingdoms; and a list of the wholesome fats and oils includes all of the following foods: butter, cream, margarine, olive oil, peanut oil, cottonseed oil, corn oil, cod-liver oil, poppy seed oil, and seasame oil. Those using fat cuts of beef or pork will also secure an additional amount of fat. Or, fat may be secured from nuts, as well as from other sources, such as milk, avocadoes, olives, soya beans, ice cream, salad cream and lima.

Fats which are liquid at ordinary temperatures are called oils, or fatty oils; while if they are in a solid or semi-solid state at such temperatures they are referred to as fats.

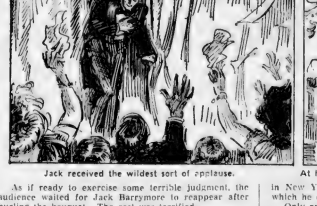

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Good Night, Sweet Prince

The Life & Times of John Barrymore —based on the new best seller

BY GENE FOWLER

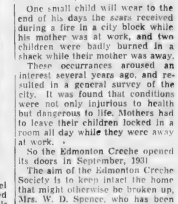

Illustrations by James Montgomery Flagg

Jack received the wildest sort of applause.

At his studio, he was childishly content.

Later, he quarreled with his beloved.

As if ready to exercise some terrible judgment, the audience waited for Jack Barrymore to reappear after hurling the bouquet. The cast was terrified.

The moment arrived, and Jack arrived with the moment. He entered with profound self-assurance. He was casual. And now the presence that mysteriously was his on any stage, spread its electric influence over the whole house.

He received the wildest sort of applause. Cheers even, and the waving of women's kerchiefs. The theatre manager sank on his knees, either to pray or to keep from collapsing on his face. No one was sued.

But after many successful weeks, Barrymore tired of his part. That was his destiny, to tire of parts. He closed the play, and in October of 1917 found sanctuary on the top floor of a century-old house off Washington Square in New York. He transformed an attic into a studio which he called "the Alchemist's Corner."

Only one woman was admitted to this startlingly decorated abode. That was the chambermaid. At her, Barrymore thundered. "Don't remove the cobwebs!" He made a garden on the roof and there was childishly content to feed the birds.

But fame—and love—would not let him hide. A repertory company was formed around him and Jack buried himself with tempestuous sincerity into Richard III.

As if that were not enough, he entered upon a second courtship, the stormy results of which caused him to declare, "When archeologists discover the missing arms of Venus de Milo, they will find that she was wearing boxing-gloves."

This second romance with the lovely and talented Blanche Oelrichs, whose poetry bore the name Michael Strange, was love on the grand scale. Their fevered anxieties, unreasonable jealousies, trumped-up quarrels and giddy sufferings, all these perverse agonies of mind testified to the presence of an unendurable ecstasy.

Barrymore knew he would leave the theatre, take the train to Atlantic City where Michael Strange was residing, quarrel with his beloved and race back to New York for the curtain.

The crash occurred. Jack was able to appear as Richard for only four weeks before he was at the point of a breakdown. The nerve-frazzled actor, remembering his father's tragic end, was truly frightened. Was he in danger of losing his own sanity?

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Canned shrimp gives good value in food and flavor. Try stuffing tomatoes or green peppers with them, or use as the Chinese do with chopped vegetables and rice, or as an India curry or a southern gumbo.

For a Lenten luncheon or supper, make a hot shrimp salad. Saute thin slices of onion and green pepper in salad oil until tender. Add drained shrimp and heat through. Combine with hot cubed boiled potatoes and hard-cooked eggs in top of double boiler, add French dressing and heat for 5 minutes.

SHRIMP AND VEGETABLE LUNCHEON ROLLS

(Serves 4)

One 7-ounce can shrimp (1¼ cups), ¼-cup chopped celery, 1 cup mixed cooked or canned vegetables, 1 cup well-seasoned French dressing, mayonnaise or salad dressing, 4 long, soft rolls or French bread slices, salad greens.

Drain shrimp; combine with celery. Chop vegetables (peas, carrots, green beans, lima beans, corn). Add to shrimp; combine with French dressing. Chill ½ hour; drain. Moisten generously with mayonnaise or salad dressing. Split rolls or bread slices lengthwise; spread open. Fill with shrimp mixture. Serve on salad greens.

Shrimp and vegetable salad rolls feature the meatless luncheon.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Grapefruit juice, cream of wheat cereal, crisp bacon, whole wheat toast, butter, coffee, milk.

Lunch: Rice tomato soup, soya crackers, canned shrimp and vegetable luncheon rolls, stewed fruit, oatmeal cookies, tea, milk.

Dinner: Chopped round steak and soya grits patties, baked potatoes, diced beets, raw shredded cabbage and celery salad, enriched break, butter, baked chocolate bread pudding, whole milk, coffee, milk.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The mother who is having difficulty getting her baby to swallow the solid foods her doctor may have ordered should understand something about the baby's development so as to intercept his behavior rightly.

Up to the time a baby is about 7 months old (it may be earlier with some and later with others), it is natural for a baby to thrust out his tongue when food is placed upon it. Especially does this happen if food is put in the front of his mouth. Then the agile, little tongue automatically thrusts it out and the mother says disgustedly, "Oh, for goodness sake, I can't get him to swallow it. He just hates cereal."

Not at all. He may be eager to swallow this mouth, nicestarting cereal you are trying to spoon in. But he hasn't the capacity at the moment. Given a week or two or three, with patience and his spoon sent behavior, the cereal will have a real welcome. The baby will have developed the physical capacity to manage his tongue so that food goes down instead of out.

Every capacity the child eventually possesses has to grow. A baby can't balance himself one week and falls forward on his nose when he tries. Yet, in no time he may be sitting up, his back as firm and straight as if it were faced with wood. It's a matter of having to be "taught" how to sit up or of not wanting to sit up. It's merely a matter of giving his muscles time enough to develop the capacity to support his back properly.

It is just so true that babies must develop the capacity to do more than suck and swallow. At first when milk or watery orange juice is given them in mouthfuls, they choke, not having the capacity at the moment to swallow. Then the right direction so that it will land in the stomach and not in the lungs. It's a trick they learn with age. Until suitable food habits are well developed in drop portions so as not to burden their swallowing capacity.

When the child can only push food out of the mouth when offered by spoon, then either wait until he has developed sufficiently to make spoon feeding possible, or take the trouble to place small portions on the back of the tongue at which point swallowing becomes automatic.

OPERATES BEAUTY PARLOR FOR DOGS

VANCOUVER—(CP)—Fido may just need a good old-fashioned bath but he'll probably get a pedicure and finger wave as well if he goes to Mrs. G. O. Alson's beauty parlor in Vancouver.

Mrs. Alson has operated an animal beauty salon here since 1934. "When I started they told me I wouldn't last three months," she said. "But I'm still in business and during 1942 I handled 200 animals."

Before Fido's ready for his bath he must have a combing, then an oil rub. His nails are clipped and his teeth scraped. And next comes the shampoo—and don't think he gets ordinary dog soap—it's the daintiest of toilet soaps for the pup.

Cats also come in for their share of attention at this establishment.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let me think this over a little longer, Daughter. I'm still feeling upset about your poor report card and if I answered right now I'd probably say no whether I should or not."

Mother: "No, you cannot go with the girls. Anyone who brings home as poor a report card as you did should not ask any favors of her mother. You tell the girls that you cannot go."

A mother who is emotionally upset should postpone making decisions until she can make them with her thinking rather than her feeling brain cells.

MY DAY

KINGSTON, Jamaica—We left Miami early Monday morning and fortunately had a most beautiful day for the flight to Guantanamo. The sea was blue and green beneath us with little white clouds which cast their shadows in the water. It seemed no time at all before we were flying over the land again and Cuba, with its hills and valleys and rivers, lay below us.

I was interested to see the many little houses which dotted the hills, and I could not help wondering how the people made a living or ever got in to the centres of population. There seemed to be only little trails winding up and down the hills. There might be patches of green around or near the houses. I was told that most of these people have little gardens, chickens perhaps, and grow a little coffee and citrus fruit. It does not seem like a very extravagant existence.

Guantanamo is ringed by hills, and is of course, a fine United base. The one great hardship for the men in this area is to be without their families or unable to go home on leave when they get planes flying in and out every day. The war, instead of coming closer, is receding.

Of course men are moving out and gradually most of them will get a leave at home. We in the United States can be very grateful that in this area they fought the war so well that it is no longer considered to be a very active danger zone. We must keep watch, and that watch is never relaxed day or night. But those who live and stay need never feel that their job is not important, because this is the job that guards a great sector of the hemisphere. Therefore, these bases draw us closer to our South American neighbors. These islands are the stepping stones which keep us in contact with our allies to the south.

In the world of tomorrow, the way our people have conducted the war in this area, the understanding they have built up with the native populations and with the representatives of the various foreign countries which are sovereign here, will mean a great deal.

A great effort is being made by the commanding officers everywhere to see that the men on duty here have as much recreation as possible. If they cannot get to the nearby towns, much is provided on the bases. I am much interested in the post exchange shops, because the American man is not concerned only with what he can buy for himself, but is much concerned with what he can send home to the ladies of his family. You can find silk stockings at $5 a pair, perfume and ladies' underwear, and many other gifts in the serviceman's post exchange.

The boys here consume large amounts of ice cream, soft drinks and candy, as they do at home. On the whole, health seems excellent. The hospital at Guantanamo had few patients. Late in the afternoon we took off and proceeded to Jamaica. At the base command here, the doctor told me proudly that he had only 16 patients. I will have to tell you more about this place tomorrow.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Here is a hand which I predict will be rated as one of the great hands of the year. The declarer, Charles Lochridge of New York, played the hand magnificently, but the defense put up by Mrs. A. M. Sobel will go down in the record book.

The lead of the deuce of diamonds told everybody that West probably had four diamonds. Lochridge won with the king of diamonds, led a small club to dummy's ace, returned the club to his king and led another club. West ruffed with the six of hearts, forcing Lochridge to overruff with the ten. Another diamond was led, won with the ace and another club played. West ruffed with the seven spot, forcing Lochridge to over-ruff with dummy's king of hearts.

Now Lochridge could discard one of his losing diamonds on the ace of spades. That would be all right provided the queen and ace heart were in the East hand. But Lochridge decided to play the hand on the assumption that East held at least the queen and two hearts, and refused to cash his spade. He led dummy's heart to the ace, cashed the ace of hearts. Mrs. Sobel made one of her great plays. If she played a small heart, Lochridge could lead another heart, throw her in with the queen, and she would have to lead into the ace-queen of spades. Thus he would be able to discard his two losing diamonds. But Mrs. Sobel gave up her trump trick—she threw her queen of hearts on declarer's ace. Now Lochridge had to lose two diamond tricks.

Son of President Roosevelt To Be Sued For Divorce

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 16.—(AP)—Robert S. Hargis, attorney for Mrs. Ruth Goggins Roosevelt, said yesterday a suit for divorce would be filed in District Court Thursday against her husband, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, now serving in the European war theatre. The attorney said the petition will be a "routine divorce petition." Hanger said waivery of contest had been sent to Roosevelt at the President Roosevelt, for his signature. The Roosevelts, married 11 years ago, have three children.

Trade Figures

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported yesterday Canada's merchandise export trade continues to grow, with the total in February reaching $227,160,000 compared with $167,699,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Creche Opened In Sept. 1931

One small child will wear to the end of his days the scars received during a fire in a city block while his mother was at work, and two children were badly burned in a shack while their mother was away.

These occurrances aroused an interest several years ago, and resulted in a general survey of the city. It was found that conditions were not only injurious to health but dangerous to life. Mothers had to leave their children locked in a room all day while they were away at work.

So the Edmonton Creche opened its doors in September, 1931.

The aim of the Edmonton Creche Society is to keep intact the home that might otherwise be broken up, Mrs. W. D. Spence, who has been finance chairman of the society since its beginning told an Edmonton Bulletin reporter Wednesday afternoon.

If the only wage earner, the mother, was not able to keep her employment because of not being able to leave her child, she could have the child kept healthy and happy by leaving him at the Creche.

Not only children of the working mothers are admitted to the Creche but children of shopping mothers, soldiers' children, mothers coming to town from the country to see a doctor or dentist, and those of mothers sick in the hospital.

FINANCES

The Creche was financed in the beginning by donations of money from individuals and firms, goods in kind, memberships, and Creche receipts, but from the Lions' Club for the first couple of years, and a small city grant.

Now the Creche receives the support of the Community Chest, Creche receipts, fees of the board members, city grant and unsolicited donations of money and goods in kind from friends.

The first officers of the society were: President, Lady Rodney; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Diek; second vice-president, Dr. Folinsbee Newell; secretary, Mrs. Edward Underwood; treasurer, C. H. Baker; chairman of finance and membership, Mrs. W. D. Spence.

PRESENT OFFICERS

The present officers are: Hon. president, Lady Rodney; president, Mrs. J. H. Chown; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Dick; second vice-president, Mrs. L. C. Harris; secretary, Mrs. A. J. Huff; treasurer, Mrs. T. Dixon; finance chairman, Mrs. W. D. Spence and a capable committee.

The survey in the beginning was made by a committee headed by Lady Rodney and the medical health officer at that time, Dr. Jenkins.

There were 30 children at the Creche Wednesday afternoon when the reporter called. The Creche opens at 7 a.m. and by 8 the children until 6 p.m. Mrs. A. F. Cavill, is the trained nurse in charge. An average number of children each day, is 35.

TEN CENTS A DAY

For the small sum of ten cents a day a child receives milk and a cookie at 9.30 a.m. a full course dinner at 11 a.m. and at 3 p.m. milk and a sandwich.

When a child is admitted to the Creche he is undressed and examined and if the mother had not had time to bath her child before coming to work, the child is given a bath and dressed in Creche clothes. If very small, the child is put in a crib and the older one goes to the play room for supervised play and toys to play with.

Children are admitted from two weeks of age to six years. If the weather is fine the children play in the yard. After dinner the kiddies are washed and have a sleep.

The Creche was started at the time of the depression when working mothers were the sole earners for the family as the dole asked was in reach and has not been changed during the war. No child has ever been refused even if its parent could not pay.

The Creche is a real asset to the city. No working mother has ever been on relief and the Creche has saved many a home from breaking up as the child is taken home in the evening, happy.

As one widowed mother remarked: "She didn't know what she would do if she couldn't leave her child in the Creche."

THESE WOMEN!

"She says she has the coal dust, tar, and a lot of other things, and wants to know if you'll make her some nylons."

Bridge Meet Is Success

The Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Alexandra hospital held their annual bridge Wednesday in the Nurses' Home.

Mrs. Larue Smith and Mrs. F. J. Millar received the guests.

There were 68 tables playing. The high score was won by Mrs. J. Wright, and the hidden score was won by Mrs. George Martin.

Mrs. Millar was in charge of arrangements assisted by Mrs. T. R. Blaine, Mrs. H. Merrick, and Mrs. H. Wood.

Mrs. J. Steele Smith was in charge of the refreshments, assisted by Mrs. J. Sheremeta, Mrs. W. A. Boyt, Mrs. W. Darling and Mrs. A. S. Duclos.

The proceeds are to be used for the therapeahy work in the hospital which is under the direction of Mrs. K. Kitchen.

W.A. Mends 76 Articles Of Clothing

Seventy-six articles of clothing were mended for the servicemen during February. It was reported at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to No. 4 I.T.S., R.C.A.F., held at the home of Mrs. G. Taylor, 11033 83 avenue, this week.

The hospital was visited by Mrs. A. A. Deegan and Mrs. Mc. Dougall. Mrs. W. C. Broadfoot reported that two dances were held in the school auditorium at which 400 young people were entertained. Mrs. G. L. Sadler reported a successful day at the Stamp Bar on Feb. 24.

The women's auxiliary sponsored a concert on Sunday, March 12, at the school. This was to aid the Red Cross Society. A talk was given by Mrs. G. E. Goodall, chairman of the Central Committee of War Auxiliaries, who explained that her committee co-ordinates the work of nearly all the women's war auxiliaries in the city. Mrs. Goodall represents the War Auxiliaries on the War Services Council.

The next meeting will be held April 10 at the home of Mrs. Deegan, 11037 86 avenue.

RE-ELECTED

Mrs. F. A. Wyatt, who was re-elected president of the United Services' Y.M.C.A. club, at the annual meeting of the organization held Wednesday afternoon in the West hall of the Y.M.C.A. This will be Mrs. Wyatt's second term as president.

Mrs. F. A. Wyatt Heads United Services Club for Second Year

Mrs. F. A. Wyatt was re-elected president of the United Services Y.M.C.A. club at the annual meeting of the organization held Wednesday afternoon in the West hall of the Y.M.C.A. This will be her second term in office.

In her presidential address, Mrs. Wyatt said that during the past year 175,000 servicemen and women have made use of the club premises located in the Y.M.C.A. buildings. Included among the servicemen who called were men from various parts of the globe, and several Royal Navy boys en route to England, who had but one half an hour to visit in Edmonton. Mrs. Wyatt paid tribute to the citizens who first organized the club.

In the past year, donations to the club were gratefully received from the following organizations she said: Canadian Red Cross, War Services' Council, Prince Edward of Kent chapter I.O.D.E., Col. Barker chapter, Fort Augustus chapter, and the I.O.D.E. group headed by Mrs. C. R. Thompson and Mrs. John R. Benson.

The treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Bowman, said that receipts for the year amounted to $3,179; disbursements were $2,272; cash in bank on Feb. 29, 1944 amounted to $907; and cash in bank on March 1, 1943 was $726.

Giving the report for the canteen, Mrs. Cox said that 6,500 meals were served monthly to servicemen and women. Also giving a report for the upper floor canteen, Miss C. Candy, Mrs. Cox told members that canteen receipts for the year were $9,969; disbursements, $8,963; outstanding bills amounted to $800; and cash in the bank to start the new year included $200.

MINIMUM PRICE

The men were charged a minimum price for meals and lunches, Mrs. Cox said.

Miss Mabel Sluit, in charge of the Entertainment committee, said that the 175,000 men who called during the year at the club, were entertained twice a week at dances, and on other nights played games and enjoyed sing songs, music, etc., under hostesses.

She said that private parties such as parties at homes, informal dances, sleighing, hikes, skating and tobogganing parties were held.

According to reports, 1,165 senior hostesses were present at various dances, entertainments, etc., for the club in the last year. Thirty-six girls in attendance at dances held at No. 3 "M" Depot.

Mrs. A. L. Miller, in charge of the hostesses, explained that 100 young girls were present at each Saturday night dance held at the club. Names of hostesses to dances held every second Friday at No. 3 "M" Depot, Christmas and New Year dances were held at the

JUNIOR HOSTESSES

Miss K. Clark, president of the Junior Hostess group, said that total membership of the group amounts to 1,592. The girls gave donations to the Chinese and Greek Relief funds, and to the Red Cross during the year. Total number of clubs in the group includes 103.

Reporting for the Junior Hostess treasurer, Miss Clark said that receipts for the year were $1,198; disbursements, $285; and cash on hand to start the new year is $1,793.

Mrs. J. H. Morris, in charge of the information bureau, said that the bureau was open each day from 2:30 to 10 p.m. except Wednesdays and Saturdays, when it was open until 11 p.m. From Feb. 28, 1943, to Feb. 28, 1944, 1,552 men were billeted to various city homes, for a stay of from two to 21 days. Meals served to these lads were 1,621. The men were supplied with general information from the bureau, and in various cases were directed to clubs or organizations in which they were interested, or were sent to private parties, hikes, skiing trips, etc. if they wished it. Accommodation was secured at Banff for a group of lads, and rooms, suites, etc., for a few days to weeks was also located for others.

228 MEMBERS

It was announced that 228 paid up members belonged to the United Services Y.M.C.A. club. This is an increase of 70 over last year.

Mrs. John Turner, formerly with the house committee of the organization, resigned last year to give her full time to the Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic. She was presented with a life membership by Mrs. Wyatt at the Wednesday afternoon meeting. Mrs. Turner told the members that last spring while she was still with the organization, the club lounge rooms and canteen were re-decorated and new furniture and pictures were obtained. More than $800 was spent.

Mrs. Leonard Wise was chairman of the nominating committee.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, Mrs. Wise, Mrs. J. W. Scott, Mrs. W. O. Farquharson; secretary, Mrs. R. H. Driscoll; treasurer, Mrs. G. Beart; canteen, Mrs. E. E. Wood; entertainment, Mrs. K. Clark; canteen treasurer, Miss K. Candy; house, Mrs. H. Baker; membership, Mrs. A. A. Nicholls, publicity, Mrs. P. G. Thompson; senior hostesses, Mrs. C. V. Humphrey; junior hostesses, Mrs. A. L. Miller; ways and means, Mrs. J. Cox. Representatives from the Red Cross and the Navy, Army and Air Force were chosen by these organizations themselves.

Chesterfield Is Donated to Wings Club

Mrs. J. Bartleman, club president, told members that a chesterfield has been presented to the Wings Club as well as a long writing desk to seat five persons. The Air Force Mothers' Auxiliary held a meeting this week at the club.

Convened by Mrs. F. Wolfe, 225 senior hostesses are provided each month. To carry on the canteen work Mrs. A. M. Eager supplies 160 hostesses each month.

Comforts convener, Mrs. T. E. Pinch, reported 27 pairs of socks are on hand at present. Mrs. J. Clark reported visits to the men in hospital are appreciated and that a donation of $3 was given Mrs. Clark to buy cigarettes for the service men. Mrs. L. H. Reilly, membership convener, reported that 10 new members have joined the auxiliary. Mrs. G. S. Lindsay, information secretary told that the sale of postage stamps for February was $80.

Through this branch of the club, senior entertainment for dances and in homes is arranged for servicemen.

Plans were made for a birthday tea on April 26 in the club rooms, and for a Mothers' Day concert on May 7. Plans were discussed for the sale of a layette. For this purpose a baby shawl was donated by Mrs. F. Wolfe. Proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of renovating the Wings' Club furniture.

Mrs. Gordon Gray, president, presided.

Miss Hammond Weds Officer

Tulips, daffodils, iris and narcissi decorated the chapel of St. Stephen's College for the wedding on Saturday of Miss Shirley Margaret Hammond, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. H. Hammond, and Pilot Officer George Macie Muir, R.C.A.F., second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Muir, all of Edmonton. The Rev. Eigin Turbull officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a slipper-length gown of white brocaded satin, styled with a V-neckline. The full sleeves came to a point over the wrists, and the skirt was full and flared. Her fingertip veil was fashioned of embroidered net and held in place by a wreath of sweetheart roses. She carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her only ornament was a sapphire pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

SISTER IS BRIDESMAID

Miss Audrey Hammond, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and her frock was of shell pink sheer with a quilted taffeta jacket. Her hat was a skull cap of pink French straw trimmed with veiling, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and forget-me-nots.

Flying Officer Raymond H. Green, R.C.A.F., Abbotsford, B.C., was best man and the ushers were Pilot Officer Jack Cruikshank, R.C.A.F., of Edmonton, and LAC. William McGrath, R.A.A.F.

Mr. Kennedy played the wedding marches, and while the register was being signed, Mrs. Masie Southall sang "Because."

After the ceremony a reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were decorated with bouquets of spring flowers.

BRIDE'S MOTHER

Mrs. Hammond, mother of the bride, received the guests wearing an afternoon dress of gold crepe with brown accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by pink tulle, roses and tapers. C. C. Chapman proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. G. Aberdeen, Mrs. T. Stinson and Mrs. J. Kennedy were in charge of the dining room and serving the guests were Miss Phyllis Rose, Mrs. Peter Robinson, Miss Betty Ritchie and Miss Margaret Beaton.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Harry De Mille, Calgary, Mrs. Walter Sadler, Battle Creek, Sask.

U. of A. Cafeteria Popular With Professors, Students

University of Alberta students already feel at home in the new campus cafeteria which was opened a week ago. The pleasant clatter of dishes, and the delicious aroma of nutritious foods provide evidence of bright and welcome atmosphere for the young co-eds and "eds" sometimes weary of studies and books.

The cafeteria got off to a fine start when the Waunetia Society of the University held a tea there on the opening day a week ago. Several hundred professors, students and their guests thronged the premises, admired the handsome tables and chairs done in light varnished wood, and passed the good word around.

The necessary last touches of stucco have yet to be added to the outside to make the already fine looking building complete.

40 TABLES

From first glance, one can merely see the large dining room with its 40 tables, the front counter and the kitchen. North and south doors open into the big dining room, and the east door is used as the tradesmen's entrance to the larger and lower kitchen. On the top floor alongside of the dining room, there is a small banquet room which will take over the function of the old Athabasca banquet room formerly used.

The banquet room will be available to all University organizations, student or staff, which plan to have dinners, luncheons or meetings at which refreshments will be served.

The lower floor, besides harboring the lower kitchen, has the staff quarters for the permanent help. Near the south entrance to the main dining room is the dietitians' office with its lovely adjoining suite.

VENTILATION

As yet, the ventilating system that was originally planned has not been installed due to the expense and difficulty of obtaining the necessary equipment. Therefore there will be no smoking during the first part of the dinner and supper hours.

Many American college cafeterias have adopted the system of having customers return their trays to the counter to leave the tables clear for the next person. The University of Alberta cafeteria will operate on this principle also. It has been made a ruling that no double dates will be accepted since the students are to be served in turn upon their arrival. But special arrangements have been made to serve separately soup and coffee for those who wish only to buy the accessories to their box lunch. The hot dishes are served last in order that they will not cool down while one is choosing his dessert and the rest of his dinner.

The dietitian in charge is Mrs. M. Ottem, a graduate from Saskatchewan, in Household Economics, and she is supported by a competent chef and staff, part of which will include students who wish to earn a little needed money. Miss Dorothy Henzell Willis donated the first picture which is to adorn its walls. It is the suitable picture of a young man, baffled, but persisting in the search for truth.

Robert Newton, president of the University, was unable to obtain a dinner at the cafeteria last Thursday, but he returned on Sunday noon for the dinner he had missed. The new cafe's meals will be luxury, but the students who have been unable to obtain staisfactory meals elsewhere during the whole winter, At all times during the day there will be students popping in and out between lectures for a "coke" or snack.

DINING ROOM

It has been hinted by some that the spacious dining room without any booths would make one unfriendly and self-conscious, but it is a matter of getting used to such a large dining room. It is felt that the cafeteria is the place where those students who consistently take advantage of the well-planned and nutritious meals.

The interior is the result of the combined efforts of Professor I. F. Morrison, who designed it, and W. Wotherspoon who made it and will provide a peaceful and quiet atmosphere for those eating his meals. Both big and small dining rooms and tables and materials were made of special sound-absorbing material in order to reduce all clatter to a minimum. Since there are to be no radios or juke boxes the atmosphere will be doubly pleasant for many patrons.

The new tuck shop displays the most up-to-date equipment, although much of it must needs be made of wartime materials and substitutes. The serving counter is designed especially to provide for speedy and efficient service with its salad coolers, steam cabinets, automatic toasters and many other devices. This, of course, is backed up by a big kitchen with a ventilated cooking range, automatic dishwasher, potato peeler, service hatches, tiled walls and floors.

RULES

The general rules of the cafeteria are: Breakfast, 7:30 to 9 a.m.; dinner, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.; supper, 5 to 6:30 p.m.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

IF YOU EMPLOY MALE PERSONS

Have they all complied with the Military Call-Up?

Under an Order signed under authority of the National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations:

1. Every employer of male employees must make an examination of the documents of these employees, and forward advice on those who fail to produce documents showing good standing under Mobilization Regulations.
2. This examination must be completed by May 1st, 1944.
3. "EMPLOYER" includes industrial and commercial employers, and also farm operators.
4. "MALE EMPLOYEE" includes all male persons working for you, including relatives.
5. A booklet, "EMPLOYERS' GUIDE", has been sent to industrial and commercial employers. A return post card has gone to farm operators.
6. If you employ any male person, and have not been notified of the survey by booklet or post card, contact the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office and ask for the booklet.
7. Obligation to make the examination rests on each and every employer of male persons, and employers must act.
8. Penalties are provided for failure to carry out this examination, and for employers failing to assist by refusal to produce documents.

Canadian Replica Of U.S. 'Boys' Town' To Be Established

MONTREAL, March 16.—(CP)—Canada's "Boys' Town" will become a reality next year on the shores of Frenchman's Lake, near Joliette, Que., about 40 miles north-east of here, it was announced last night.

Operated along the lines of the famous "Boys' Town" in Nebraska, the Canadian replica will be under the supervision of Rev. Father Albert Roger who, for the past three years, has organized a summer "Boys' Town" in the country-side near here.

Nazi Strongholds To All Be Given Cassino Treatment

NEW YORK, March 16.—(BUP)—Lieutenant General Eaker promises that every stronghold in the German world where the enemy elected to make a stand will be given the Cassino treatment. Eaker, Allied commander of the Mediterranean air forces, said in an interview yesterday that Cassino "had been fumigated and when the smoke of battle clears, we shall find more worthy occupants installed—with little loss to our men."

Western Canada Flier Gets Ninth U.S. Air Award

OTTAWA, March 16.—(CP)—Air force headquarters announced last night that Flt. Lt. Eldon B. Elliott, of Sutherland, Sask., R.C.A.F. navigator who since has been reported missing, has been awarded the United States Army Air Medal.

For security reasons, full details of the mission which won for Flt. Lt. Elliott the ninth U.S. Army Air Medal to be awarded to an R.C.A.F. member by the president of the U.S. were withheld. Citation covering the award reveals, however, that Elliott acted as navigator on a "special and hazardous mission into enemy territory" which was successfully accomplished.

Canada Has Chance Expand Air Traffic

WINDSOR, Ont., March. 15.—Only one third of the population of Canada now has direct access to air transportation and in providing facilities for the two-thirds lies the great task of Canadian aviation in the post-war world, C. H. "Punch" Dickins, O.B.E., vice-president and general manager of C.P. Air Lines said in a luncheon address here Thursday.

The day of air pioneering is far from over, Mr. Dickins said. Every important city and town in Canada must become part of a well-balanced air network. Development of such a program will assure a great future for Canada in aviation.

The energy and vision that made the great British air training plan so successful will do the same for Canadian commercial aviation, Mr. Dickins said.

Elimination of Govt. Grant To Three Cities Is Asked

Calling for elimination of a $61,500 grant to three Alberta cities in lieu of service tax, George MacLachlan (Ind., Pembina) introduced a motion into the Legislature's committee of supply Wednesday afternoon, requiring that the grant be reduced to $1.

As the motion was introduced just before the committee prepared to rise, Mr. MacLachlan withdrew it. He said he would bring it in again when sittings resumed.

The $61,500 grants were instituted under the U.F.A. government, when the cities of Edmonton and Calgary were given $30,000 each, and Lethbridge $1,500, in lieu of the service tax dropped when the province entered the income tax field in 1931.

PAID ANNUALLY

The grants have been paid annually since that time.

Mr. MacLachlan said that at the time the arrangement was made the grants were to last for three years only, but instead, they have been carried on and have apparently become a fixture.

He suggested that as compensation for cutting off the grant, the cities should not be prevented from collecting taxes on properties owned by the government, which is being used for commercial purposes.

Lionel Tellier (Ind., St. Albert), supported the statement with Mr. MacLachlan's proposal, said that farmers have paid a per capita tax of $87 in the years in which the Social Credit government has been in office, compaced to the cities' per capita tax rate of $6.32.

COULD GET $75,000

Mayor Andrew Davison (Ind., Calgary), said that if the service tax was being levied in Calgary now, the city would be receiving $75,000, instead of $30,000 as a grant from the provincial government.

If Calgary could collect $75,000 from its service tax, then there is no doubt that Edmonton could collect $200,000. N. B. James (S.C., Edmonton) stated. Both cities are satisfied with the grant in place of the service tax, he said, in suggesting the present system be continued.

Hugh John Macdonald, K.C. (L., Edmonton) said the cities have felt for a long time that they were receiving unfair treatment at the hands of the province, and they claimed some of the highway revenues, income tax and other provincial levies, much of which came from the cities. If any change is to be made in the formula, it should be increased rather than reduced, Mr. Macdonald stated.

NO-STRIKE PLEDGE

He said the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada had pledged itself to a no-strike policy for the war period. That pledge was recently renewed, and "we intend to live up to it." He said that those in Edmonton taking a strike vote, and those in Winnipeg supporting them in that action, were consciously or unconsciously playing into the hands of those who are seeking to overrun the world.

"How can elderly people make a decision to strike for more than 600 employees?" Mr. Sullivan asked. "I trust they did not realize what they were doing; that they followed a leadership which, to say the least, has yet to come to understand that the free people of this world are fighting now for their very existence," he said.

He said that on his return to Ottawa he would submit a plan to the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress from which might be evolved a National Meat Packers' Union operating under a charter from the Congress.

Official Asks Plant Workers Maintain Unity

Appeal to workers in the packing plant industry in Edmonton to forget any differences, and to decide to work as a unit in maintaining national unity required to defeat once and for all the menace of Fascism so that workers can go forward to a fuller and happier life for this and for generations to follow, was made Wednesday by J. A. "Pat" Sullivan, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at a meeting held in the Ukrainian hall, 96 street and 109 avenue.

He was addressing a meeting of members of the meat packing industry called to discuss the C.I.O. entry into the Edmonton labor field. More than 200 were present.

Mr. Sullivan was critical of the action of the C.I.O. in "invading" the organized Edmonton territory when so many other points in Canada were not organized at the time.

He described this "invasion" as "an act of piracy." He said the excuse on which the "invasion" was made was flimsy, and that even with membership in Edmonton the C.I.O. would not be able to negotiate a master agreement for the packing plant employees on a Dominion-wide scale.

MASTER AGREEMENT

"This group," stated Mr. Sullivan, "would have to commit piracy not only here but also in the cities of Hull and Montreal, Quebec, and all cities in Canada before a master agreement could be achieved."

He deplored the campaign of abuse that had been carried on. This, he said, played into the hands of the employer and gave comfort to enemies of organized labor seeking at all times to destroy the labor movement.

Any attempt to call a strike in the packing plant industry, or in any industry, would be a betrayal of this land and the obligations "we owe to the thousands of our own flesh and blood who are now fighting on the battlefronts to preserve the freedom and liberty of which we Canadians are so justly proud," Mr. Sullivan stated.

NO-STRIKE PLEDGE

He said the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada had pledged itself to a no-strike policy for the war period. That pledge was recently renewed, and "we intend to live up to it." He said that those in Edmonton taking a strike vote, and those in Winnipeg supporting them in that action, were consciously or unconsciously playing into the hands of those who are seeking to overrun the world.

"How can elderly people make a decision to strike for more than 600 employees?" Mr. Sullivan asked. "I trust they did not realize what they were doing; that they followed a leadership which, to say the least, has yet to come to understand that the free people of this world are fighting now for their very existence," he said.

He said that on his return to Ottawa he would submit a plan to the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress from which might be evolved a National Meat Packers' Union operating under a charter from the Congress.

Mrs. T. S. Magee Dies, 79 Years

Mrs. Thomas S. Magee, wife of Thomas S. Magee, former superintendent of civic relief, died Wednesday afternoon at her home at 10049 113 street. She was 79 years old.

Born in Woonsocket, Mass., she came to Edmonton more than 30 years ago. She was well known in Edmonton and was an active church worker.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, Thomas S. Magee, Jr., of Edmonton; Roland H., of Vancouver; and Harold L., of Toronto; and two daughters, Mrs. R. Sheridan, of Vancouver, and Mrs. G. Gillard, of Toronto.

Prayers will be said at 8 p.m. Friday at the funeral chapel and a funeral service will be held from St. Joseph's Cathedral at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. The Rev. Father W. J. Reynolds will officiate. Connelly and McKinley funeral home is in charge of arrangements. Burial will be in the Edmonton Catholic Cemetery.

University Staff Is Aiding Allies

"The staff of the university is working overtime producing new discoveries and aids for the Allies, such as anti-typhus serums and other serums, and new discoveries in food research and nutrition," Dr. Walter J. Fischel, author, traveller and lecturer said at a meeting in the Talmud Torah hall Wednesday evening on the role the Hebrew University on Mount Scopus, Palestine, is playing in the war.

Dr. Fischel has been in Palestine for the last 18 years. While in Edmonton Wednesday he also addressed the University of Alberta students in the afternoon.

The speaker said, in full recognition of its obligations and potentialities, the brain trust on Mount Scopus, has marshaled all its forces and mobilized all its resources for the war effort.

One-Cent Levy On Purple Gas Draws Protests

Protests against the present levy of one cent per gallon on "purple gas" used by farmers in agricultural machinery were voiced in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon by George MacLachlan (Ind.-Pembina) and C. A. Reynolds (Ind. S.C.-Stettler).

The tax is a "direct tax" by the province against the agricultural industry of Alberta," Mr. MacLachlan declared. Mr. Reynolds labelled it an unjust tax.

Debate on the levy came up when the Legislature, in committee of supply, took under consideration a vote of $59,902 in the provincial secretary's estimates, for expenditure under the Fuel Oil Tax Act.

PAID BY FARMERS

"Only the farmers are called on to pay this fuel oil tax," Mr. MacLachlan protested. "Gasoline is really a tool used in their work. No other class pays a tax on their tools."

Last year, the sum of $400,000 was raised by the tax, which constituted a direct levy by the province against the agricultural industry, Mr. MacLachlan went on. "I maintain this is without any justification. As far as I can see, only the farmer pays it."

He said that some years ago, a government member in reply to questions, stated the tax was maintained because the money was needed. "I don't dispute that," said the member, "But the government should go to where the money is, not to where it isn't."

Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary, reminded the House that the tax was brought in under the U.F.A. government. Administration expenses of the tax cost only 2½ per cent of the tax revenues he said. Ten men were employed to look after the dyes, maintain a highway check, and so on, said the minister.

CLAIMS TAX UNJUST

Mr. Reynolds, speaking next, said he would like to register his protests against "this unjust tax" He said it would be just as right to tax one farmer for the oats used to feed his horses, as it is to tax his neighbor for fuel oil used in farm machines. He recalled that the Alberta Farmers' Union, at its recent convention, had by resolution called on the government to drop the tax.

Mr. Hooke stated that the government was using one cent, in order to save the farmers six cents (the provincial tax on regular gasoline is seven cents per gallon, while the tax on gasoline for agricultural purposes is one cent per gallon.)

Percy McKelvey. (Ind.-Ponoka) said he had protested against the tax before. He contended that the government could use one-third of the present tax levied to pay all administration costs.

Mr. MacLachlan commented that even if a previous government had put the tax on the books, there is no justification for leaving it there, if it is unjust.

SPENDING ON ROADS

Replying to a suggestion that the levy collected should go back into roads for the benefit of farmers, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said that last year, the government had spent about $75 on roads in improvement districts, and an additional $400,000 in mixed or non-improvement districts, roads. "That is close to $1,000,000," said the minister.

Early in discussion of the provincial secretary's estimates, under debate on a vote of $7,046 for administration of the Accident Insurance Act, J. C. Mahaffy, K.C., (Ind., Calgary), suggested that the government take drastic immediate steps to have sickness and accident policies issued by companies more carefully scrutinized, in order to protect the public.

The Calgary member said he knew of one such policy which bordered on the fraudulent, and of others which were very vague.

Total vote passed for the secretary's department was $173,669, an increase of $5,037 over the $168,632 voted last year.

Coal Operators Ask Ottawa Help

Unless action is taken by the Dominion government to continue the subsidy on coal mined in the Edmonton area, or other measures to compensate coal operators here for increased production costs following increased wages to miners the mines in the Edmonton district would be closed on March 31.

Unless a satisfactory arrangement has been arrived at all miners in this district will be given notice on March 23 to terminate their employment on Mar. 31, it was stated by operators. More than 500 miners will be affected.

An authoritative source in Edmonton revealed Thursday that word has been received from Ottawa to the effect that an announcement will be made shortly regarding alternative proposals that should be effective as of April 1 in operation without the coal subsidy, which expires on March 31.

of Ireland. Doubtless the explanation of this miracle is that serpent-worship had flourished in the island, and Saint Patrick put an end to it. Nevertheless, it seems to be a fact that Ireland is free from snakes.

Even more fascinating is the story of the shamrock. The plant long had been considered sacred. In ancient Persia the priests had given it a prominent place in their rites.

It was an object of reverence among the Celtic tribes, and the Druids worshipped it as an emblem of the Trinid. Knowing this, Saint Patrick was quick to seize upon the trefoil leaf a Christian application. Preaching one morning he plucked a shamrock from the grass at his feet, and held it up to illustrate the Trinity: Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

Saint Patrick's day is indissolubly associated with Ireland, so much so, that the day often is referred to as "The Sevententh of Ireland." Four countries claim his birth, France, Scotland, England and Wales, although a cloud of tradition obscures him, it is probable that he was born near Dumbarton, Scotland in 387. His father, Calphurnius, was a Roman commander, while his mother was a niece of St. Martin of Tours.

When he was 16 years old, Saint Patrick was captured by pirates, who took him to Ireland. He was sold by the marauders to Michu, chief of County Antrim; and he spent the next six years as a swineherd, guarding his master's pigs. All the while he studied the Celtic language. Finally, he fled to the coast, and eventually made his way to the shores of Brittany.

As he was eager to become a missionary, Saint Patrick made his way to the monastery of his great-uncle, St. Martin, at Tours. There he spent 18 years studying and preparing for the church. Then he was made a bishop, and was sent to preach the gospel to the Celtic peoples because he could speak their tongue. As his footsteps may be traced in the places named after him, it is known that his travels took him through Britany, Cornwall Wales, Scotland and to Ireland.

The greater portion of his work was accomplished in Ireland. He landed in Wicklow County in 433 and first visited his former master Michu, to whom he paid his ransom. Then he converted not only Michu but his whole family. Then he went to Saint Patrick went about Ireland, preaching and teaching, building churches, organizing schools, and performing the miracles that have rung down through the centuries.

At first the Druids were his bitter foes, but in the long run, he destroyed their power, and even persuaded many of them to become Christians and to enter monasteries. Being skilled harpists and poets, they taught their art to the students. In due course, the harp became the badge of Ireland and still is embroidered in gold on the green flag of the country.

The long and valuable labors of Saint Patrick were concluded March 17, 493. He was buried in Downpatrick. On a shroud made for him by St. Brigid.

Gains Limelight in House

Talk of a provincial general election—which may start as a playful zephyr of "Madam Rumor" in one end of the province and end up a roaring gale of speculation at the other, leaving in its wake a tangled mass of "observers", politicians and the public—came into the limelight for a brief period in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon.

The election talk came in as usual, like a tiny soap bubble, shimmering and dancing, growing and growing. Then it burst—leaving nothing.

While the House was in committee of supply on Wednesday, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, termed debate on the Fuel Oil Tax appropriation "a hardy perennial, that generally comes up before an election."

SOME "EAGERNESS"

"Is there going to be an election?" George MacLachlan, (Ind.-Pembina) asked. Opposition heads all bobbed up, looking at Mr. Fallow.

"Oh, oh!" a member commented.

"That is apparently what you are afraid of," Mr. Fallow retorted.

Later, J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton) queried Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, if election supplies were on hand yet. The question came up when the King's Printer vote in the estimates was being discussed.

"No!" the treasurer answered.

Several members of the Independent party in the Assembly are said to be sure an election is in the offing, because an official photograph of members of the ninth Legislature was taken this week.

ONE MEMBER "SURE"

One Independent party member is so sure of an election this year he recently offered to lay a $10 bet on the subject.

Speculation was started once before at the present session, when Premier Ernest Manning, speaking in the budget debate, said, "if people object to us putting their interests and welfare before all other considerations, they will shortly have an opportunity to remove us . . ."

The premier told reporters later that the statement had no significance in regard to an impending election.

The present government, elected in 1940, has one more year of office before it is obliged to call an election. Regulations call for an election every five years, if not sooner.

700 U. S. Citizens Register Under Act

The American consulate has made public the figures regarding the registration of male Americans under the Selective Service Act. They show that, up to the present, over 700 registrants have been accepted in this district.

Under the latest regulation the registration of American males between the ages of 18 and 44 is being continued. It is not believed that there will be many more in the older age group but it is incumbent upon all American male citizens to register upon attaining the age of 18 years. Registrars have been appointed in various towns and information can be obtained from the consulate.

GIRLS

"Well . . . well . . . so they've been listening to Frank Sinatra again!"

Control of Work Is Essential Official Says

"The great majority of the public realize the necessity for regulation and control of employment in connection with total war effort and indicate readiness to comply with the regulations," G. D. MacVicar, Winnipeg, National Selective Service, regional enforcement officer for the prairies division stated here Thursday.

Mr. MacVicar is here on a routine inspection visit and is conferring with district enforcement officers.

"The policy of the enforcement division is to carry out in the first instance the functions of public relations officers and inform the public generally, both employers and employees of their duties and responsibilities under National Selective Service regulations," he said.

"There are, of course, a small minority defiant of public authority and make the enforcement branch necessary. There is, however, definitely an enforcement department under the regulations and prosecutions have been carried out successfully in a number of cases," he said.

MAIN CLASS

When asked what type of worker comprises this minority, Mr. MacVicar said, "The enforcement branch has had the most difficulty with 'conscientious objectors,' who have been granted postponement of military service on the grounds of religious convictions, and who have been turned over to the alternative service officer to be directed to alternative service work. These men have been directed to work in one of several forestry camps established by the Dominion government in co-operation with the provincial governments.

"In many cases conscientious objectors refuse to admit that there is any right or justice in their being made to do alternative service as a substitute to military service. It has been necessary to prosecute in a large number of cases."

Mr. MacVicar stressed the fact that these prosecutions would continue as long as there is an open flouting of the law by persons in this class.

Member Voices His Objections To Tax Notices

When the Legislature, in committee of supply Wednesday, was considering a vote of $26,050 for expenses of the provincial treasury's income tax branch, E. O. Duke, (S.C.-Pincher Creek-Crows Nest) criticized certain parts of a letter sent by the income tax branch to men now overseas with the armed forces, in respect of tax arrears owed.

Mr. Duke told of notices sent by the tax branch in 1939 to certain boys who had volunteered for service in that year. The notices have been coming to their homes ever since.

The amount owing in one case would not be more than $3.80, and in a second, $1.80, members were told.

DISTURBING RELATIVES

These letters are disturbing to the relatives of men who are overseas, said Mr. Duke. "It grieves my heart to know that I am a member of a government that has a department that sends such letters," he added.

"Come on over!" Angus J. Morrison (Lab.-Edson) called, from the opposition side of the House.

Such letters should wait with the tax department, until the boys return, Mr. Duke went on to say.

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, in reply, said that the superintendent of the income tax branch has no other method to send out the notices. "The department has no way of knowing that a boy is overseas," he stated, going on to add that if the people concerned would write in, the matter could be handled.

When Mr. Deane rose to reply in the course of the minister's remarks, Mr. Low said "I have the floor, and I am going to have my say!"

"I'll have my say, too!" Mr. Duke replied.

Mr. Low said that some people, instead of communicating with the department, went to their member, and "the member, silent, instead of taking the matter up at once.

WENT TO OFFICE

"I did not sit silent," Mr. Duke said, when he replied to Mr. Low that he had been to the office, and was told that it was our own provincial government branch that sent out the notices.

He decried the "cruel, heartless replies of the department" and asked, "Why not wait until the apology? Why not wait until the boys come home?—A lot of the boys never will come back."

During the discussion on the income tax branch, Mr. Low told members that since the provincial government income tax control had been returned to the Dominion government, a total of $1,225,000 has been collected and turned over to the federal government. Last year the amount was approximately $175,000. The arrears are the property of the province, when the present agreement regarding income tax collection is terminated.

E. E. Fair (C.C.F., Edmonton) asked how much the Dominion had collected in income tax in Alberta in the last year. Mr. Low said no such figures were on hand, but that the amount was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $18,000,000.

Before the Magistrate

Sever C. Moen, appearing before Magistrate J. A. Millar, K.C., Wednesday afternoon, pleaded guilty to driving at an unreasonable speed and was fined $15 or 21 days. Police said they estimated the speed of the accused at between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

* * *

Mrs. Sarah Rubin, charged with misleading wartime prices and regulations, pleaded guilty to certain household furnishings as belonging to herself, was fined $25 or 35 days. Furnishings for a room, which she had been set at $11 a week, furnished, or $38 a month, unfurnished, did not belong to the accused, nor to her husband, the magistrate was told. The accused was reminded that she had been convicted in 1942 for breach of leasehold regulations.

Adrian Robinson pleaded guilty to operating a truck not equipped with the proper type of muffler, but said he had been told not to use one, because gas was saved when no muffler was attached. He was fined $3 or five days and ordered to have the truck properly equipped.

* * *

W. Lin Chong, through an interpreter, said it was on account of vegetables in winter being very high, "and lobster, too", that he had changed his menu prices. A master-menu, prepared for the use of restaurant owners, specially states that no changes above the prices listed could be made without authority from the board. This had not been complied with said the crown. "I have been misunderstood," sighed Lin, as he was fined $10 or 14 days.

A. J. Forder, Edmonton, because he had no previous record, was given the option of fines or imprisonment, on two charges of theft from the International Bitumen company, Fort McMurry. The penalties, ordered to run consecutively, were $10 or 14 days on one count, and $20 or 30 days on the second, and were imposed by Magistrate A. L. Millar, K.C., Thursday.

Forder, the court was told by R.C.M.P., had been employed as a watchman for the complainant company, between February 1942 and March 1943.

In September 1942 it was stated, the accused stole a speculum. In another charge he was accused of stealing a set of wrenches, a wooden cupboard, a heater, windows, dishes and used lumber. He disposed of the articles and purchasers were said to have told police investigators that they had been sold to them by Forder.

Jack Dejager was found guilty of a dangerous driving charge and was fined $20 or 30 days. The charge was laid by city police after an accident which occurred March 8 at 102A avenue and 100 street.

Dried Eggs "Absolute Godsend" To Britons, Food Official Says

"Dried eggs have been an absolute godsend to us and on behalf of the people back home, I wish to express my thanks to you," John Peacock, director of egg supplies, British Ministry of Food, told a luncheon meeting of produce dealers and poultry officials at the Macdonald Wednesday.

"You have brought light and life into an otherwise drab diet," he continued . . . "and I think it is true to say that no product introduced in wartime has become so widely known, used and appreciated as dried eggs."

POSITION SUMMARIZED

Mr. Peacock, who was introduced by W. A. Brown, manager, Poultry Products section, Special Products Board, Ottawa, briefly summarized the egg and egg product position from 1939 onwards in the United Kingdom.

He pointed out that in 1939 Britain was "entirely dependent on imports for egg products for bakery and manufacturing purposes, and also imported approximately 45 per cent. of our annual consumption of eggs in shell."

At the outbreak of the war, he said, both the import and distribution trades were reorganized to meet the changed conditions and price control was immediately established.

The existing shell egg scheme, he said, was adopted in 1941, and under it, "1943 priority holders received three eggs per week and the ordinary consumer 30 eggs during the year."

In view of the importance of eggs as a source of vitamins, dried eggs have been a godsend, he added, and we are grateful to those who have helped develop the quality and standard of dried eggs, including Dr. Cook, of the National Research council; Dr. Charles Haynes, England, E. C. Bates Smith, and Mr. Brown and his colleagues.

DISTRIBUTION PLAN

Recognizing the importance of keeping up the morale of the people, Mr. Peacock said, the distribution set-up of dried eggs arranges for serving first, bakery and manufacturing purposes, then caterers and industrial canteens, and finally the public by packaging dried eggs in small five ounce packages.

Bakery needs were taken first, he said, because it must be realized that the egg country is the British tea habit is general and a slice of cake particularly for girls working in offices, is a substantial part of their food from the time they leave in the morning until they return home at night."

The importance of eggs for industrial canteens, he continued, is better emphasized "when you consider the effect of providing canteen service on factory output, where staff are working long hours, travelling under difficult conditions and doing civilian duties."

Although the people of Britain are living on a sufficient but monotonous diet, Mr. Peacock pointed out, "our breakfast table has no fresh fruit, bacon is limited to four ounces per person per week, butter is rationed at two ounces per week and a pint of milk a day is issued for a household of three.

poultry to Great Britain and the United States.

This, he said, would assist in obtaining the release of stroage space needed for further expanding dried egg production in Canada.

Among those attending the luncheon were D. E. King, provincial deputy minister of trade and industry; C. W. Traves, provincial poultry commissioner; A. F. Darnell, Dominion egg and poultry products inspector, province of Alberta; Ernest McGinnis, provincial market commissioner, Calgary; Columbia W. Longfellow, chairman of egg and poultry committee, B.C., section of the Canadian Produce Association; G. R. Wilson, Dominion senior poultry products inspector, British Columbia.

OTHERS ATTENDING

C. C. Holman, Southern Alberta director, Canadian Produce Association, Calgary; R. Stanley, Edmonton; A. E. Millard, general manager, Swift Canadian Co., Ltd., Edmonton; W. Esdon, Canadian Egg Products, Saskatoon, Sask.

Arrangements on behalf of the northern branch, western section, Canadian Produce Association, were made by F. J. Hefferan, produce manager, Woodland Dairy and president of the Alberta Poultry Federation. F. C. Wells was chairman.

Musical Club Scores Triumph In Pantomime

The curtain rose to a full house at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at the opening performance of the pantomime, Dick Whittington, sponsored by the Lyric Musical Club, under the direction of Mrs. Peter McSporran, which took place in the Westglen auditorium.

It was an enthusiastic audience, and, although the curtain didn't come down until 11:30 p.m., few left the auditorium before the end, thus testifying to the attractive qualities of the production.

Nan Bower portraying the character of Dick Whittington, gave a finished performance, and kept the attention of the audience spellbound. Her singing was a delight at all times.

The "Cat" portrayed by Jack Gerrard was very well done, and was enthusiastically applauded by the audience.

The Carrie Sueds and Jimmie Dent comedy team kept up the lighter side of the story, and brought forth much laughter.

Mrs. Peter McSporran gave an excellent performance conducted with vitality, assurance and authority.

OTHERS IN CAST

Others in the cast were two fairies, Lillian Blasius, Margaret Wild; fairy queen, Kay O'Farrell; two coastguard girls, Evelyn Grills, Winnie Mosher; Ben the drover, Jack Delaney; Thomas, the footman, Joe Le Brun; cook, Madge Stanley; Mr. Fitzwarren, Jack Delaney; Mrs. Fitzwarren, Flo Patterson; Alice Fitzwarren, Anne Patterson. Dame Homely, Miss Gertrude Buchanan; the captain, Mary Taylor; sailor, Jimmie Dent.

Soloists were Floy Haggeth, Beryl McLeod, Una Palmer. Members of the Juneau School of Dancing gave a delightful performance, in the ballet numbers.

The costumes were gay and colorful and very cleverly made up. Mrs. Dearing, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Stanley were in charge of the costumes.

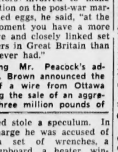

The chorus dancing was under the direction of Mrs. Blasius, making by Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pilcher; scenery by Pte. Merideith (Bunny) Evans; property and stage manager was Mr. Ford, and dramatic director, Leslie Pilcher.

Members of the armed forces were ushers.—M.M.

Third Session of B.C. House Is Prorogued

VICTORIA, March 16.—(CP)—The third session of British Columbia's 20th Legislature was prorogued late yesterday. The session began Feb. 1.

The house passed unanimously yesterday a resolution asking Labor Minister G. S. Pearson to launch an inquiry into domestic servants' working conditions and wages in an effort to establish a schedule of standards and remedies that it possible to pass legislation governing the occupation.
